International Theatre Institute ITI
The Director General's Report
November 2014 – April 2017

Foreword by the President ITI and the Director General of ITI

Dear ITI Members, dear Colleagues, dear friends, ladies and gentlemen

With great pleasure we present the "Director General's Report November 2014 to April 2017 to you. It covers the multitude of activities that Centres, Committees, Regional Councils and individual ITI members have organized or have participated in. The report covers the period from the last Congress in Yerevan until the Congress in Segovia

Since the Congress in Yerevan, two and a half years have passed. For this publication 47 Centres, more than ever have sent in their reports, 4 Regional Councils and 14 Committees, Forums, Networks and Project Groups, also more than ever, have reported. The diverse richness of cultural activities is amazing.

The period since the last Congress has been intense. The headquarters of ITI, the "home" of the General Secretariat, relocated to Shanghai and continued to have an office at UNESCO in Paris. This meant a lot of changes, not only in the change of personnel, but also in catching up with issues that should and will bring ITI into a better future.

Unfortunately, the political situation in Brazil has made it impossible to hold the Congress in Manaus. The government of Brazil blocked the finances that were budgeted for the ITI World Congress. Despite all the actions from the Mayor of Manaus and of the Executive Council Members, along with the eminent writer and playwright Marcio Souza, nothing could be changed. The Executive Board had one preparation meeting in Manaus, the General Secretariat members went twice to help the Manaus team to prepare for the Congress. The enthusiasm and dedication of the Manaus team was extremely strong.

Well, with the change of government in Brazil, it became even more difficult to get the funding. That is why the decision that the Executive Council had to take was necessary. With no budget, the needed security for the delegates and artists could not be guaranteed.

So that was the sad end of a promising development for a congress. The work of our friends in Manaus: the Mayor, Marcio Souza and his team is very appreciated. We would like to express our gratitude to all of them.

Immediately after the cancellation of the Congress in the Manaus, the new ITI Centre in Spain approached the Director General and the Executive Council. Alberto Garcia and Luis Llerena wanted to help and give new hope to the members of ITI. They proposed to hold the next Congress in the city of Segovia. After many discussions between the Spanish Centre and the Executive Council, the decision was made to hold the 35th ITI World Congress there. A Congress Task Force was created and together with the help of the General Secretariat, the Executive Council, the Spanish Centre and the Municipality of Segovia a culturally diverse Congress has been prepared.

The General Secretariat put the interim reports of the Centres and Committees on the new website and asked al the Regional Councils, Centres and Committees to update their report for this, the final publication.

Please browse through the report and read what is of interest to you. Even by just looking at the pictures, you will get the impression that ITI is developing, that ITI is going in the right direction and that ITI more and more is reaching its artistic, educational and humanistic goals.

If ITI can do what is written in the vision, mission and goals, then it is because of all the active ITI Members who are utilizing the values that the performing arts present to an individual, the essential values that are important for the artists, the audiences and the people.

UNESCO and ITI's vision of mutual understanding and peace are needed today, more than ever. A world that is full of culture, of a diversity of cultures and of inspirational expressions of one's own culture – this is what ITI and its members are striving for.

We would like to thank each and all of you for participating in ITI. We, all of us, are doing it for the benefit of the performing arts and the people. Your work is highly appreciated, now and in the future.

Let's continue to work for these goals - even stronger.

With warm regards

Vision and Mission of ITI

Vision & Mission

Vision

The International Theatre Institute ITI envisions a world that puts strong value and importance on the Performing Arts. It is a world in which performing artists are able to work and present their creative ideas to audiences. It is a world in which local, regional and national authorities, sponsors and donors invest in the Performing Arts and fund organizations, institutions, and artists in the field of theatre, dance and music theatre in all their diverse forms. It is a world in which education in the techniques of the Performing Arts and related subjects are offered at all levels of education – from primary to high school and university. It is a world in which the Performing Arts – especially theatre – are used in communities, for development, for mutual understanding and for building peace in conflict zones all over the world. It is a world in which diverse cultures and expressions are safeguarded and innovation is promoted.

Mission

The International Theatre Institute ITI is the world's largest performing arts organization. Founded in 1948 by theatre and dance experts and UNESCO, it strives for a society in which performing arts and their artists thrive and flourish. ITI advances UNESCO's goals of mutual understanding and peace and advocates for the protection and promotion of cultural expressions, regardless of age, gender, creed or ethnicity. It works to these ends internationally and nationally in the areas of performing arts education, international exchange and collaboration, and youth training.

Vision and Mission of ITI

Goals

Goals

The purpose of the International Theatre Institute is to promote the international exchange of knowledge and practice in theatre arts in order to consolidate peace and friendship between peoples, to deepen mutual understanding and increase creative co-operation between all people in the theatre arts.

To achieve this purpose, ITI shall:

- encourage activities and creation in the field of the live performing arts (Drama, Dance, Music Theatre);
- aim at an enlargement of the existing collaboration between performing arts disciplines and organizations, both national and international;
- establish international offices and foster the establishment of National Centres of the ITI in all countries;
- collect documents, disseminate all types of information and issue publications in the realm of the performing arts;
- co-operate actively in the development of the Theatre of Nations and encourage and co-ordinate the organization of theatrical congresses, workshops and meetings of experts, as well as festivals, exhibitions and competitions, both on regional and interregional levels, in co-operation with its members;
- defend the free development of the performing arts and contribute to the protection of the rights of performing arts professionals.

To achieve this within ITI, the member Centres of the organization shall be guided by the principles of mutual respect for the national traditions of each country. (Charter of ITI)

ITI Core Values

Inspiration

"Inspire" means: a) to make someone want to do something; b) to give, someone an idea about what to do or create; c) to cause, something to happen or be created.

Inclusiveness

"Inclusive" means: open to everyone, not limited to certain people.

Collaboration

The word "collaborate" means to work jointly with others, especially in an intellectual endeavour.

Transparency

"Transparent" means a) free from pretence or deceit; b) easily detected or seen through; c) readily understood; d) characterized by visibility or accessibility of information especially concerning business practices

The new ITI Headquarters in Shanghai, at 1332 Xinzha Road, Jing'an.

The relocation of the “headquarters” of ITI from Paris to Shanghai was not easy. This was to be expected. Nevertheless, it proves that the Executive Council and the General Assembly approved a courageous and correct decision.

UNESCO

The address of ITI is still in Paris – 1 Rue Miollis, 75015 Paris, France. All the mail that is sent to this address is forwarded to the new headquarters in China – 1332 Xinzha Road, Jing'an, Shanghai, China 200040. To keep a small office at UNESCO and to work there during meetings with UNESCO officials and when ITI is organizing an international event in Paris - such as the International Dance Day, 29 April 2016, - is showing that this “pied-à-terre” (secondary “home”) is needed and essential to keep strong and good relations with UNESCO.

The office is no longer in the old provisory building of UNESCO but in the UNESCO Bonvin Building, on the 9th floor, room 9.44, Paris, France.

Relocation

At the end of March 2015, the old rooms and the archive were emptied. The archive of ITI has been donated to the prestigious “Bibliothèque Nationale de France BNF” where documents can be accessed by anyone who is interested in the history of ITI. Some of the books were donated to a Theatre Library in Paris and to the Burkina Faso Centre of ITI. The rest of the books were transported to Shanghai. Also, all the minutes of the Executive Council Sessions and all the Reports and General Assembly minutes that went to the BNF were copied and are to be found in the new headquarters for reference as well.

Provisory Office

From 8 April to the end of the year 2015, the headquarters were in a temporary office at 555 Haifang Road, in Jing'an District at the home of Modern Drama Valley, an organization whose purpose is to bring theatre to people. When we entered the office, everything was prepared by the Cultural Bureau of Jing'an District - the office space, the desks, the computers and printers, phones, a coffee machine and a meeting space. ITI could start to work immediately. ITI did start to work hard and organized together with the Shanghai Theatre Academy the main event of International Dance Day in Shanghai, on 29 April 2015 which included a Conference on Dance with panellists from France, Spain, Cyprus and China, at the Shanghai Theatre Academy.

Grand Opening of the New Building

On the occasion of the 141st Executive Council, on 4 November 2015, the new office at 1332 Xinzha Road was inaugurated with Chinese and international artists in the new building. The inauguration was scheduled in the empty building, as the renovation of the premises had not been started and the furniture was not ready. As an empty building is an ideal space for performances, exhibitions, presentations and the gathering of artists, colleagues and friends, the General Secretariat decided to use the space and celebrate with all Executive Council Members, young

Chinese dragons and lions, a bombastic ribbon cutting and a lot of smiling faces made that late afternoon a most memorable event. Communication & Visibility Comments

The ITI Congress Website that was prepared for the planned Congress in Manaus.

Comments by the DG

Communication and visibility are key ingredients for making ITI strong and for making ITI known, both locally and internationally.

To bring information about ITI to performing arts professionals and everybody else is a never-ending task. It has to be done over and over. To strengthen the network, ITI needs to improve the communication and visibility within ITI (internally) and to all the professionals of the performing arts and people (externally).

Improving the communication internally

The task to improve the communication internally has suffered a bit due to change of staff, due to a lack of personnel and due to the time it took to relocate. Currently, ITI is undertaking strong efforts to inform all networks with important information through the "Newsletter for ITI Members", the ITI Website, the "ITI Congress Newsletter", and the ITI Congress Website. By the time of the Congress, there should be a new ITI Website and a new Congress Website.

Huge work has been undertaken to update the Directory of ITI. All Centres, Cooperating Members and Committees have been contacted to update their addresses, and the new Directory is now updated and online. The Directory is also included at the end of this Report.

More work will be done on the ITI email lists for Centres, Cooperating Members, Committees, and Partner Organizations.

Improving the communication externally

At the moment, the headquarters of ITI is communicating to everyone over the "old" website. Information about national events, World Theatre Day, International Dance Day, the Calls for productions and workshops for the Congress and for the Dance Symposium happening at the Congress, for competitions, calls for productions for festivals and many other issues have been published on the website. The ITI website is an effective information medium and ITI will continue to use this channel to communicate to the world.

What will be done to improve the communication externally is to create an "ITI Newsletter" that is going to all who are interested in the performing arts and in ITI. This general ITI Newsletter will be launched soon.

More than two thousand addresses that ITI collected in the recent past will be included and will receive the new Newsletter.

Visibility

To increase the visibility of ITI for everybody, the ITI Centres are playing a very important role. This is done by the multitude of actions that the Centres are undertaking for their events, conferences, festivals, World Theatre Day and International Dance Day celebrations. All kinds of events where the name ITI appears are assisting in increasing the popularity of ITI, and there are no limits to this: posters, flyers, banners, trailers, digital advertisements, films, and as the Mexican Centre has shown, also with the ITI logo on lottery tickets.

It is clear that ITI is mainly an organization for professionals. It is also clear that performing arts professionals are doing their performances, festivals, events, etc. for the audience, for persons of any age and any walk of life. World Theatre Day and International Dance Day are reaching millions of people with their respective messages. These messages act like wake-up calls for those who are not aware of the importance of the performing arts.

For inviting one of the Ambassadors, please write to the General Secretariat for more information.

How the first World Theatre Ambassadors were selected

The World Theatre Ambassador project was started in 2008 at a meeting in Zagreb/Croatia where Valery Khasanov, Raija-Sinikka Rantala, Zeljka Turcinovic, Vidar Eggertson and Tobias Biancone were present. There was a call to Centres for proposals. A Centre could only propose members of another country. This enabled the working group to get only internationally relevant personalities.

The goal behind the World Theatre Ambassadors

The main idea behind the nomination of these World Theatre Ambassadors was to attract extraordinary theatre personalities to ITI and get their assistance for the promotion of theatre globally, nationally and locally. Some of them are invited to international events.

New World Theatre Ambassadors

If you would like to nominate a distinguished theatre personality, please send the name, with biography and information about his/her achievements to the Director General ITI so that it can be discussed at an Executive Council Session.

Comments by the DG

It might be unclear how ITI handles the branding and patronage of international, regional and national projects.

National and Regional Projects

If there are events such as festivals, conferences, round tables and workshops, organised by a Centre, the Centre should use the ITI logo to promote it. If a national or significant event that is organised by a third party would like to have the patronage of the ITI, the event should request the logo from the respective Centre.

The same applies if a Regional Council organises an event: they can decide whether they want to use the ITI worldwide logo or not, and proceed to do so if they wish.

International Events

If a Centre would like to organize an international event, it is up to the Centre whether to use the Centre's logo or the international logo. If an international event is organized by a party not connected to ITI (Centres, Committees, Forums or Networks), and wishes to have the patronage of ITI, it may apply to the General Secretariat for permission to use the logo. In such a case, the General Secretariat will inform the relevant Centre and the Executive Council of the request. International events can only receive patronage when the quality of the event is evident.

International Projects

International Projects that request the approval of the General Assembly may obtain such approval provided they are open to all ITI Centres and members. For example through an open call for participation. Sometimes, these requests are based on the fact that through the approval of the General Assembly, these international projects will get (better) funding. If an international project only requires ITI's patronage for such purposes, there is no need for the approval of the General Assembly. The General Secretariat may grant such patronage on condition that the event does not compromise ITI's vision, values and partnerships.

Patronage by ITI

Use of the ITI Logo

All Centres, Cooperating Members and Committees are entitled to use the ITI logo to promote their work. If it is not already available, Centres and Committees may request the logo for their Centre or for their Committee from the General Secretariat.

Visibility

Collaboration, Patronage, Use of Logos

Use of the UNESCO Logo for an Event

There are ITI Centres who have the right to use the logo of UNESCO or use the name of UNESCO in their name. If that is the case they can and should use it.

If a Centre, which does not have this permission from UNESCO, would like to have the patronage of UNESCO, it is advised that they ask the National Commission of UNESCO for such permission. In general, UNESCO will agree as ITI is the official partner of UNESCO for the performing arts.

If there is a request to use the UNESCO logo for an international event, it is advisable to get in touch with the General Secretariat ITI for further guidance.

Pictures of "ITI info" published by the Russian Centre of ITI

Comments by the DG

Two outstanding international printed publications have become a tradition within ITI. "The World of Theatre" is an initiative from the newly-named ITI Publications Committee (formerly, the Communication Committee). During the 35th ITI World Congress, the new edition will be presented by the Committee. The other publication is "ITI Info" - published and distributed by the Russian Centre of ITI - now available in a larger format, presenting national and international events.

Hopefully we will be able to give you more information about which Centres are publishing books. The best way to make sure that they are found in future DG Reports is to send us a copy to the Shanghai address.

As a side note: Despite the statements that the book and bookshops are to be extinct soon, the bookshops in some countries in Europe and even in Shanghai are flourishing and their sales statistics are up, while famous online sellers are experiencing a downward trend.

The Future of ITI Publications

Should ITI stop publishing books? Should ITI just start publishing ebooks? So far the driving force behind all the publications has come from the publishing Project Group called ITI Publications Committee (IPC). For me it is not a proposition of "either-or" but another "and".

But following the tradition of such endeavours, it should be left to the members of this Project Group to decide the future of the publication. If they take into consideration a) for whom they are publishing it (the target groups) and b) what reading attitudes those target groups are showing, then I am sure that they will find the right way for the future worldwide publications of ITI.

Awards and prizes are good ways to stimulate the performing arts and performing arts practitioners. They are most welcomed by those who receive them. They are a good way of acknowledging the quality of a work, the achievement of a person, and even the innovative ideas that flourish in the field of the performing arts. They seem to covet an award that improves the popularity and status of the winner – a good example is the Prix Goncourt in France where the winner gets a monetary award of about 10 Euros, but due to the prestige of the prize, the winners find their books in the bestsellers' lists which increases their income and celebrity.

The Music Theatre NOW Award and the Uchimura Prize are the best known competitions connected to ITI. In 2015, the Philippine Centre organized an international Playwriting Competition on the theme of "Climate Change" which made headlines all over the world. At the Yerevan ITI World Congress the General Assembly accepted the Ellen Stewart Award to be taken under the patronage of ITI.

On the following pages all the four awards are presented to you.

Worldwide Competition for New Opera and Music Theatre announces Winners – Press Release 2016

„The Music Theatre NOW Network of the International Theatre Institute ITI announced the winners of their world-wide competition Music Theatre NOW today. The main goal of this unique event, which is produced by the German Centre of the world’s largest organization for the performing arts, is to promote exchange among artists and presenters of opera and music theatre.

14 first productions of new works, which were realized anywhere in the world since July 2012 were selected by a jury made up of internationally renowned theatre makers from five continents: Brett Bailey (South African playwright, designer and director), Guy Coolen (artistic director of the international opera festival ‘Operadagen’ in Rotterdam), Sara Joan Fang (music producer for Singapore’s national performing arts Centre ‘Esplanade - Theatres on the Bay’), as well as Ana Lara (Mexican composer and founder of the festival ‘Música y Escena’) and Joseph V. Melillo (executive producer of the ‘Brooklyn Academy of Music’).

Operas and music theatre large and small, works made for large opera houses, or works created for tiny venues, which are aesthetically innovative and reflect new developments in this genre from the various corners of the world, have been chosen.

An additional four works were chosen for a special mention as their productions show a valuable approach for the work with music and theatre that should be acknowledged.

Music Theatre NOW welcomed 450 participants from 54 countries. The 18 artistic teams will be invited to a special meeting, which will be held at the Operadagen Rotterdam from May 22nd through May 26th 2016.

There the selected artists will have the opportunity to present their work in the form of lectures. Winners also have the chance to receive invitations for guest performances. Partner institutions, such as the Shanghai Dramatic Arts Centre, China’s largest theatre, or the Operadagen Rotterdam, plan to invite winning productions in the 2016/2017 theatre season. These winners will be announced during the meeting.

ITI welcomes curators, academics, artists and presenters to attend the Music Theatre NOW meeting. The presentations in Rotterdam are also open to the general public and the final program were announced in January.

This 3rd edition will coincide with Classical:NEXT - a global meeting for all art music innovators that will take place directly after MTN.”

Ellen Stewart (1919 to 2011)
Theatre Ambassador of ITI

Nube Sandoval

Bernardo Rey

On February 24, 2016 the Ellen Stewart International Award Executive Committee announced the selection of Colombian artists Bernardo Rey and Nube Sandoval as winners of the 2016 Ellen Stewart International Award. During the selection process, over 36,000 individuals from around the world voted for their preferred nominees and left hundreds of comments on the Award's website www.ellenstewartaward.net.

Rey and Sandoval were in a remote rain forest in Colombia when they got the news. During the ceremony at La MaMa ETC in New York, they joined the celebration via live video feed from Colombia. They were in the process of working with a local community of young women, who performed a traditional song for audiences in both New York and Colombia. As result of the Award, Sandoval and Rey will be guests at the International Theatre Institute World Congress in Segovia in July 2017, receive an artistic residency at La MaMa Umbria in Italy to create a new artistic work in June, the financial and production support to present the new work at the Spoleto Festival of 2 Worlds in July, and subsequently at La MaMa Experimental Theatre Club in New York.

The work they propose to develop in Spoleto, "The Echo of Invisibles" focuses on the issue of migration and refugees in Europe and the Middle East. It advances the work of Sandoval and Rey around physical actions, poetic images and versatile scenery integrating multimedia with live singing and music. Sandoval and Rey directed the Theatrical Laboratory of psycho-social rehabilitation with refugee victims of torture in Rome and continue to work in Colombia in social contexts of high vulnerability. Their methodology, Theater as Bridge, is based on the rescue, stimulation and enhancement of artistic skills of participants who are mostly young refugees from Africa, Afghanistan and Iraq.

As part of the selection process 11 Finalists were shortlisted on the Ellen Stewart Award website: Anna Newell from Replay Theatre Company (Belfast – Northern Ireland), Berith Danse from Theatre Embassy International (Amsterdam – The Netherlands), Dynamis Theatre Company (Rome – Italy), Faisal Malik and Nouman Mehmood from Thespianz Theatre (Karachi – Pakistan), Mammalian Diving Reflex (Toronto – Canada), Masrah Ensemble (Beirut – Lebanon), Nube Sandoval and Bernardo Rey (Bogotá – Colombia), Ping Chong (New York – USA), Sanjoy Ganguly (Kolkata – India), Stephanie Ansin & Fernando Calzadilla (Miami – USA), Torange Yeghiazarian & Golden Thread Productions (San Francisco – USA). In approximately 40 days more than thirty six thousand people voted for their favourite artists and left comments on the website.

The artists that received most online votes were Faisal Malik and Nouman Mehmood of Thespianz Theatre, from Pakistan, with over fourteen thousands votes. The Ellen Stewart International Award Executive Committee made its final determination by considering the achievements of the artists, the project proposed for the residency and also the public votes and comments.

We are thrilled that so many people visited the website (www.teatrocenit.org) and learned about the Finalists' extraordinary work with younger community members. This Award, we hope, will inspire others to follow in their footsteps. We want to build on Ellen's determination to involve more young people in the transformative power of theatre, music, dance and the live performing arts.

Uchimura Prize

The Uchimura Prize was inaugurated in 1992 on the initiative of the Japanese Centre of ITI in honour of its former president, Naoya Uchimura, the Japanese playwright who devoted his life to promoting mutual knowledge and understanding of theatre throughout the world. Since 2015 the prize has been awarded and funded by the Japanese Centre and has become a biannual award. It aims to stimulate and encourage initiatives taken by groups or individual artists outside Japan, leading to an action or project bearing some relation to Japanese theatre.

Five Modern No Plays, directed by Mateja Kolečnik, Slovenia

The 21st Uchimura Prize has been awarded to the performance "Five Modern No Plays" (Kindai Nogaku-Shu / Moderne Nô Drame) by Yukio Mishima, directed by Mateja Kolečnik, Slovenia.

Announcement of the 22nd Uchimura Prize

The 22nd Uchimura Prize will be promoted through the ITI Channels: Website, ITI Newsletter, etc.

Climate Change Playwriting Competition

The winner of the 2015 International Theatre Institute Global Playwriting Contest was “A Continental Divide” by Barbara Anderlič of Slovenia. The play was adjudged the best among 31 entries from 14 countries, namely, Argentina, Bulgaria, Canada, France, Fujairah, India, Iran, Malta, Nigeria, Philippines, Slovenia, UK, USA, and Vietnam.

Honourable mention was made of the play “Songs for Sandy: Reflections on a Super Storm,” by Bryan Boodhoo of Canada.

The other finalists were: “Angry Angels” by Ivan Dimitrov of Bulgaria, “Endless Summer: A Collection of Theatrical Outbursts” by EllaRose Chary of the USA, “Planet Hospice” by Daniel Kinch of the USA, and “When the Music Stops” by Chris Bush of the UK.

The Competition was created by the Earthsavers / UNESCO Artist for Peace, under the direction of Cecile Guidote Alvarez, and within the framework of the International Theatre Institute, as part of the worldwide celebration of the 70th anniversary of UNESCO.

The Competition was undertaken in partnership with the United Nations International Strategy for Disaster Reduction (UNISDR), headed by Margaretha Wahlstrom, the UN Special Representative of Secretary-General for Disaster Risk Reduction.

UNISDR provided the Prize (5000 USD) awarded on 5 December 2015 at a side event of the 21st United Nations Conference of the Parties meeting in Paris i.e. the Tri-continental Intercultural, Interfaith, South-South Dialogue on Decarbonization for Defying Disasters.

The Competition was organized through the Philippine Centre of the International Theatre Institute, its CIDC social action network, in consultation with UNESCO Director-General Irina Bokova, the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) Executive Secretary Christiana Figueres, the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) Executive Director Achim Steiner, and the Climate Institute Advisory Board headed by Philippine Climate Change Commissioner, Heherson Alvarez.

The international jury was chaired by Philippine playwright Isagani R. Cruz. The jury members were Tobias Biancone, Director General of ITI and Andrea Zagorski, President of the ITI International Playwrights’ Forum.

The winning play, which dwells on the effects of floods and drought on human beings, has had a world premiere broadcast and global webcast on “Radyo Balintataw,” a programme on Philippine radio station DZRH, broadcast on Dec. 6, 2015.

Barbara K. Anderlic

Barbara K. Anderlič was born in Ljubljana, Slovenia, and grew up in Austria where she studied translation studies (English, Spanish, Slovene, German).

She has worked on numerous theatre productions – be it on or off stage – as a producer, playwright, director, and actress. Her acting credits include “Talk to Me Like the Rain and Let Me Listen” and “The Vagina Monologues.”

She performed in Nick Yu’s “Drift” at the Shanghai International Contemporary Theatre Festival in 2010 and the Edinburgh Festival Fringe in 2011.

Interested in other fields of art she served as an audience jury member at the Viennale ,12 film festival and worked as a volunteer at Chobi Mela VII International Photography Festival Dhaka in Bangladesh. Sticking to South Asia, she then conducted a workshop focusing on Spanish-language theatre for Thespo 15 in Mumbai, India.

In 2014 she was part of the theatre translation forum at the Wiesbaden Theaterbiennale and in 2015 she was invited to the theatre translation workshop Theatre Transfer in Avignon. In November 2014, she received the exil-DramatikerInnenpreis awarded by the Wiener Wortstätten for her play “Von Schablonen und Romanfiguren” in which two minor characters from Hemingway’s “A Farewell to Arms” get put centre stage.

She is currently based in Berlin and her latest short monologue “Kleingeld” will be performed at the beginning of November in Vienna.

ITI Member Card

After some technical and postal problems, the machine that creates the Member Card is back in Europe and cards can be ordered by Centres and Cooperating Members – only – by sending the list of members to be awarded Member Cards (with) in an Excel spreadsheet to membercard@iti-worldwide.org.

Please do not order single Member Cards; rather, collect and submit a list of at least ten (insert a number that is preferred). The Cards and the Year Stickers will only be sent to the addresses of Centres and Cooperating Members, not to individual members. As it is a Card for professionals the following data should be sent:

First Name LASTNAME
Profession or Position in ITI
Name of ITI Centre

All the Centres and Cooperating Members will receive the sample Excel spreadsheet to be sent to the above address. If it is not present, please ask for it over the above email.

The Member Card is used by some ITI Centres and Cooperating Members. It opens the doors to reduced ticket prices or free tickets at Festivals and venues. Some don't use it. In some ITI Centres, the Card is given to people, in others it is sold. In some ITI Centres the Member Card is used as an identification for solidarity in the performing arts community. Should it continue? Here are answers to frequently asked questions concerning the Member Card, its meaning and its use:

What is the ITI Member Card?

An ITI member card, as the name indicates, is a card individual or institutional members of ITI can benefit from as part of their membership in the organization.

What is the Card good for?

- Provides privileged access to venues: depending on the countries, the ITI member card allows its holder to access performing arts venues and festivals with a discount or for free, at the discretion of the venue/festival.
- Increases ITI visibility: the card increases the attractiveness and visibility of ITI and allows theatre professionals, as well as students, to benefit from the ITI worldwide network.
- Fosters appreciation of the performing arts: the card gives an impetus to the performing arts by encouraging visits to performing arts venues and festivals in one's own country and abroad.
- Promotes performing arts venues and festivals: the card further promotes those venues and festivals which allow the use of the card with a link on the Centre's page and on the ITI website.

Who can obtain the Card?

- All board members and personnel of an ITI Centre or Cooperating Member
- All individual members of an ITI Centre
- All members belonging to an organizational or institutional member of an ITI Centre
- Donors and Sponsors of an ITI Centre or of the General Secretariat ITI
- Performing arts students in a Centre's country

Membership

ITI Member Card

(through a special agreement with the Centre)

- Centres that have no individual or organizational membership structure may find a way to issue cards for performing arts professionals and students
- Leaders of ITI partner organizations
- In countries without a Centre or a Cooperating Member the General Secretariat or a Centre of a neighbouring country may give out the cards

Do venues and festivals accept the Card?

- The promotion of the card is the responsibility of the ITI Centres and the General Secretariat. ITI Centres are responsible for the acceptance of the card in their area or country.
- Each venue or festival is free to regulate the reduction of the price or free entrance. The "right" of ITI members to free or reduced entry to venues worldwide is not a given.
- This privilege depends on the goodwill of the institutions concerned as well as the successful promotion by the National Centres in the countries where the venues are located.
- Experience has shown that the card is accepted by many theatres, even if there is no ITI Centre in the country. Good advice to members will be to try to use the card at all times to raise public awareness.

Where can you already use it?

- The card is in use in Bangladesh, Burkina Faso, Cameroon, Croatia, Cyprus, Denmark, Germany, Greece, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Serbia, Slovenia, Sudan, Sweden, Switzerland, and others.
- We suggest that you try to use the card everywhere, thus helping to spread the information, and work through your Centre to ensure its worldwide acceptance.

Incentives for performing arts venues

- ITI Centres & Cooperating Members should continuously promote the card to performing arts venues and festivals to encourage acceptance of the card
- To encourage acceptance, the ITI worldwide website will have a link to the ITI Centre where there will be a list of all venues and festivals accepting the card with links to their websites

- The General Secretariat can issue an ITI card logo sticker to centres for distribution to participating venues and festivals. It is a kind of "quality label" for venues to use the ITI logo

What if theatre/dance performances are free in my country?

- In countries where venues and festivals do not charge an entrance fee, the card is only of interest for those members who travel abroad.

When can I receive the Card?

- Cards for new members can be requested from the Secretariat on a continuous basis.
- Contact information of theatres accepting the membership card can be provided on a continuous basis.
- For further information write to:
membercard@iti-worldwide.org

Above: Krzysztof Warlikowski with the DG, President of ITI and guests of the event in Fujairah/UAE.

Below: Krzysztof Warlikowski with the President and with the DG.

The Message

The message of Krzysztof Warlikowski from Poland was very well received by the theatre community all over the world. It was translated into numerous languages Die Anzahl sollte auf der Website zu finden sein. and the original version and its translations are available on the website www.world-theatre-day.org that ITI has created especially for this day.

Worldwide Celebrations

World Theatre Day was celebrated all over the world with events, message readings, award ceremonies, etc. by ITI Centres and other organizations.

World Theatre Day in Fujairah

The main event of World Theatre Day, with the message author Krzysztof Warlikowski, was held in Fujairah/United Arab Emirates. On invitation of Mohamed Saif Al-Afkham, President of ITI worldwide, theatre professional of the Gulf countries, the United Arab Emirates and from the world were attending the celebration in Dibba, the place where the Fujairah International Monodrama Festivals are held. After the introduction by the president and the DG a film produced for the event about the message author and his work was shown. The author read his message for World Theatre Day in English, followed by a local theatre play.

The event was well documented in the media in the United Arab Emirates and by an article about Krzysztof Warlikowski and the event in "The Stage" written by Nick Awde who attended the celebration in Fujairah.

World Theatre Day 2015 – Message

World Theatre Day Message 2015

by Krzysztof Warlikowski

Polish Stage Director

The true masters of theatre are most easily found far from the stage, and they generally have no interest in theatre as a machine for replicating conventions and reproducing clichés. They search out the pulsing source, the living currents that tend to bypass performance halls and the throngs of people bent on copying some world or another. We copy instead of create worlds that are focused or even reliant, on debate with an audience, on emotions that swell below the surface. And actually there is nothing that can reveal hidden passions better than the theatre.

Most often I turn to prose for guidance. Day in and day out I find myself thinking about writers who nearly one hundred years ago described prophetically but also restrainedly the decline of the European gods, the twilight that plunged our civilization into a darkness that has yet to be illumined. I am thinking of Franz Kafka, Thomas Mann and Marcel Proust. Today I would also count John Maxwell Coetzee among that group of prophets.

Their common sense of the inevitable end of the world – not of the planet but of the model of human relations – and of social order and upheaval, is poignantly current for us here and now. For us who live after the end of the world. Who live in the face of crimes and conflicts that daily flare in new places faster even than the ubiquitous media can keep up. These fires quickly grow boring and vanish from the press reports, never to return. And we feel helpless, horrified and hemmed in. We are no longer able to build towers, and the walls we stubbornly construct do not protect us from anything – on the contrary, they themselves demand protection and care that consumes a great part of our life energy. We no longer have the strength to try and glimpse what lies beyond the gate, behind the wall. And that's exactly why theater should exist and where it should seek its strength. To peek inside where looking is forbidden.

“The legend seeks to explain what cannot be explained. Because it is grounded in truth, it must end in the inexplicable”—this is how Kafka described the transformation of the Prometheus legend. I feel strongly that the same words should describe the theatre. And it is that kind of theatre, one which is grounded in truth and which finds its end in the inexplicable that I wish for all its workers, those on the stage and those in the audience, and I wish that with all my heart.

World Theatre Day 2016

The Message

The message of Anatoli Vassiliev was very well received by the theatre community all over the world. It was translated into 46 languages and the original version and its translations are available on the website www.world-theatre-day.org, a website ITI has created especially for this day.

Worldwide Celebrations

World Theatre Day was celebrated all over the world with events, message readings, award ceremonies, etc. by ITI Centres and by other organizations.

World Theatre Day in Guangzhou

The main event, with the message author attending, was held in Guangzhou/China on 27 March 2016. The Chinese Centre of ITI / China Theatre Association, in collaboration with the Cultural Bureau of Guangzhou and the ITI General Secretariat were the driving forces behind the event. During three days the Chinese Centre organized the World Theatre Day event, a festival, the Regional Council for Asia/Pacific, a colloquium about Traditional Theatre in Asia and two workshops. International guests, the Chinese and local theatre community were attending the events. Anatoli Vassiliev participated and read his message during an impressive celebration – in Chinese style, very colourful, showing a medley of Chinese opera and theatre – including some astounding acrobats and the use of large Chinese gongs on stage. Part of the three day events were shows from Guangzhou, Beijing (The Merchant of Venice) and a special evening with excerpts of Cantonese opera.

The EC Members Fabio Tolledi (Italy) and Apostolos Apostolides gave workshops for Chinese theatre students on the last day of the event.

The colloquium about Traditional Theatre in Asia with a participation of about 50 persons showed that especially in Asia traditional theatre and performing arts are an important part of everyday life. That is where the roots of theatre, dance and music theatre from these countries are to be found. The different presentations from Bangladesh, China, Georgia, India, Indonesia, Iran, Japan, Korea Republic, Malaysia, Mongolia, Nepal, Russia, Singapore, Sri Lanka and Vietnam with impressive visuals showed how much the traditional forms are part and parcel of the culture in a country. The wish to create an Asia/Pacific festival that stresses the tradition were voiced and may take form in the near future. There is also a demand for a forum within ITI that deals with this issue.

The event was held under the patronage of UNESCO.

World Theatre Day Message 2016 by Anatoli Vassiliev

Russian theatre director and theatre educator

Do we need theatre?

That is the question thousands of professionals disappointed in theatre and millions of people who are tired of it are asking themselves.

What do we need it for?

In those years when the scene is so insignificant in comparison with the city squares and state lands, where the authentic tragedies of real life are being played.

What is it to us? Gold-plated galleries and balconies in the theatre halls, velvet armchairs, dirty stage wings, well-polished actors' voices, - or vice versa, something that might look apparently different: black boxes, stained with mud and blood, with a bunch of rabid naked bodies inside.

What is it able to tell us?

Everything!

Theatre can tell us everything.

How the gods dwell in heaven, and how prisoners languish in forgotten caves underground, and how passion can elevate us, and how love can ruin, and how no-one needs a good person in this world, and how deception reigns, and how people live in apartments, while children wither in refugee camps, and how they all have to return back to the desert, and how day after day we are forced to part with our beloveds, - theatre can tell everything.

The theatre has always been and it will remain forever.

And now, in those last fifty or seventy years, it is particularly necessary. Because if you take a look at all the public arts, you can immediately see that only theatre is giving us - a word from mouth to mouth, a glance from eye to eye, a gesture from hand to hand, and from body to body. It does not need any intermediary to work among human beings - it constitutes the most transparent side of light, it does not belong to either south, or north, or east, or west - oh no, it is the essence of light itself, shining from all four corners of the world, immediately recognizable by any person, whether hostile or friendly towards it.

Activities – ITI Days

And we need theatre that always remains different, we need theatre of many different kinds.

Still, I think that among all possible forms and shapes of theatre its archaic forms will now prove to be mostly in demand. Theatre of ritual forms should not be artificially opposed to that of “civilized” nations. Secular culture is now being more and more emasculated, so-called cultural information” gradually replaces and pushes out simple entities, as well as our hope of eventually meeting them one day.

But I can see it clearly now: theatre is opening its doors widely. Free admission for all and everybody.

To hell with gadgets and computers - just go to the theatre, occupy whole rows in the stalls and in the galleries, listen to the word and look at living images! – It is theatre in front of you, do not neglect it and do not miss a chance to participate in it - perhaps the most precious chance we share in our vain and hurried lives.

We need every kind of theatre.

There is only one theatre which is surely not needed by anyone - I mean a theatre of political games, a theatre of a political “mousetraps”, a theatre of politicians, a futile theatre of politics. What we certainly do not need is a theatre of daily terror - whether individual or collective, what we do not need is the theatre of corpses and blood on the streets and squares, in the capitals or in the provinces, a phony theatre of clashes between religions or ethnic groups...

Isabelle Huppert addressing the audience and reading her message..

The Message

When the message of the French actress Isabelle Huppert finally arrived, it was very well received by the ITI Centres, by the theatre communities and theatre professionals all over the world. It was translated into 28 languages. The original version in French and the translations can be found on the World Theatre Day website of ITI – www.world-theatre-day.org

Thanks to an internationally acclaimed person writing the message World Theatre Day received media coverage, probably like never before. This resulted in an increased visibility of ITI, not only for the theatre professionals but also for the general audience.

We learn

What ITI started in 2016 by asking the Centres and Cooperating Members as well as the Committees to nominate possible message authors will be continued. But learning from getting the message at a late time which is non-optimum for ITI and the Centres, the General Secretariat and the Executive Council are putting together a strict schedule with a deadline for the chosen message author when he or she has to send in the message to the Headquarters of ITI.

Worldwide Celebrations

World Theatre Day was celebrated all over the world with events, message readings, award ceremonies, etc. by ITI Centres and by other organizations. These worldwide celebrations are an important action for the benefit of theatre. They underline the importance and value of the theatre all over the world. They are flagship events for Centres as can be perceived when reading the reports that were sent in by the ITI Centres. The World Theatre day events are in most cases when ITI becomes visible by the general public in a country. It is a pleasure to see persons who are not part of ITI not translating the message in their language and in one case, publishing all the messages in book form.

Digital Map on www.world-theatre-day.org

There is a map to be found on the World Theatre Day website. It shows where events have taken place all over the world. This map will be continued

Messages on YouTube

What will be done in 2018 as well is asking Centres to send in a video with eminent theatre personalities, actresses, actors, etc. reading the message of the year's message author in their own language. The message of Dario Fo that has been read in different languages can be found on YouTube. This is a successful action initiated by ITI that should be continued.

World Theatre Day at UNESCO

Thanks to a generous donation of Yang Chuangdong of the HanHall Foundation from China, ITI was able to organize an event at UNESCO, on 27 March 2017. The main hall was rented (after being closed for a year for renovation).

The General Secretariat put a culturally diverse performance programme together. Al Sidy, storyteller from Togo was the first to perform, telling the audience the story of a shoe maker (He performed once at the beginning of the Executive Council session, held in Burkina Faso.) The second play was

The president of ITI, Mohamed Saif Al-Afkham informed the people about ITI, the DG of UNESCO, Irina Bokova wrote a message was sent to all Centres and published in the event brochure. Eric Falt, Assistance Director of UNESCO for Culture, honoured the event with a speech.

The planning, organizing and holding of the event was done under the leadership of Chen Zhongwen, assisted by Tang Yiming and Malory Domecyn. Many ITI members from all over the world attended the event at UNESCO in Paris.

World Theatre Day Message 2017

by Isabelle Huppert

French theatre and film actress

So, here we are once more. Gathered again in Spring, 55 years since our inaugural meeting, to celebrate World Theatre Day. Just one day, 24 hours, is dedicated to celebrating theatre around the world. And here we are in Paris, the premier city in the world for attracting international theatre groups, to venerate the art of theatre.

Paris is a world city, fit to contain the globe's theatre traditions in a day of celebration; from here in France's capital we can transport ourselves to Japan by experiencing Noh and Bunraku theatre, trace a line from here to thoughts and expressions as diverse as Peking Opera and Kathakali; the stage allows us to linger between Greece and Scandinavia as we envelope ourselves in Aeschylus and Ibsen, Sophocles and Strindberg; it allows us to flit between Britain and Italy as we reverberate between Sarah Kane and Pirandello. Within these twenty-four hours we may be taken from France to Russia, from Racine and Molière to Chekhov; we can even cross the Atlantic as a bolt of inspiration to serve on a Campus in California, enticing a young student there to reinvent and make their name in theatre.

Indeed, theatre has such a thriving life that it defies space and time; its most contemporary pieces are nourished by the achievements of past centuries, and even the most classical repertoires become modern and vital each time they are played anew. Theatre is always reborn from its ashes, shedding only its previous conventions in its new-fangled forms: that is how it stays alive.

World Theatre Day then, is obviously no ordinary day to be lumped in with the procession of others. It grants us access to an immense space-time continuum via the sheer majesty of the global canon. To enable me the ability to conceptualise this, allow me to quote a French playwright, as brilliant as he was discreet, Jean Tardieu: When thinking of space, Tardieu says it is sensible to ask "what is the longest path from one to another?"...For time, he suggests measuring, "in tenths of a second, the time it takes to pronounce the word 'eternity'"...For space-time, however, he says: "before you fall asleep, fix your mind upon two points of space, and calculate the time it takes, in a dream, to go from one to the other". It is the phrase in a dream that has always stuck with me. It seems as though Tardieu and Bob Wilson met. We can also summarise the temporal uniqueness of World Theatre day by quoting the words of Samuel Beckett, who makes the character Winnie say, in his expeditious style: "Oh what a beautiful day it will have been". When thinking of this message, that I feel honoured to have been asked to write, I remembered all the dreams of all these scenes.

As such, it is fair to say that I did not come to this UNESCO hall alone; every character I have ever played is here with me, roles that seem to leave when the curtain falls, but who have carved out an underground life within me, waiting to assist or destroy the roles that follow; Phaedra, Araminte, Orlando, Hedda Gabler, Medea, Merteuil, Blanche DuBois....

Also supplementing me as I stand before you today are all the characters I loved and applauded as a spectator. And so it is, therefore, that I belong to the world. I am Greek, African, Syrian, Venetian, Russian, Brazilian, Persian, Roman, Japanese, a New Yorker, a Marseillais, Filipino, Argentinian, Norwegian, Korean, German, Austrian, English – a true citizen of the world, by virtue of the personal ensemble that exists within me. For it is here, on the stage and in the theatre, that we find true globalization.

On World Theatre Day in 1964, Laurence Olivier announced that, after more than a century of struggle, a National Theatre has just been created in the United Kingdom, which he immediately wanted to morph into an international theatre, at least in terms of its repertoire. He knew well that Shakespeare belonged to the world.

In researching the writing of this message, I was glad to learn that the inaugural World Theatre Day message of 1962 was entrusted to Jean Cocteau, a fitting candidate due to his authoring of the book 'Around the World Again in 80 Days'. This made me realise that I have gone around the world differently. I did it in 80 shows or 80 movies. I include movies in this as I do not differentiate between playing theatre and playing movies, which surprises even me each time I say it, but it is true, that's how it is, I see no difference between the two.

Speaking here I am not myself, I am not an actress, I am just one of the many people that theatre uses as a conduit to exist, and it is my duty to be receptive to this - or, in other words, we do not make theatre exist, it is rather thanks to theatre that we exist. The theatre is very strong. It resists and survives everything, wars, censors, penury.

It is enough to say that "the stage is a naked scene from an indeterminate time" – all's it needs is an actor. Or an actress. What are they going to do? What are they going to say? Will they talk?

The public waits, it will know, for without the public there is no theatre – never forget this. One person alone is an audience. But let's hope there are not too many empty seats! Productions of Ionesco's productions are always full, and he represents this artistic valour candidly and beautifully by having, at the end of one of his plays, and old lady say; "Yes, Yes, die in full glory. Let's die to enter the legend...at least we will have our street..."

World Theatre Day has existed for 55 years now. In 55 years, I am the eighth woman to be invited to pronounce a message – if you can call this a 'message' that is. My predecessors (oh, how the male of the species imposes itself!) spoke about the theatre of imagination, freedom, and originality in order to evoke beauty, multiculturalism and pose unanswerable questions. In 2013, just four years ago, Dario Fo said: "The only solution to the crisis lies in the hope of the great witch-hunt against us, especially against young people who want to learn the art of theatre: thus a new diaspora of actors will emerge, who will undoubtedly draw from this constraint unimaginable benefits by finding a new representation". Unimaginable Benefits – sounds like a nice formula, worthy to be included in any political rhetoric, don't you think?...

As I am in Paris, shortly before a presidential election, I would like to suggest that those who apparently yearn to govern us should be aware of the unimaginable benefits brought about by theatre. But I would also like to stress, no witch-hunt!

Theatre is for me represents the other it is dialogue, and it is the absence of hatred. 'Friendship between peoples' – now, I do not know too much about what this means, but I believe in community, in friendship between spectators and actors, in the lasting union between all the peoples theatre brings together – translators, educators, costume designers, stage artists, academics, practitioners and audiences. Theatre protects us; it shelters us...I believe that theatre loves us...as much as we love it...

I remember an old-fashioned stage director I worked for, who, before the nightly raising of the curtain would yell, with full-throated firmness 'Make way for theatre!' – and these shall be my last words tonight.

Thank you.

Message from Ms Irina Bokova, Director-General of UNESCO on the occasion of World Theatre Day

27 March 2017

World Theatre Day, established by the International Theatre Institute in 1961, celebrates one of the oldest and most vibrant forms of artistic expression of humanity. The history of theatre goes back to the beginning of language itself, and its various forms of expression reflect our common cultural diversity. UNESCO protects and values the dozens of theatrical forms inscribed on the List of Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity, such as the Kumiodori, the traditional musical theatre of Okinawa (Japan), the Mystery Olay of Elche (Spain) and the Mak Yong Theatre (Cambodia).

Theatre is much more than a form of entertainment. By its immediacy, by the comic or tragic relation that it alone builds between the stage and the public, theatre is a unique lever of expression, reflection and sharing. As a living art par excellence, the theatre depicts the truths, dramas and universal questions that structure human societies and allow them to represent themselves, even at decisive moments. In post-conflict situations in particular, culture and theatre help communities to resume dialogue, accelerate reconciliation. We have seen this in Chad, for example, in 2014, on the occasion of a project led by ITI with the support of UNESCO's International Fund for Culture Diversity.

The International Theatre Institute, founded in 1948 by UNESCO, is an essential partner in bringing this message to life and in promoting theatre. Together, we commemorate our commitment to support governments in adopting creative policies, development the activities of producers, artists and theatre groups, and through them the entire family and the know-how of culture and entertainment, as a force for peace and development.

Message

The message for International Dance Day 2015 was written by the Spanish choreographer and dancer Israel Galvan. It was translated into numerous languages and the original version and its translations are available on the website www.international-dance-day.org that ITI has created especially for this day.

Worldwide Celebrations

International Dance Day was celebrated all over the world with dance events, flash-mobs, award ceremonies and more by ITI Centres and by other organizations.

International Dance Day in Shanghai

The main event of International Dance Day 2015 was held at the Himalaya Centre in Shanghai. The General Secretariat created the event with the help of the International Dance Committee and the Shanghai Theatre Academy.

As Israel Galvan was not able to be at the event, his team created a video that premiered at the event on 29 April in Shanghai where the message was read in Chinese with English subtitles. The main event was created with five dance performances. Two local Chinese shows (one more traditional, the other ballet) were performed by the Dance Company of the Shanghai Theatre Academy. Two performances were invited through the help of the Spanish Centre of ITI, a flamenco ballet (Inés Hellín, David García) and a ballet (Óscar Torrado and María Cristina Álvarez). The show of Jérémy Kouyoumdjian, Sylvère Lamotte was invited through the help of Laurent van Kote, member of the Ministry of Culture of France.

The speakers were Lou Wei, Chairman of Shanghai Theatre Academy; Machi Lindahl, President of the International Dance Committee and Tobias Biancone, Director General ITI. The speech of Alfredo Pérez de Armiñán, UNESCO Assistant Director General for Culture, was read in Chinese with English subtitles.

Around 800 persons were attended the event which was well received by the audience and critics in the news.

The event was held under the patronage of UNESCO.

Colloquium on the Future of Dance

On 30 April, the Shanghai Theatre Academy, the International Theatre Institute and the International Dance Committee organized a colloquium on the Future of Dance. The session was presided by Gong Baorong, Vice-President Shanghai Theatre Academy, and Tobias Biancone, Director General of ITI. Papers were presented by: Laurent van Kote (France), Andromachi Dimitriadou Lindahl (Cyprus), Alberto Garcia and Luis Llerena (Spain), LUO Bin and OU Jianping (China).

International Dance Day Message 2015

Dancer and choreographer, Spain

Carmen Amaya, Valeska Gert, Suzushi Hanayagi, Michael Jackson... I see them as energy-generating turbines and this makes me think about the importance of choreography on that energy of the dancer. The important thing is probably not the choreography, but specifically that energy, the whirlwind which it triggers.

I imagine a Tesla coil attracting them all and emitting a healing ray and causing a metamorphosis in their bodies: Pina Bausch as a praying mantis, Raimund Hoghe converted into a dung beetle, Vicente Escudero into a stick insect and even Bruce Lee into a centipede.

I danced my first duo with my mother, seven months pregnant. It may seem an exaggeration. Although I almost always dance alone, I imagine that I am accompanied by ghosts which make me abandon my role of "dancer of solitudes". Did Didi-Huberman not mean to say: of soleares.

When I was small I didn't like dance, but it was something that came out of me naturally and easily. Almost instinctively. Over time I realised that dance healed, it had an almost medicinal effect, it helped me to not be so introverted and opened me up to other people. I have seen the image of a child ill with ebola being healed through dance. I know it's a superstition, but might it be possible?

Afterwards, dance ended up becoming an obsession which filled my hours and which makes me dance, even when I remain still, immobile, thus separating me from the reality of things. I know this isn't good, bad or necessary but ... that's the way it is. My daughter Milena, when I'm sitting still on the couch, thinking about my things, with my own murmur, says to me: dad, don't dance. And the thing is that I see people moving when walking down the street, when calling a taxi, when moving in their different ways, styles and deformities. They're all dancing! They don't know it but they're all dancing! I would like to shout to them: there are people who still don't know! We're all dancing! Those who don't dance are unlucky, they are dead, they do not feel or suffer!

I like the word fusion, not as a marketing word, a confusion to sell a certain style, a brand. Better fission, an atomic mixture: a cocktail with the feet fixed to the ground of Juan Belmonte, the aerial arms of Isadora Duncan and the half swaying belly of Jeff Cohen in the Goonies. And with all these ingredients, to make a pleasant and intense drink which is delicious or bitter or which goes to your head. Our tradition is also that mixture, we come from a cocktail and the orthodox people want to hide their secret formula. But no, races and religions and political creeds, everything mixes! Everybody can dance together! Maybe not holding onto each other, but by each other's side.

There is an old Chinese proverb which says: "the flutter of a butterfly's wings can be felt across the world". When a fly takes flight in Japan, a typhoon shakes up the water of the Caribbean. Pedro G Romero, after a shattering sevillanas dance says: the same day the bomb fell on Hiroshima, Nijinsky repeated his great leap in a forest in Austria. And I continue imagining: a lash of Savion Glover makes Mikhail Baryshnikov turn. At that moment, Kazuo Ono stays still and triggers a certain electricity in María Muñoz, who thinks about Vonrad Veidt and forces Akram Khan to cause an earthquake in his dressing room; they move their rattles and the floor becomes covered with the tired drops of their sweat.

I would like to be able to dedicate this International Dance Day and these words to every person in the world who is dancing just at this moment. But, allow me a joke and a wish: dancers, musicians, producers, critics, schedulers, let's have a party finale, let's all dance, as Béjart did, let's dance in style, let's dance the Bolero by Ravel, let's dance it together.

Message by Mr Pérez de Armiñán, UNESCO's Assistant Director-General for Culture on the occasion of International Dance Day 2015

Shanghai (China), 29 April 2015

I am delighted to extend my warm greetings to the participants of the celebration organized in Shanghai by the International Theatre Institute (ITI) to mark the 2015 edition of International Dance Day.

Since its creation in 1948, ITI has remained a valued partner of UNESCO. As the world's leading performing arts organization, ITI supports UNESCO's efforts to promote the diversity of cultural expressions worldwide.

As you know, International Dance Day was founded in 1982 by ITI's Dance Committee with the aim of encouraging all dancers, whether professional or amateur, to share their passion and creativity with the world. We commend ITI for pursuing its mission to inspire new talents, and promote international exchange in the field of performing arts. Moreover I would like to take this opportunity to wish ITI continued success in its new headquarters in Shanghai.

In addition to its immense therapeutic and creative value, dance – in its diverse forms – is an excellent vehicle for strengthening social ties and generating exchange and dialogue. Dance is accessible to all; it gives shape to our aspirations and need for self-expression. In turbulent times such as ours, dance and other performing arts can also provide joy and reinforce our sense of identity and belonging. On this International Dance Day, let us celebrate the universality of this age-old creative expression, and embrace its tremendous unifying force.

On the occasion of this celebration in Shanghai, UNESCO extends its congratulations to the Shanghai Theatre Academy and the Shanghai Municipality for co-hosting this event with ITI. Today is also an opportunity to highlight China's long and illustrious dance traditions, and recognize the contribution of figures such as Dai Ailian, the distinguished Chinese dancer and educator who empowered and promoted a new generation of talented dance professionals in China.

To all those around the world who appreciate the beauty and power of dance, I wish a very happy International Dance Day.

Worldwide Celebrations

International Dance Day was celebrated all over the world with dance events, flash-mobs, award ceremonies and more by ITI Centres and by other organizations.

International Dance Day at La Villette in Paris

The main celebration was held in Paris. Normally ITI would organize an event in Paris at UNESCO, but the biggest hall was under renovation in 2016. That is the reason International Dance Day was held at La Villette, a famous venue in Paris, where many world class dance events are presented. Thanks to the Chinese FOSUN Foundation which sponsored the event, it was possible to invite the message author with a performance from his group MAU. Lemi Ponifasio from Samoa and New Zealand can be considered not only as a choreographer, he is also a stage director who creates in his performances text, songs, music, stage design, multimedia, etc. The performance of his group MAU was rooted in the culture he lives in, visually and acoustically it is very impressive. Additionally the celebration included an excerpt of „Red“ performed by the Dance Company of the Shanghai Theatre Academy and the “Solo” of Shantala Shivalingappa, an Indian born dancer who lives in Paris and has worked with Maurice Béjart, Peter Brook, Pina Bausch and others key figures in dance.

Machi Lindahl, President of the International Dance Committee IDC, introduced Lemi Ponifasio; further short speeches were held by Didier Fusiller, President of La Villette; Susannah Gordon, New Zealand Embassy at UNESCO and Jan Goossens, director of the Marseille festival. The DG of ITI introduced the event at the beginning and expressed the gratitude to all participants at the end. The speech and message of Lemi Ponifasio and the speech of Susannah Gordon was translated by Malory Domecyn (General Secretariat).

All the performances were very well received by the audience (more than 1000 persons). The main sponsor, FOSUN Foundation, was represented by Henri de Giscard d’Estaing, PDG of ClubMed, and his wife. Part of the VIP guests were many members of ITI and from Shanghai Theatre Academy, the Chargé d’affaires of the Chinese Embassy, members of the Chinese Embassy, Ambassadors of UNESCO, former ITI staff members, etc.

The event was organized by the team of the General Secretariat of ITI, under the excellent project leadership of Chen Zhongwen (Director of Collaboration and Assistant to the DG ITI) with the team members Aktina Sthathi and Malory Domecyn (ITI headquarters)

International Dance Day Speech 2016 by Lemi Ponifasio

Speech held during the International Dance Day at La Villette, 29 April 2016

Your Majesties, Your Excellencies, dancers, dance teachers, choreographers, dance administrators, dance critics,
ladies and gentlemen

Talofa Kia ora - Good Evening. It is a magical honour to be here with you tonight.

Thank you to the International Dance
Committee of the International Theatre Institute of UNESCO - for inviting me to give this year's International Dance Day message.

I was born and brought up in Samoa, a small island nation in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. Dance is truly a borderless spiritual force, borderless in form and it brings people together everywhere in world. It is a demonstration of people in cooperation, people in search of beauty and celebration of our existence with all sentient beings.

A tree is always dancing towards the rays of the sunlight. A dancer's work is to orient us towards the divine... that is within us. Therefore, we are born from Earth to change the world. Towards the world of light.

We are part of the Earth's process.
Like us Earth is also looking for its dance.
Like us Earth is looking for its home.
The birth of the universe was the birth of dance.

So dance was born long before the first human.

We are the flesh of the cosmos - we are the weave of everything.

The nature, the stars and all celestial life.
Dance activates our connectedness.

Each moment you dance you ignite this energy.

Each moment you dance you are gifting and sharing something beautiful from your heart to someone or with a community.

Our world is facing many challenges at the moment.

Both the human nature and the non-human nature.

We mistreat our planet in the same way we mistreat our children.

We send our children to die in deserts and swamps in wars.

We make our children flee from their homes and drown in seas or suffocate in container trucks.

We are using our children to feed the darkness of the human heart.

We as a species are consuming our own children.

Dance is an invitation to transform.

And like dance, the transformation starts
here with us.

Let's share our dance.

Take your dance to the children, to the river, to hospitals, to prisons, to refugee camps and into different communities, those with disabilities and the young and old.

To all corners of the world.

Thank you.

The International Dance Day Summit 2017

General Information

The International Dance Day Summit 2017 was held from 27 to 29 April in Shanghai. In the newly built Shanghai International Dance Center and the Fosun Art Center, a three-day event including a conference, about 40 dance workshops, two gala performances, and the main gala ceremony evening were held. 2017 IDD Summit was co-organized by the International Theatre Institute, Shanghai Theatre Academy and Fosun Foundation, with support from China Dancers Association and Shanghai International Dance Center Foundation. The Fosun Foundation has been the main sponsor for the International Dance Day in 2016 in Paris and now in Shanghai.

We, Dance Together!

Under the motto of “We, Dance Together!”, the Summit in Shanghai aimed to promote the communication and exchanges of dancers, dance lovers, and artists all over the world, to let everyone enjoy dance for its own sake, and to discuss and reflect on the future development of dance. What is more, “We, Dance Together” is an inclusive statement chosen for the International Dance Day Summit. It is an invitation for dancers, choreographers, scholars and educators, everybody in fact, to build bridges over any kind of barriers – being from a different country or ethnicity, having a different age or gender, being professional or amateur, being differently abled and so on.

Patronage of UNESCO for 2017 IDD

The summit received the patronage of UNESCO. As it is stated on the paper from UNESCO, 2017 IDD Summit is an event which “responds to the aim of UNESCO to promote the art form dance”. (See the message of Irina Bokova, Director General UNESCO).

Message Author – Trisha Brown

The Executive Council and the Board of the International Dance Committee of ITI chose Trisha Brown, choreographer, dancer and founder and artistic director of the Trisha Brown Dance Company, to be the message author 2017. As Trisha Brown passed away in March 2017, the International Dance Day Summit was also considered to be a tribute to her and her work.

Summit Activities

Conference

More than 30 dance scholars from around 10 countries participated in the Conference on 27 April at the Fosun Art Center. Through keynote and panel speeches and a round table, dance scholars and practitioners exchanged ideas on the topic of how traditional dance cultures are preserved within the global dance scene. More than 150 persons (dance students, educators, dance professionals and dance admirers) attended the Conference.

Workshops

14 workshops were offered during the Summit, to encourage the transfer of knowledge. The workshop leaders came from Burkina Faso, China, France, India, Japan, Puerto Rico, Russia, Spain, UK and USA, offering a broad variety of techniques from different cultural backgrounds.

Performances

In the Grand Hall of Shanghai International Dance Center, three performance nights were presented to more than 2500 dance amateurs, students, academics and professionals.

Thursday evening, 20 April, the title of the event was Shanghai Night. Dance students from the Dance Collage of the Shanghai Theatre Academy and Shanghai Dance School, plus the performers from Shanghai Dance Theatre and Shanghai Opera House Dance Troupe presented their work. Shanghai Night was a colourful and joyful event. It showcased, in a positive light, the dance education situation and the development of the dance arts in Shanghai.

Friday, 28 April, the International Night took place, with Shantala Shivalingappa performing the traditional Indian dance form Kuchipudi, Mita Noriaki dancing the Japanese traditional Gagaku, Companie Mouvements perpetuels from Burkina Faso presenting a performance dedicated to the issue of refugees, and the Dance Theatre Ljubljana Slovenia presenting modern dance. All the international performances were very authentic, genuine performances.

Gala Night / A Tribute to Trisha Brown

The highlight of Summit was the Gala Night on Saturday 29 April. The Gala Night expressed the essence of the Summit. Based on the theme "We, Dance Together!", the organizers implemented an initiative to get everyone dancing. Dance troupes with disabilities (Zhenzhou Normal University Disabled Art Troupe from China and DanceAbility International from USA) alongside internationally recognized dancers were invited to dance on the same stage. The event started with two shows from young, talented dance students. A duet from the Central Academy of Drama, Beijing; and a solo by a student from Shanghai. Leah Brown from the Trisha Brown's Dance Company showed a stand-out work from the message author's oeuvre, "If You Couldn't See Me". Machi Lindahl, president of ITI Dance Committee introduced Trisha Brown's life and work, followed by the Message of Trisha Brown, read by her close collaborator, Susan Rosenberg. Tobias Biancone (DG ITI), Feng Shuangbai (Chairman China Dancers Association), Lou Wei (Chairman Shanghai Theatre Academy), and Li Haifeng (Vice-President Fosun Foundation) delivered speeches during the gala. UNESCO Artist for Peace, Cecile Guidote Alvarez, read the message of Irina Bokova, DG UNESCO.

Message

I became a dancer because of my desire to fly. The transcendence of gravity was always something that moved me. There is no secret meaning in my dances. They are a spiritual exercise in a physical form.

Dance communicates and expands the universal language of communication, giving birth to joy, beauty and the advancement of human knowledge. Dance is about creativity...again and again...in the thinking, in the making, in the doing, and in the performing. Our bodies are a tool for expression and not a medium for representation. This notion liberates our creativity, which is the essential lesson and gift of art-making.

The life of an artist does not end with age, as some critics believe. Dance is made of people, people and ideas. As an audience, you can take the creative impulse home with you and apply it to your daily life.

This message is for dance professionals and dance admirers all over the world. It is published also as a tribute to Trisha Brown who passed away on 18 March 2017.

The message has been put together from her written works and statements by her close collaborator Susan Rosenberg, in collaboration with Andromachi Dimitriadou Lindahl. It shares her vision about her work and the values that it reflects.

Message from Ms Irina Bokova, Director-General of UNESCO on the occasion of the *International Dance Day

29 April 2017

International Dance Day was created by the Dance Committee of the International Theatre Institute in 1982, to celebrate the beauty of dance and its universality as an art form and to highlight dance's unique ability to deepen dialogue, respect and mutual understanding between women and men across the world. Today, in times of turbulence and social transformation, this power has never been so vital.

This is the importance of the 2017 celebration of International Dance Day in Shanghai. This celebration breaks new ground, presenting a three-day festival, including performances, lectures and workshops, all highlighting the power of dance to unite artists and spectators, including differently abled dancers and choreographers in a programme of rich cultural diversity.

The same goals guide the "We, Dance Together" initiative, and the longstanding partnership between UNESCO and the International Theatre Institute, to advance universal participation and inclusion in the arts as the basis to deepening mutual understanding and peace.

Founded by UNESCO in 1948 and based today in Shanghai, the International Theatre Institute has always been a leading champion in taking forward these objectives -- starting with the celebration of International Dance Day, sharing and promoting the great humanist force of dance. This was a power uniquely expressed by the great artist, Trisha Brown, who sadly passed this year. Her spirit will stand at the heart of this year's International Dance Day celebration.

In this same spirit, I wish a wonderful International Dance Day to women and men in societies across the world.

Irina Bokova

Director-General UNESCO,

Comments by the DG

Regional Councils are important for the development of ITI. A meeting between the Centres of a Region strengthens the region and the centres in it. A Regional Council meeting serves a multitude of purposes:

- Ideas can be exchanged;
- Projects can be developed;
- Best practices of one Centre may help other Centres to do the same and become stronger;
- Bi-lateral collaboration (two Centres of the region) or multi-lateral collaboration (many Centres of the region) can be established;
- Awards for performing artists of a region can be given and be celebrated;
- Regional showcases (best of a region's dance, theatre and music theatre) can be developed;
- Information can be exchanged in the regions and to the world
- Research in traditional and modern forms of the performing arts can be done;
- And many more things besides.

In the last two years, the African Centres, the Arab Centres and the Asia Pacific Centres have organized regional meetings. The Centres of Europe and the Americas are planning to have regional meetings after the congress; the Centres of Africa, the Arab Countries and the Asia Pacific region are continuing their collaboration.

Activities 2014 - 2017

After several meetings held at the last Congress with the participation of 8 African countries present in Yerevan (South Africa, Burkina Faso, Cameroon, Egypt, Togo, Uganda, Sudan, Zimbabwe) it was decided that a General Assembly of the African Regional Council of ITI should be held in March 2015 in Khartoum, at the invitation of Mr Ali Mahdi.

As this meeting has been postponed, the African Centres and the African Regional Council have been actively involved in several areas since 2014.

Extensive activities of the African Centres:

- Creation of a new Centre of ITI in Ghana
- Creation of a Centre in Morocco
- Organization of a training course on directing and acting in Cameroon, directed by the Ivorian Sidiki Bakaba.
- Organization of a stage directing training course (Central African Republic)
- Organization of training courses for young practitioners in Zimbabwe and Chad, animated by eminent theatre personalities.
- Welcome of two Central African theatre artists who were displaced as refugees in Cameroon following the war in their country
- Good involvement of the African Centres in celebrating the World Theatre Day and the International dance Day.
- International Festivals organized by the African Centres of ITI: International Theatre and Puppets

Festival in Ouagadougou (Burkina Faso) - International Festival of Dramatic and Plastic Arts for Union and Peace (Chad), Les Scènes Théâtrales Nationales (Benin) etc. Have been organized on the scheduled dates.

- Theatre Publications by the Ugandan Centre.
- Launch of the theatre writing contest (Algerian Centre)
- Circulation of performances in Africa and outside Africa.
- Organization of workshops on theatre writing in Chad and on copyright and neighbouring rights in Uganda.
- The African Regional Council of ITI proposed that Mr Hamadou Mandé, President of the ITI Centre of Burkina Faso and Vice-President of CRAIT Partnerships, sits on the Administration Board of CERAW/Afrique (Regional Centre for Live Arts in Africa) Based in Bobo Dioulasso.
- The African Regional Council was also represented by Hamadou Mandé at the 3rd Summit of Cultural Institutions of Africa and the Diaspora (SICADIA), held from 10 to 14 October in Maputo (Mozambique). SICADIA is a regional meeting that brings together the cultural institutions of Africa and the African Diaspora to work in synergy to advance major African cultural projects by working closely with organizations such as the African Union and Intergovernmental Organization of La Francophonie.
- The International Stage Arts Network (iSTAN), attended the African participation with Mr Hamadou Mandé, representative of the African

ITI Arab Council Meeting in Fujairah

For the first time ever, a meeting bringing together all Arabic ITI Centres was held in Fujairah, United Arab Emirates on Tuesday February 23, 2016 at Le Meridien Al Aqah Hotel on the sidelines of the 1st Fujairah International Arts Festival. The session was chaired by H.E. Mohamed Saif Al Afkham, President of ITI Worldwide and Director of Fujairah International Arts Festival.

New Arabic Centres

The meeting addressed several issues such as introducing the newly joined Arab centres and suggesting a mechanism for activating inactive centres. Al Afkham started the session by welcoming the attendees and asking them to introduce themselves, affirming that such gatherings are essential for the success of ITI in the Arab World and hoping that this meeting will be held on the sidelines of theatre festivals organized in member Arab countries. After that, representatives introduced themselves and their centres, and talked about their achievements, current projects and future ambitions and visions. They spoke about the issues they face and discussed with the attendees how to overcome them.

Arab Regional Centre for ITI

It was also announced during the meeting that a new regional centre for ITI UNESCO is to be established to represent the Arab Countries and ensure Arab presence in international ITI events. This centre will be in Fujairah and Ibrahim Assiri will be appointed as coordinator between all Arab ITI Centres.

Introducing ITI to New Members

ITI Director General Tobias Biancone spoke about ITI, its objectives, current and future projects and about their ambassadors and awards, hoping that soon there will be an Arab person among their ambassadors. Biancone expressed his appreciation for Fujairah and for the ITI President for inviting artists in Fujairah and the importance of Arab participation in ITI.

Arabic Newsletter

Georgette Gebara proposed that there be an Arabic newsletter for the Arab ITI Centres to publish news and information about the activities of centres. The proposal was met with approval from most attendees.

Attendees

The meeting was attended by Ali Mahdi Nouri, Secretary General of ITI, Aktina Stakathi and Zhongwen Chen from ITI Secretariat and Mike Van Graan. The Arab centres were represented by: Hessa Al Falasi (United Arab Emirates), Saleh Al Hamar (Kuwait), Shorok Mohamad (Yemen), Georgette Gebara (Lebanon), Dr. Nehad Selaiha (Egypt), Cheikh Akbaoui (Algeria), Said Amel (Morocco), Fadlala Ahmad (Sudan), Sawsan Darwaza (Jordan), Sami Al Zahrani (KSA), Asaad Fidha (Syria) and Ibrahim Assiri (on behalf of Mohammed Ghassan Shaashaa / Palestine).

Activities of the Asia Pacific Regional Council

On 28 March 2016, the Asian-Pacific Regional Meeting was convened once again after years of inactivity. Delegates from 11 Centres of the Asia Pacific Region (China, Bangladesh, Japan, India, Iran, Mongolia, Nepal, Russia, South Korea, Sri Lanka and Vietnam,) and three members of countries which do not as yet have an ITI Centre (Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia) participated in the meeting. Present at the meeting were Tobias Biancone, Chen Zhongwen and Aktina Stathaki from ITI's General Secretariat, as well as Apostolos Apostolides and Fabio Tolledi from the Executive Council. The meeting centered on two topics: How to build-up a mechanism to strengthen the cooperation ties in the region? and: Is there a need to set up a new committee within ITI better to preserve and develop traditional theatre in the world?

At the beginning of the meeting, Tobias Biancone showed a presentation on ITI, its activities and the functions of a Regional Council. The introduction was very well received by the delegates from ITI Centres and the other guests as it showed how ITI works and the big realm of artistic exchange ITI covers. The introduction was followed by Ramendu Majumdar, Honorary President of ITI, who expressed his strong hope to revitalise the regional cooperation and he suggested that the Chinese Centre assumes the responsibility for hosting the secretariat for the Regional Council for Asia Pacific. The President of the Chinese Centre underlined that the secretariat's location should follow the principle of rotation, so that another Centre can take over in the future.

The meeting proceeded with discussions in which all the delegates participated. The delegates agreed to set up a new office for the region which will be based at the Chinese Centre of ITI. The Chinese Centre of ITI will serve as the regional secretariat and work on better communication, and planning more regional activities including the sharing of theatre information and publishing quarterly e-bulletins.

The second meeting was held in June 2017, in Yinchuan, China.

Activities of the European Regional Council

After more than ten years in which there were no reunions between the European Centres, the Italian Centre took the initiative to create a European Regional Council of ITI, and invited the leaders of the Centre of Europe to Lecce (Puglia, Italy).

The meeting happened on 15 and 16 October 2016.

The following persons and Centres were present:

- Belgium Wallonia Centre (Jean-Henri Dreze)
- Croatian Centre (Zeljka Turcinovic)
- Executive Council (Apostolos Apostolides, Cyprus)
- German Centre (Thomas Engel)
- Georgian Centre (Levan Khetaguri)
- Israeli Centre (Gad Kaynar)
- Italian Centre (Executive Council Member Fabio Tolledi, Roberta Quarta, Giorgio Zorcu, Ivano Gorgoni)
- Kosovo Centre (Elmaze Nura, Mentor Zymberaj)
- Macedonian / FYROM Centre (Ivanka Apostolova)
- Russian Centre (Alfira Arslanova)
- Slovenian Centre (Tatjana Azman)
- Spanish Centre (Alberto Garcia, Luis Llerena)
- Swedish Centre (Executive Council Member Ann Mari Engel)
- Swiss Centre SuisseTHEATRE (Executive Council Member Daniel Bausch)
- As well as the DG of ITI (Tobias Biancone)

This first reunion was a good start for the European Regional Council and its Centres. With the leaders of the Centres communicating with each other, exchanging thoughts, ideas, best practice and talk about possible projects and about where ITI can build up new Centres, the European region can be strengthened.

The Italian Centre hosted all the members with typical Italian warmth. The meeting started with a message by the President of ITI, Mohamed Al-Afkham, which was read by Roberta Quarta. After a short presentation by the DG, about ITI and about the new Toolkit for ITI Centres that the General Secretariat developed for existing and new Centres, each Centre presented their rich and important activities and events. (See the Centre's report.)

The participants discussed the following issues:

- The relationship between ITI and UNESCO, the use of the logo of UNESCO, projects of ITI with UNESCO.
- The budget restrictions of the Centre and the result of it.
- The showcases organized in Croatia and in Sweden.

In a second session the participants started to focus on what can be done for the European region and the ITI Centres of that region:

- Making the Centres work known to the national UNESCO Commission, thus deepening ties to UNESCO and enabling collaboration with the national UNESCO Commission in a country.
- Develop the strength of all Centres of ITI in Europe.
- Strengthen ties with other organizations with similar goals and academic institutions.
- Connect with research organizations.
- Create a publication.

Activities – Regional Councils

European Regional Council

- The European ITI Centres becoming a strong pillar for ITI.
- Work with other European ITI Centre for the UNESCO Convention about Cultural Diversity.
- Create a kind of Research Centre as a committee of ITI.
- Focus on Intangible Heritage in Europe.
- Involve young practitioners.
- Create an ITI Think Tank.
- How to bring Theatre to people.

During the meetings of the second day, the participants were focusing on what to do together as a primary action. These are concrete projects the European Regional Council can focus on:

- Share information about the activities with all European Centres (proposal Thomas Engel, Ann Mari Engel, Levan Khetaguri)
- Create a closed Facebook page for the European Centres (done by Alfira Arslanova)
- Get in touch with the National UNESCO Commission of the countries of the European ITI Centres
- Distribute the emails from all European Centres (done by DG ITI)
- Distribute the new Toolkit for an ITI Centre to all European Centres (done by DG ITI)
- Exchange of best practices among each other
- Promote Artists Residencies in Europe (Daniel Bausch, Giorgio Zorcu and Gad Kaynar)
- Give Dance Scholarships (Spanish Centre)
- A list of Festivals that can provide residence and hosting for young practitioners (Tatjana Azman)
- Connect with the Drama Colony of the Croatian Centre with residencies for one foreign playwright, staged readings, a translation of one play.
- Newsletter (Georgian Centre, Levan Khetaguri)

The participants discussed the submission to the European Union for a grant for Cultural Networks. All the participants agreed that is a common project of the European Regional Council. The Italian Centre will be responsible to collect all the data.

Finally the participants were informed by the Spanish Centre and the DG about the upcoming Congress in Segovia, Spain. The participants were informed about the schedule and plans.

Fabio Tolledi with the Italian Centre was unanimously agreed to be the coordinator for the European Regional Council.

All the participants were thanking the Italian Centre for the warm and generous hospitality.

Proposals for future meetings: Levan Khetaguri (end of October 2017, in Tbilisi, Georgia), Mentor Zymberaj (meeting in Prishtina, Kosovo, in Spring 2018), and a meeting during the next Congress in Segovia, 2017.

Comments by the DG

The Centres are the main pillars of ITI. They represent ITI within their sphere of influence in their country or region. They are the main entrance gate for professionals that work in the performing arts. They are the main source for people being active in committees, forums, networks and project groups. The Centres deserve the main attention of the General Secretariat – this includes the attention that is given to the individual members that the Centres and thus ITI have.

There are 42 Reports in this publication. The General Secretariat is very happy about this – it is the largest amount of Reports published in an ITI Report. By reading the Centre's Report the reader can discover the activities that make ITI strong, visible and valuable. It is with great appreciation that these reports are published. Maybe one day ITI will publish a Report with all the Centres...

Eby Marine Liard, secretary of the Belgian Centre

The Bureau consists of:

Vice President – Jean-Henri Drèze

Treasurer – Marc Gooris

Secretary – Marine Liard

General Manager – Olivier Parfondry

The objective was to revitalize the Belgian Centre by using restructuring to transform it into a tool, bridge and gateway for young people, developing our projects at a national and international level.

Activities 2015

- March 2015 – The Belgian Centre supported International Theatre Day with the circulation of the Message for 2015 written by Krzysztof Warlikowski.
- June 2015 – The Centre provided financial aid to the Association des Scénographes (Designers' Association) for 'Moving Lab', a project that was part of the 13th Prague Quadrennial. A major international event in the world of stage design, every four years since 1967 this international exhibition has presented the most innovative contemporary works in the fields of the performing arts, costume, sound and light design as well as theatre architecture. Belgium has been represented from its beginning, and two associations, one French and one Flemish, have joined forces to organise the Belgian presence at the Quadrennial.
- Participants: Christian Halkin, designer, Katrien Geebelen, and other collaborators : designers Rose Werckx, Jean-Claude De Bemels, Thomas Delord, Jo Klaps, Irma Morin and architect Anne Cabot. Their project was awarded a gold medal.
- November 2015 – A group was formed to create 'Par-delà les événements, les enjeux de l'ITI' ('Beyond the Shows: The Challenges of ITI'), a documentation of ITI's history from its creation up to today from the ITI archives stored in Liège and Paris. The result of this project will be presented at the Congress in Segovia. It will also be published as a booklet in three languages, English, French and Spanish.
- December 2015 – A group was established to respond to a call by the General Secretariat to participate in organising an international gathering in Shanghai on 'Community Theatre: How to Bring Theatre to People?' A first meeting was held in December, with the event taking place in March.

Activities 2016

- 11-17 July – A IDEA (International Drama Education Association) group was formed in order to focus special attention on theatre education in vocational schools and in other levels of education such as secondary, primary and pre-schools, while also including other spheres. (A similar group had existed previously, while many ITI Centres are also members of IDEA.) Two members of the Belgian Centre will participate in the 9th Congress in Ankara.

Meeting with the Minister of Culture and Tourism

Back from Yerevan, where he took part for the 34th ITI World Congress, the President of the Burkina Faso Centre of ITI, Dr. Hamadou MANDE, was received in audience by the Culture and Tourism Ministry of Burkina Faso to update them on the participation of Burkina Faso in this important meeting of the world's largest organization for the performing arts. The Minister congratulated the Centre of Burkina Faso for its dynamism and encouraged it to continue this momentum.

FITMO 2014

Organized under the leadership of the ITI Burkinabe Centre, in partnership with ITI Centres in Mali and Niger, the 14th edition of the International Festival of Theatre and Puppets of Ouagadougou (FITMO) took place from 10 to 29 October 2014 in three West African countries (Burkina Faso, Mali and Niger). Originally planned to be held in four countries, the festival was only held in three countries. The step in Togo had to be postponed in 2015 due to political tensions in Burkina Faso. This 14th edition of the FITMO was held under the theme „Artistic training and socio-professional integration of artists in Africa“, and mobilized 60 artistic groups which produced 109 performances. In addition to the qualitative and diverse performances and workshops, FITMO 2014 highlighted the decentralization of activities in each of the three host countries, the entertainment market, the showcase of theatre schools, the symposium on the theme of publishing and the holding of a meeting of the African Regional Council of ITI.

Activities 2015

Participation in a meeting of the African Regional Council of ITI

The Burkinabe Centre presided over the meeting of the ITI African Regional Council held on 8 March 2016 in Abidjan, Ivory Coast, on the sidelines of the Arts Market of the African Show (MASA) 2016. During this meeting we held discussions regarding the implementation of the activities programme of the Regional Council.

World Theatre Day 2015

Continuing its commitment to make the ITI activities accessible to all performing artists in the country, the ITI Centre in Burkina Faso has decided to celebrate the World Theatre Day 2015 in the city of Fada N'Gourma, 220 km east from Ouagadougou, the capital of the country. The main activities carried out on 27 March 2015 were: holding of an ITI general assembly followed by a radio programme, a presentation of ITI carried out by the General Secretariat of ITI, the presentation of the Message Author 2015, the reading of the message by Mariam Thiombiano, an actress from Fada and a performance with the play „The price of happiness“ staged by Hamadou Mandé and interpreted by the Theatre of the Fraternity of the Cultural Centre Gambidi.

International Dance Day 2015

The celebration of the International Dance Day was held in Toussiana, located 400 km south of Ouagadougou. In the presence of the local authorities and in front of a strongly mobilized population, the following activities were deployed: An introductory speech of the ITI Burkinabe Centre situating the context of the celebration, a word of welcome from the local authorities, the International Dance Day message, the reading of the IADB message by Nongodo Ouédraogo, as well as traditional and modern music and dance performances.

FITMO 2015

The 15th edition of the International Festival of Theatre and Puppets of Ouagadougou (FITMO) took place from 2 to 12 December 2015, in Burkina Faso and Togo. This edition made it possible to achieve the 2014 step in Togo which had been postponed due to socio-political tensions. It allowed the festival to change its year of organization from even years to odd years. The FITMO 2015 has revealed young talents and met an increasingly large number of people and is fully satisfied with the artistic productions proposed by the festival.

Reception of ITI documents

On 9 April 2015, the Burkina Faso Centre of ITI received a batch of French books to place in its library from the ITI General Secretariat, who were moving from Paris to Shanghai. Thus, 13 packages containing books and various publications were sent to the Burkinabé Centre for free to make good use of them. This has been well received by the Burkinabe Centre. The Minister in charge of culture and the artists were officially informed of this mark of solidarity of the global ITI with regard to Burkina Faso.

Theatre training at the Ecole Supérieure de Théâtre Jean-Pierre Guingane of CFRAV

The Burkinabe Centre of ITI, together with the Gambidi Cultural Centre, coordinates the theatre training at the Centre for Training and Research in Live Arts (CFRAV) through the implementation of educational programmes and the organization of professionalization workshops for performing artists. The year 2015 saw the continuation of the formation of the 3rd promotion and a reinforced partnership with theatre schools in Africa and Europe.

Exchanges with other ITI Centres

The Burkinabe Centre of ITI maintains very good relations with all ITI Centres. As its president is a Member of the ITI Executive Council, the Burkinabe Centre of ITI has attended all the meetings of the Executive Council since the last Congress. This allowed it to maintain a permanent exchange with several ITI Centres. The Burkinabe Centre of ITI is also working to bring African Centres closer together and make them more dynamic. During the year 2015, he had wished to organize a new meeting of the Regional Council of Africa but the national political situation marked by a popular insurrection, a failed coup and terrorist attacks made this meeting impossible.

Activities 2014-2016

The Chadian ITI Centre for the 2014-2015 period conducted a variety of activities with arts institutions and theatre artists in Chad. These activities have focused on training workshops, professional gatherings, festivals and the World Days of Theatre and Dance. The activities have been carried out thanks to the goodwill of theatre professionals and a few rare partners. Here we describe the activities followed by a concluding round-up of our challenges and recommendations.

Training Workshops

Within the scope of training, two acting workshops led by theatre professionals were set up by the Chadian Centre for Young Artists in order to help young performers. These workshops, which are held once a year, saw a total of 38 participants and lasted for two-weeks. The aim here is to ensure that the workshops are sustainable and become permanent training sessions in a country where there currently exists no theatre school that can teach practical techniques to those aspiring to the theatre. At present, everything we do is done virtually without resources, and yet the will exists to succeed in ensuring that such training is sustainable. It is our hope that one day we shall have partners who will help us to build a theatre school in Chad.

Professional Gatherings

We organised professional gatherings with theatre practitioners in order to discuss agendas and important issues relating to our industry. During the past two years we have also created two gatherings along the following themes: the creation and diffusion of theatre and the status of theatre artists. These meetings have given theatre practitioners the chance to address issues and to offer solutions in the form of recommendations to Chad's cultural authorities. This was also an opportunity for the theatre community not only to have a framework within which they can discuss their profession but also to meet up, get to know each other and initiate a synergy for solidarity.

Festivals

Along with the Théâtre Maoundôh-Culture, the Chadian Centre jointly organised the Festival International des Arts Dramatiques et Plastiques pour l'Union et la Paix (International Theatre Festival of Dramatic Arts and Plastics for Unity and Peace – FIADPUP), the 8th edition of which took place in N'Djamena from 3 to 10 November 2014. We welcome the fact that this biennial festival brought together so many theatre companies and artists. This latest edition also was part of the 25th anniversary celebration of the Théâtre Maoundôh-Culture.

The next edition of FIADPUP will take place in November 2016.

World Days

For some years now, in Chad we have been annually celebrating World Theatre Day and International Dance Day. For World Theatre Day we celebrated it as we always do with the participation of the entire Chadian theatre community. The content was supported by the Minister of Culture and in the media, conferences, debates, readings of the Messages, artistic parades and shows in the city, and these activities were also carried out for International Dance Day. These days are opportunities for us to talk about our profession and, especially, to create a lobbying platform for our art with partners and the community.

We would like to conclude by saying that, no matter the situation, the Chadian ITI Centre is committed to pursuing its activities with whatever resources it has to hand, despite the lack of partners, particularly theatre partners. We remain convinced that the evidence of our current activities in Chad's cultural environment will bear fruit for the benefit of our cultural and artistic development.

We also remain convinced that in order to see the theatre regain its credentials as it had at the end of the previous century, it is imperative to create a strong synergy on a national, subregional and international level. Projects involving cooperation and exchanges of skills and especially advocacy work with the authorities and partners will allow us to develop the sector and to attract young people to the arts.

Introduction

Traditionally, almost everywhere in sub-Saharan Africa, the financial dependence on other institutions and the absence of subsidies from the State are the two major handicaps that justify the insufficient visibility of the Congolese Centre of the ITI on the national stage. Hence, since 2012, the Office of the Centre is involved, with the cultural association "L'Arche de Ngoujel", in the implementation of an activity aimed at reducing, if not eradicating, this financial dependence. In this case, it is the competition called Ngoujel Prize for a Performance Critic, created in 2011, thanks to a UNESCO grant requested by the General Secretariat of ITI. These combined realities (financial dependence and the fixing of competitions) have meant that the Centre's programme of activities are reduced to the essentials: participation in the celebration of World Theatre Day and the International Dance Day, the organization of the competition (all the editions of which remain „experimental“ and silent, because of the lack of sponsors) and delivery of a message during cultural events whenever this opportunity is offered at the Centre's office (1). Political events (the constitutional referendum in October 2015, and the presidential elections in the second quarter of 2015) and the social unrest that followed them, put artists in general, and the theatre world in particular, on technical leave for more than six months.

The struggle for a stable financial resource

This is the least we can say about this game contest on which are placed all our hopes. The activity is carried out by the association L'Arche de Ngoujel, which organizes it within the framework of the TECEJ festival (Time for cultural effusions for education and youth.) The fundamental principle of this competition for young people (aged 11 to 25) is the preliminary publication of a questionnaire on the content and form of a scheduled performance, in order to gauge their level of comprehension and see if they have understood the covert messages conveyed by said performance. The pedagogical aspect of the activity explains the very special interest that the organizers give to schools, besides that these organized circles offer the possibility to communicate at the least cost. For example, the partnership between ministries responsible for education and youth affairs is self-evident.

Curiously, in spite of the innumerable assets and the actual holding of the „experimental“ editions, the big companies and the Organizations had continued to reserve a traumatic silence to all the requests of sponsorship. Fortunately, for the morale of the bearers of the project, the reasons for this icy behaviour that strike almost all artists are known:

1. The adage „no one is a prophet at home“ seems to find a particularly resounding reply in the Republic of the Congo. The projects conceived and presented by the artists operating in the country are almost systematically underestimated by the major sponsors, the public authorities and even the public. However, as „there is no law without exception“, there is still a minority of „lucky“ in this morose climate: artists already „launched“ from abroad, or those whose projects attract the participation of foreigners, and those who have the support from the top of the state or among the decision-makers from the sponsors.

2. Potential patrons and sponsors (deputies, senators, senior officers, women and businessmen, renowned lawyers, etc.) effectively assist artists. Provided that this „help“ helps them in return to become famous. Thus the phenomenon of „dedications“ has made the contents of musical works and the productions of the so-called popular theatre rendered insipid and obscene.

Therefore, „the fight“ consists in taking the public authorities and the sponsors to recognize the public utility of this competition and then to make it integrated in academic programmes. What is a reliable financial resource? Participation fees are an infallible source of input. They left so that the competitors receive rewards. Symbolic, certainly, but rewarded; the artists also receive a symbolic stamp; Symbolic are the bonuses paid to the organizers. Symbolic but how beneficent! Since 2011, for example, it is thanks to its share of the income of this activity that the ITI Centre has paid all its statutory contributions.

A. Contest, Three Experimental Editions

The organization of the competition for the criticism of a performance was based on the performances De la bouche de ma mère (a few theatrical tales from the collection of the writer Georges Mavouba-Sokate, bearing the same title) were launched on 5 March. The first phase stopped on March 14 to allow virtual competitors in the selected schools to concentrate on second quarter academic assessments. The second part was held from 13 to 29 April. The competition was closed on 6 June.

In all, eight (8) performances were attended at two (2) Cultural Spaces (Yaro and Suéco) and five (5) schools by more than two thousand spectators, including 1,712 competitors from said schools. In a city of more than five hundred (500) public and private schools, these insignificant numbers are the tragic stigma of lack of sponsors and poor communication around the event.

B. World Theatre Day Celebration

On Friday 27 March 2015, at the Espace du Trentenaire, a show was offered free of charge to the public by the company Total Exploitation & Production Congo. To this end, the theatrical troupe Les Pétroliers, sponsored by the said company, presented the play „I undersigned cardiac“ by Sony Labou Tansi, directed by Georges Boussi. Before the show, Mr. Yvon Wilfrid Lewalet-Mandah, the chronicler of the day, presented the history of the day; Then it was the reading of the international message by the Secretary General of the ITI Centre, Jean Léopold Ngoulou.

C. Theatre School Festival

From 26 to 31 March, there was also the Theatre School Festival (FTS) organized annually by the Cercle des jeunes artistes et créateurs (CJAC). On that occasion, the General Secretariat of the Centre was asked to elucidate to the public, at the opening of the festival, about the World Theatre Day. Jean Léopold Ngoulou was also one of the three members of the jury of the Best Fairytale Show whose proclamation and award ceremony marked the closing ceremony of the festival. More than ten schools had presented theatre and dance performances.

Period 2015 to 2016 : A season tarnished by the political climate

The ITI National Centre, its partners, and the cultural community in general, had been taken aback by the government's decision to spread out the various elections in exactly the same period as the cultural season. The constitutional referendum was convened on 25 October 2015; which was originally scheduled for July, the presidential election was to be postponed to 20 March 2016. The political tensions that preceded and the riots that paralyzed part of the country after these votes left little room for cultural expression.

Nevertheless, the celebration of the International Dance Day took place on 29 April, within the framework of the FTS (School Theatre Festival). As usual, the Secretary General of the ITI Centre read the international message at the opening ceremony and in the media. Exceptionally, World Theatre Day was celebrated in synchrony with the International Dance Day. The ITI Centre was pleased to find its partners who had become traditional in the organization of these events: L'Espace du Thentenaire of the Total E & P Company and the Théâtre Les Pétroliers, who presented Papa Zambie ou la liberté des autres directed by Charles Baloukou.

Congo Rep. Centre of ITI (Africa)

A Special Partner: Arterial Network Congo

Since 2012, a chapter (equivalent to the ITI Centre) of the Arterial Network has been established in the Republic of Congo. Led by Pierre Claver Mabila at its creation, it is now under the mandate of Félicien Guelbault Balende, while Germaine Ololo remained the Secretary General. Arterial Network has virtually the same vocation as the ITI, except that it manages a few more sectors of activity. The two institutions exchange regularly. Several times during 2016, the Secretaries General had to represent their respective structures at meetings.

Perspectives

After the break forced by the political atmosphere in 2016, L'Arche de Ngoujel and the Congolese ITI Centre had revived for 2017 the project to realize the contest of criticism of a show to an interdepartmental scope, if not national, hoping that this time the public authorities and the sponsors will fulfil the duty that is theirs. Three (3) cultural caravans travelled through the major cities and some secondary towns of the country. The procession was to be launched on 27 March (World Theatre Day) and ended on 30 April (the day after the celebration of International Dance Day). Meanwhile, on 17 February in Pointe-Noire, several schools would have ratified the convention setting out the modalities of their collaboration in the realization of the competition. A few cultural institutions would also have taken the opportunity to give an official stamp to their partnership with L'Arche de Ngoujel: this is the case of the ITI Centre (partnership tacitly concluded since 2005)

And, as wished, the attitudes have very positively evolved on the side of the public services and the virtual sponsors. As early as October 2015, the Ministry of Primary and Secondary Education had already issued a recommendation to its departmental directorates, inviting them to contribute to the success of the Ngoujel 1st Prize for performance criticism. In the name of the uniqueness of the government action, this note allowed the organizers of the competition to be very favourably received in all administrations from near or far. The sensitization campaign was successfully completed in the departments of the south of the country and in Brazzaville, the capital. For their part, reassured by the ministerial document, most companies solicited for sponsorship gave a favourable response. However, in order to organize the competition in as many departments as possible, the whole phase of the competition was postponed in April.

Unfortunately, at the beginning of March, in anticipation of the electoral campaign to be launched in June, the government announced that the state examinations would be held this year in May instead of June as usual. As a result, the school year was shrinking. As a result, in April, the main students involved in the competition were no longer able to be involved. It was therefore decided to postpone the first national edition of the competition to the next school year. A truly national edition, since the organizing committee will have continued and completed the national awareness campaign.

Because of this situation, the celebration of the World Theatre Day was postponed until 1 April 2017. In addition to some theatrical performances by theatre groups from Pointe-Noire, one General Assembly is scheduled, in which the Bureau of the Centre will make a detailed communication on the 35th ITI World Congress to be held in July in Spain. Encouraging the participation of young practitioners will be the main bridge in this communication. During this meeting, the celebration of the International Dance Day will be planned.

Conclusion

Notwithstanding the harsh financial situation, due to the lack of enthusiasm of virtual sponsors, cultural associations, in particular the Theatre and Dance Companies, and with them the Congolese Centre of the International Theatre Institute, still try to mark the local and national scenes by their presence. Convinced of the advantages of the contest for the criticism of a show, for young competitors, for artists and organizers, the Congolese Centre of ITI hopes to find, on the side-lines of the next congress, partners in order to experiment the activity of 2018, and of the contest.

Notes :

(1) „Experimental editions“ of the competition: In 2011, as the UNESCO grant was not supported locally and nationally, only students from some public and private schools in Pointe-Noire have been invited to compete. This restriction had provided competitors with quality rewards. In 2012, 2014 and 2015, in spite of the ambition of the project (to connect several localities to the competition and to invite all categories of young people: pupils, students, workers, unemployed graduates, workers, artists ...), the Organizers came back to the desolate „Plan B“, that is to say the scenario of selecting some schools as „guinea pigs“. Because without a major investment by major sponsors and public services, the pre-financing of the project holders proves insignificant even to carry out the project on a communal scale.

Siete Dramas Croatas Contemporaneos

The Argentinian publishing house „Biblos“ has published translations of seven Croatian plays in Spanish, entitled Siete Dramas Croatas Contemporaneos. The tome's translator and editor was Nikolina Židek, winner of the prestigious Teatro del Mundo award in 2014. The compiler of the anthology was teatrologist Darko Lukić, and it includes plays by the following authors: Ivor Martinić, Dubravko Mihanović, Nina Mitrović, Ivana Sajko, Tena Štivičić, Tomislav Zajec and Darko Lukić.

Festival of European Drama, Argentina

The Croatian Centre of ITI, with the financial support of Croatia House, participated at the Festival of European Drama in Buenos Aires in 2014, presenting the play My Son Just Walks a Bit Slower, written by Croatian playwright Ivor Martinić and directed by Guillermo Cacace. The play was made part of the repertoire of the Apacheta Sala/Estudio Theatre. After 20 performances, due to great public interest, the theatre requested the rights to perform the play for another two years, until June 2016. This makes My Son Just Walks a Bit Slower the only play at the festival which will continue to be performed in Buenos Aires.

Croatian Theatre Showcase, Zagreb, April 2015

The Croatian ITI Centre's traditional programme, this manifestation is a showcase of specially selected Croatian theatre and dance performances, aimed at foreign selectors who arrive in Zagreb especially for this occasion. 17 theatre professionals from China, the United Kingdom, Bulgaria, Algeria, Turkey, Greece, Austria, Germany, Romania, Montenegro and Serbia visited the showcase, 10 theatre and dance performances were performed, and additional sideshow programs, as well as conversations with Croatian artists, were organized as well.

International Drama Colony, From text to Stage, Groznjan, 2015

The International Drama Colony was organized in August 2015, in the picturesque medieval town of Groznjan. As a coproduction with the PlayDrama independent theatre from Split, we performed a public reading of French playwright Frederic Sonntag's play George Kaplan, translated by Dora Slakoper, as part of a special presentation of French culture in Croatia, the Festival Rendez – vous.

Salon of Theatre Books in Madrid, November 2015

At the Salon, the Croatian Center of ITI presented its books and publications in foreign languages, as well as the Teatro Croata publication, published for this occasion, which contains five plays by Croatian playwrights translated into Spanish by Nikolina Židek, and an accompanying essay about the state of Croatian drama, penned by teatrologist Matko Botić. The tome contains plays by Tomislav Zajec, Nina Mitrović, Dino Pešut, Kristina Gavran and Ivor Martinić. Future collaborations were also arranged with Spanish partners regarding the publishing of new books in Croatian and Spanish.

The Symposium was organized by the CCOITI and the Cultural Services of the Ministry of Education and Culture.

Activities 2015

Play On!

PLAY ON! is a continuation of PLAY, the successful collaboration between CCOITI and the Cyprus Theatre Organization (THOC), aimed at stirring up the waters of the playwriting field in Cyprus and achieving more staged productions of Cypriot contemporary plays. The two partner-bodies could not ignore the success of the first PLAY edition (2012-2013) and the much needed action in playwriting development voiced by all relative bodies. Thus, CCOITI and THOC continued with PLAY ON! The project succeeded in strengthening the bonds between Cyprus theatre production and Cypriot playwrights. The long-term goal is to see these plays, shown in staged readings under PLAY ON!, produced on Professional Cypriot theatre stages.

Within the framework of the project, the organizers addressed an open call receiving new Cypriot plays or playwriting samples. A team of coaches and trained professionals, studied the plays and gave comments to the playwrights, also undertaking coaching with selected plays.

On the February 14-15, the CCOITI and THOC presented staged readings of the four plays which were considered complete without needing a coaching procedure.

The seven plays chosen to undergo a coaching procedure were presented as staged readings on May 9 and 10.

With the aim of stimulating further debate on the usual problems faced by playwrights the two partner bodies invited Chrysa Spelioti from Greece to lead the playwriting workshop "Contemporary Cypriot Dramaturgy: Keys for playwriting". The workshop, which was attended by 40 participants, took place as a parallel event of PLAY ON! on May 8.

The project was extremely well-received and successful.

PLAY ON! – the third edition (staged readings)

Six new Cypriot plays were chosen to undergo a coaching procedure and presented in staged readings on February 11th, 2017 at the Apothikes THOC (Cyprus Theatre Organisation), in Nicosia. The goal of this effort was to create a bridge between the Cypriot playwrights and the theatre groups in Cyprus, in order to reinforce the staging of Cypriot plays. Indeed, a new wave of productions is developing and the results have so far been very encouraging.

“New Cypriot Theatre Voices”: Staged Readings of Cypriot theatre plays in Athens

In the context of the series of staged reading of Cypriot theatre plays in Athens “New Cypriot Theatre Voices”, the CCOITI in cooperation with the Embassy of the Cyprus Republic in Athens, House of Cyprus in Athens continues presenting the dramaturgy of Cypriot playwrights to audiences in Greece. The first presentation of the second edition of the project (2017) was the staged reading of Eva Koursoumpa’s play, Actus Reus, on January 31, 2017 at the House of Cyprus in Athens. The play had participated in the Play ON! Project (2014-2015).

Celebration of World Theatre Day 2017

The CCOITI translated the World Theatre Day Message and the biography of Isabelle Huppert into Greek and widely publicized it to the Media, the artistic community, the wider public and the members of the CCOITI.

Celebration of International Dance Day 2017

The CCOITI translated the International Dance Day Message and the biography of its author into Greek and widely publicized it to the Media, the dance community, the wider public and the members of the CCOITI.

Cyprus Digital Stage

The CCOITI will co-operate with the research team of the programme Cyprus Digital Stage of the Open University of Cyprus, Drama Department, as an associate organization. The aim of this effort is to begin the creation of a digitalized archive of performances staged in Cyprus.

2017 International Festival of Ancient Greek Drama

Enriching Cyprus theatre life for twenty years now, presenting wonderful performances based on the original texts of the three tragedians (Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides) and the comedian Aristophanes, the Cultural Services of the Ministry of Education and Culture, the CCOITI and the Cyprus Tourism Organisation will work on this year’s edition of the Festival. As always, the festival will take place during the whole month of July in open-air amphitheatres, such as the Ancient Odeon in Paphos, the Curium Ancient Theatre in Limassol and the “Skali” Amphitheatre in Nicosia.

International Participations and co-operations

EFFE - Europe for Festivals, Festivals for Europe Platform (www.effe.eu) Coordinating body: European Festivals Association (EFA)

The CCOITI participates in the project “EFFE – Europe for Festivals, Festivals for Europe”, a new European platform, a festival community that was created to function as a meeting space for festivals that are deeply committed to the arts, interact with their communities and act as a European and global actor. EFFE is a gateway into Europe’s festivals specialized in everything cultural. It intends to broaden awareness of what’s going on in the festival world and to promote excellence and innovation.

EFFE platform is a European Festival Guide that gives the opportunity to festivals active in the 28 Member States in Europe to be recognized on EU level. Launched by the European Festivals Association (EFA), the new pilot project of the European Commission is funded by the EU.

Eleven festivals organized in Cyprus are already included in the first generation of festivals that were honoured as EFFE Label recipients 2015-2016, festivals that were recognized for their artistic quality, their community involvement and their European and International character.

The CCOITI was selected as a Festival Hub in Cyprus, acting as the contact point for artists, festivals, policy-makers and local audience and is participating in this ambitious effort again in the second phase of the programme for the EFFE Label 2017-2018.

The Greek Play Project (www.greek-theatre.gr)

The CCOITI joined forces with the Greek Play Project, a dynamic platform that was created with the aim to promote Greek theatre play to the wider public, in a cooperation that seeks to introduce Cypriot playwrights to the public of Greece.

Initially the Greek play project included in its website four Cypriot playwrights who represent different generations and trends of Cypriot dramaturgy: Giorgos Neophytou, Andreas Koukides, Charalambos Giannou and Melina Papageorgiou. Dr Andri Constantinou initiated the academic dimension of this effort, by presenting her theoretical text on contemporary Cypriot dramaturgy. This first group of playwrights will reinforce with three more: Rina Katselli, Antonis Georgiou and Eurydice Perikleous-Papadopoulou.

The platform will be gradually complemented with the inclusion of more Cypriot dramaturges. This is just the beginning of a cooperation that will strengthen the cultural, social and artistic bonds between the CCOITI and The Greek Play Project.

Czech Centre of ITI (Europe)

The seat of the Czech ITI Centre is in the Arts and Theatre Institute, a state-funded organization founded by the Ministry of Culture of the Czech Republic (ATI). It closely cooperates mainly with the International Cooperation Department of the ATI. The department's main goal is promotion of Czech culture and especially theatre abroad and information about foreign theatre in the Czech Republic. It prepares the concepts, dramaturgy and production background for international and local projects, festivals, exhibitions, seminars, and conferences, and it also organizes such activities. It collaborates with Czech and foreign theatre and artistic organizations, institutions and universities. It actively participates in international networks and it develops Czech activities in the field of international non-governmental theatre organizations. It provides contacts and information about Czech theatre abroad and about foreign theatre at home. It prepares publications and informational materials about Czech theatre for dissemination abroad, and participates in the preparation of books for publication by the Arts and Theatre Institute.

The Czech ITI Centre acts as an important body for cultural advocacy as well.

After the closure of Theater Instituut Nederland at the end of 2012, it took some time and research before the international tasks and the Centre of the ITI founded a new place in the Netherlands. By October 2014 the international activities for the promotion of Dutch performing arts were placed under the umbrella of the Performing Arts Fund NL. With it, the Centre of ITI the Netherlands, was placed here as well, meaning that all activities of this Centre are those of Dutch Performing Arts, and vice versa.

Visitors programme @ November Music 2014

In the context of the festival we had a visitors programme aimed at promoting new Dutch music, for 12 international guests.

Visitors programme @ Cadance Festival/Korzo

Through the whole dance festival 46 international visitors saw the works of Dutch and foreign companies and choreographers.

Showcase and Visitors programme @ Classical: NEXT/de Doelen

We presented both a showcase and a visitors programme for international guests within the conference Classical:NEXT, held in Rotterdam. The aim was to promote classical music, attended by decision makers in the field of classical music.

Visitors programme @ Operadagen Rotterdam

Within the context of this festival, we took part in the organization of 'Operation Music Theatre', with pitches of young Dutch music theatre makers, and international guests.

Visitors programme @ Spring Festival Utrecht

In this festival we co-organized a programme about emerging theatre and dance makers, visited by international presenters.

Contribution to Prague Quadriennale

We supported the Dutch delegation of scenographers, winning the most important scenography price.

Contribution and side programme Ruhrtriennale

We supported the main programme of the Ruhrtriennale along with Dutch companies, and collaborated in the creation of a side programme of Dutch artists in the Refektorium in Bochum. This is part of a three year collaboration with the Ruhrtriennale.

Cultural mission to ACC, Gwangju, South Korea

We initiated a trip with six festival presenters and six young performing artists to South Korea to get acquainted with this festival and the South-East Asian performing arts scene.

Activities 2014–2016

The Faroe Islands received ITI membership in March 2014. This past year, our main focus has been to help prepare for the bi-annual "Nordic Performing Arts Days" festival (May 24-28, 2016), with the capital Torshavn as the host city. The festival is a diverse celebration of Nordic theatre, dance, workshops and seminars.

Even with a small theatre environment, as the Faroese, we undertook the great task of hosting this festival. This has been helped by some ITI board members participating in the management of the festival, while our closest ITI neighbours - the Nordic countries – are also supporters of the Festival.

See www.nordicperformingartsdays.fo for more information about the Festival.

To work closely together with all parties is the faroese way to do theatre; for ITI Føroyar, our main goal is to establish ITI as the obvious link between the Faroes and abroad.

Besides the Nordic Performing Arts Days, we are also working alongside the Faroese Actors' Union with the Ministry of Culture to develop the professional circumstances for the arts in Faroe Islands in general. This work has been going on for a while, and we look forward to ITI as an external international organisation to assist us in this regard.

Activities 2014–2016

The Centre is a Finnish theatre information centre acting on a national and international basis. TINFO cooperates with professional theatre artists, directors, producers and festival managers. TINFO facilitates artistic networks by organizing events, seminars, workshops, drama readings, and showcases in co-operation with different partners in Finland and abroad. TINFO publishes yearly Finnish theatre statistics. TINFO produces material and advice on international mobility, international networks, artist exchanges and Finnish theatres and artists. TINFO offers drama translation grants which are intended to support younger playwrights as well as translation of Finnish plays which have not been translated to any other languages. TINFO runs international and national projects and produces various publications on the Finnish performing arts. TINFO delivers electronic newsletters in Finnish, Swedish, English, and in German.

Selected Projects:

The Centre (together with the Theatre Museum) is responsible for the Finnish Theatre Database which collates all Finnish performances and maintains many other databases (New Plays from Finland, Drama Translation Database).

The Centre is responsible for statistical information regarding the Finnish performing arts. The Theatre Statistics include all the regularly operating professional theatres, which employ full-time professional staff throughout the year and have regular performance activities. The statistics include income and expenditure statistics, personnel statistics, performance and spectator statistics, statistics on theatres outside the financing law (free groups), dance and circus performance and audience statistics. TINFO has made several surveys on the status of freelance performing artists.

TINFO coordinated a Finnish-Russian theatre co-operation project "Zavod-Savotta" 2013–2015 supported by the Ministry of Education and Culture in Finland, Embassy of Finland in Moscow and the participating theatres in both countries. It consisted of two different forms of activity: Finnish partners meeting and organizing guest performances with independent theatre groups from St. Petersburg; Chekhov Moscow Art Theatre's project "Finnish Theatre. First Time in Russian". The continuation, "Savotta-DvA" project started in the year 2016.

Celebration of the World Theatre Day. Drama reading The Maiden Diaries (by Natalia Vorozhbyt) and panel discussions around the situation in Ukraine were organized in collaboration with The Finnish National Theatre and Finnish PEN. The play reading and the discussion on the artists' responsibility, ethics and freedom of expression was well received and got public attention. TINFO Awards 2014 ceremonies were held during the same occasion. The message was read on stage (both in Finnish and Swedish) all over Finland.

Seminars and workshops on various themes:

140th ITI Executive Council Session

Fujairah, 20-22 February 2015

Fujairah ITI Centre hosted the 140th ITI EC meeting and session in Fujairah, United Arab Emirates. The sessions were presided by President Mohamed Al Afkham and his Vice-Presidents, and were attended by all Executive Council members.

World Theatre Day 2015 Celebration

Fujairah ITI Centre celebrated World Theatre Day by inviting the author of the World Theatre Day message - Polish director Krzysztof Warlikowski - to visit Fujairah and celebrate the event with local artists and theatre experts. The event included a screening of a short film (8 minutes long) by Warlikowski that was followed by a welcoming address delivered by ITI President Mohammed Saif Al Afkham. Krzysztof Warlikowski read the World Theatre Day message in English, and Naji Al Hai read its Arabic translation. The event also included a theatrical performance entitled „Ghadan“ (Tomorrow), produced by Hamad Bin Abdullah High School and featuring a number of its students.

7th Fujairah School Theatre Festival

19-23 April 2015

The 7th cycle of the annual Fujairah Schools Theatre Festival was held during April 2015 and sponsored by H.H. Sheikh Dr. Rashid bin Hamad Al Sharqi, FCMA's Chairman. The festival was organized by Fujairah ITI Centre, Fujairah Culture and Media Authority and Fujairah Educational Zone with participation from all the government schools in Fujairah (both males and females schools). The plays were staged in both Dibba Al Fujairah theatre and the theatre of the Ministry of Culture, Youth and Community Development in Fujairah with a Jury that comprised local and regional theatre experts. The festival ended with an awards ceremony attended by prominent Arab theatre artist Asaad Fidha.

Maintenance works at Dibba Theatre and Monodrama House Theatre

Fujairah ITI Centre funded maintenance works at Dibba Theatre and Monodrama House Theatre in Dibba city. The two theatres were also provided with new lighting and sound systems and equipments.

No Rules, an Afro contemporary dance piece based on Efo Kodjo Mawugbe's In the Chest of a Woman

Activities 2014–2016

The National Theatre of Ghana is an agency mandated by Government to develop and promote the performing Arts in Ghana through cost-effective production of classical and contemporary live stage and televised performances which project positive national values and the African personality. The Ghana ITI operates in the domain of The National Theatre, operating with existing programs and creating new projects.

World Theatre Day 2014

As part of activities marking World Theatre Day, the National Theatre used the opportunity to launch the 2014 'Comedy Series' in Accra. It is a program for young talented comedians to showcase their works on stage with a live audience on a monthly basis. (www.ghanaonlinenews.com/the-ghana-national-theatre-celebrates-world-theatre-daypress-release/)

Children's Theatre Programme

Funworld is a theatrical programme with performances created and performed by children for children. Funworld was initiated in the 1990's to entertain and educate children through drama, music, dance, rap music, poetry recitals and quizzes, amongst others. It is presented on the last Sunday of each month, with selected themes that are prompted by the United Nations Day's celebrations. The programme's target groups are pupils in Basic and Junior High School between 5 and 16 years. The goals of this programme are to:

- discover young talent and nurture them into modern-day arts professionals
- entertain, educate and inform audiences on social issues through the arts

- grow an artistic pool for the entertainment industry
- teach young people to appreciate the arts industry.

Spoken Word Competition

TEEN SLAM GHANA is a spoken word competition for Junior and Senior High schools to encourage them to write and present insightful poetry, while inculcating a love of poetry and improving basic writing skills. The competition takes place during the schools' academic calendar.

Indigenous Theatre

CONCERT PARTY, our flagship programme for years, is a presentation of an indigenous theatre performance that employs music, dialogue, dance and comedy in a drama backed by live band music to educate, entertain and inform audiences. Local languages are employed with the Akan dialect as the major language used.

It was introduced as part of the Theatre's programming to:

- promote the good cultural traits of the Ghanaian personality
- discover, nurture and promote raw talents to create a talent pool for theatre and the local movie industry
- grow an audience base for all live stage performances in our various local dialects.

World Poetry Day

The National Theatre celebrated this day, March 21, 2015 by organizing the finals of the Teen Slam Ghana Series. Three schools from two areas in Ghana (Accra &

World Theatre Day

World Theatre Day 2015 was observed with students from New Horizon Special School, a school for children with autism. The idea behind this was to create the awareness that theatre can be used as therapy and to affirm the statement that "Disability is not Inability". The National Drama Company and the National Dance Company performed a sketch from R.A. Cantey's "Ghana Motion" which touches on patriotism and solidarity amongst the youth and it was chaired by the Deputy Minister of Tourism, Culture and Creative Arts.

International Dance Day

The National Dance Company with support from the National Theatre of Ghana organized traditional dance performances at Accra Psychiatric Hospital on April 29, 2015. In fulfilment of our social responsibility, a workshop was also organized for patients, doctors, nurses and workers of the hospital on the rudiments of dance in addition to the donation of clothes, sanitary ware, etc from the staff of the National Theatre of Ghana.

Musical heritage

Agro Ye Fri Titi (Highlife Time Live Band Music) is a live band programme that partners the National Security Services Band under the Ministry of Interior and a highlife musician to showcase a live band musical performance in an Amphitheatre (open bar theatre scene). The aim of this programme is to re-introduce our old melodic musical genre back onto the music market by giving the old and prominent highlife musicians a platform to give the audience a taste of a cultural heritage that has placed Ghana on the global stage for many years.

Local to Global

The Ghana Centre came up with a plan to add some level of international appeal to our local content in terms of our staged performances. This led to the development of works like:

- NO RULES, an Afro contemporary dance piece based on Efo Kodjo Mawugbe's "In the Chest of a Woman", which was a collaboration between the National Theatre of Ghana, the French Embassy in Ghana and Institut Francais. This dance piece was choreographed by Joseph Aka and was performed by dancers from Ghana and Ivory Coast. It was staged on April 30, 2015.
- MOTHER'S TEARS was a play written by the legendary Ghanaian writer Kwaw Ansah, directed by Vivian Agboe Boateng. This was a collaborative work between the National Theatre of Ghana, National Drama Company (Abibigromma) and the United Artistes to celebrate our mothers on Mother's Day. It was performed on May 9-10, 2015.
- DIEMA was a collaborative work between the National Theatre of Ghana, the National Dance Company, the National Symphony Orchestra with choreographers from the University of Ohio and Azaguno to produce three nights of explosive live staged Ghanaian contemporary dance performances and music. This was staged from June 18-20, 2015. Workshops were also organized for dance choreographers and dancers by artistes from the USA and China.
- Flagstaff House: The National Theatre collaborated with the Hyfocal Multimedia and Nyansapor Productions to stage a satirical play that will give young comedians the opportunity to showcase their talent on a bigger and grander stage. This was staged on July 3, 2015.

Ghana Theatre Festival

Created by ITI Ghana, the 7-day festival (October 12-18, 2015) is supported by the Ministry of Tourism, Culture and Creative Arts, with a three-fold programme:

- workshops for upcoming artistes to develop their skills in the Creative Arts
- to educate creative artistes on the importance of marketing works
- to showcase the best of works by professional artistes in the area and at the same time.

Kiddafest (Accra International Kids Festival)

This annual festival has been in existence for the past 20 years and is supported by the Ministry of Tourism, Culture & Creative Arts and Ghana Education Service (GES). The programme is organized annually to help unearth new talents, nurture, motivate young talented kids and to also develop a young audience base that appreciates the creative arts. The 2015 Festival (December 17-19) was themed "Creating Harmony through Cultural Diversity".

Dance addressing delinquency

BUKOM is a dance performance written and choreographed by the late Prof. Nii Yartey. This piece talks about a juvenile delinquent and the unfavourable environment in which he finds himself as well as the dramatic changes that spring after going through this period. This dance piece was performed on 14/15 March 2015.

Upcoming Events for 2016

- World Theatre Day: 'Baobab', a play on teen pregnancy with the emphasis on taking care of the baby post-delivery, will be performed by the resident drama company in a deprived community on Easter Sunday, March 27, 2016
- Nana Ampadu's 50th anniversary in show business: the legendary highlife maestro Nana Kwame Ampadu will collaborate with the Theatre in celebrating this milestone on May 21, 2016

Second and Third “Ekfrasi Athina” Festivals

The City of Athens and the Cultural, Sports and Youth Organization promotes new creations through this annual festival which was held from September, 5 – 11, 2014 in the open-air theatre of Koumoundourou Square, and in 2015 from September 30 – October 4 in the Strefi’s Hill open-air theatre. The Hellenic Centre of the ITI collaborated with the City of Athens and the Cultural, Sports and Youth Organisation in these festivals. This joint action opened an artistic dialogue with the residents of deprived areas of the city through the free, public presentation of the works of young artists and theatre and dance ensembles. The “Ekfrasi Athina” Festival has acquired the EFFE Festival Label from the “Europe for Festivals, Festivals for Europe” programme, a new network which connects cultural networks and festivals through Europe.

Forum of Contemporary Dramaturgy

The Hellenic Centre of ITI organizes an annual Forum of Contemporary Dramaturgy in which the plays of international dramaturgy that have never been performed before in Greece, are presented as staged readings in Greek with theatre professionals as the primary audience. The tenth Forum of Contemporary Dramaturgy is scheduled for spring 2016.

Post-Forum Student Festival

Following the Forum of Contemporary Dramaturgy, a Post-Forum Student Festival is held, and it includes new Greek plays. The second Post-Forum Student Festival was held on 21st December 2014 at the Michael Cacoyannis Foundation. Five new Greek plays were presented for first time in the form of staged readings by students of drama schools and theatrical workshops in Athens.

Hellenic ITI participates in the 13th Prague Quadrennial

The Prague Quadrennial of Performance Design and Space is the most important global exhibition in the field of Performing Space, Scenography and Stage Architecture. The Quadrennial has been held every four years since 1967 and the Hellenic ITI Centre has collaborated with the exhibition since 1991. In 2015, the 6th Hellenic participation in the Prague Quadrennial was under the auspices of the Hellenic National Commission for Unesco, the Greek Theatre Designers Association and the Hellenic Theatre Studies Association.

Between 18-28 June, Greece was represented by 20 artists participating in 27 projects, 240 students from 9 schools and three live performances.

Athens System 2014, Hellenic Performing Arts Platform

The Athens System aims to promote Hellenic theatre and dance productions abroad. The 2014 platform (November 25-29) was the fourth time that it was staged since 2007. It was held under the auspices of EUNIC (European Union of National Institutes for Culture), and was attended by artistic directors and curators of international festivals, promoters and cultural organizations that have the ability to invite performances to their own countries.

International Actions for the Performing Arts

Staging Invisibility: 2014 – 2015

This programme aimed to promote a fruitful scientific dialogue to strengthen the exchange of the international performing arts community through three actions:

Conference : New spatialities: design for outdoors/open performance space

November 1st, 2014, Michael Cacoyannis Foundation
The purpose of this one-day conference was to present recent performing arts projects that took place in outdoor and public spaces; these projects were part of the Hellenic’s National Participation at the 13th Prague Quadrennial of Performance Design and Space.

Interdisciplinary Conference: The Performer in the 21st Century

March 30th, 2015, Michael Cacoyannis Foundation
The main theme of this conference was the presentation of structural correlations between performance, visual arts, new technologies, science, bio-art and choreographic research in order to explore the transformations and the shifting role of the Performer in the 21st century.

International Dance Conference: Cut and Paste: Dance advocacy in the age of austerity

Dates and venues: June 4-7, 2015, Michael Cacoyannis Foundation and “Theatron”, Hellenic Cosmos Cultural Centre

The Hellenic Centre of the ITI in collaboration with the organizations Society of Dance History Scholars (SDHS) and the Congress of Research in Dance (CORD), and under the auspices of the Association of Greek Choreographers, organized for the first annual International Dance Conference in Greece, with more than 350 academics, keynote speakers and teachers from Greece and abroad participating in the event.

World Theatre Day

WTD has become an important celebration for the theatres in Hungary. We took it as our responsibility to have the World Theatre Day Message translated to Hungarian and sent it to each Hungarian theatre, established or independent company. This list was further enlarged between 2014–2016 as we have sent the message also to the theatres in the neighbouring countries that perform in the Hungarian language. In almost all of the theatres – both the established and independent ones – the World Theatre Day Message was read aloud before the performance on 27 March.

A big ceremony was organized in partnership with the Actors' Guild, taking place in:

Hevesi Sándor Prize

During the World Theatre Day celebration the Hevesi Sándor Prize-giving ceremony also takes place, and is awarded to three theatre personalities who contributed the most in the increase of international recognition of the Hungarian theatre. Following the decision of the Executive Committee of the Hungarian Centre, not only the member theatres are asked to suggest candidates but all Hungarian theatres and professional organizations are invited to submit nominations. We took this decision because the prize has been attaining more and more prestige during the past years and it is now a cause that engages the whole Hungarian theatre field. The theatres in these years proved to be willing to take a very active role in the nomination. The board, composed of delegates by the Ministry of Human Capacities and the ITI Hungarian Centre, reached a decision based on these suggestions. The prize winners' names were widely publicized in the daily newspapers and many internet sites.

Publication:

We compiled two English language newsletters in the last two years in which we promoted mostly the current performances of the member theatres, one from each theatre. Based on this principle, not only the member theatres but also other significant events or performances from the Hungarian theatre life will be featured in the newsletter.

The Hungarian Centre requested the help of the Dramaturges' Guild to prepare a list with short synopses of the plays submitted to our office and published in different magazines. This task was done voluntarily by some members of the Guild and the Hungarian ITI Centre disseminated it to the dramaturges.

Other activities

On the request of the organizers of the National Festival of Theatres in Pécs (POSZT), we have made our suggestions for the international jury of the festival, also carrying out the organizing and communicational work which pertained to this.

Long-term project

Being vigilant of the changes in the Hungarian theatre life, especially seeing the spectacular recent developments in puppetry for youth and children's theatre performances, we have initiated a project application to the European Union, together with the Hungarian Theatre Museum and Institute, as members of an international consortium. The aim of the project is to bring to life a virtual international puppet museum while also developing methods of theatre pedagogy. The Hungarian Centre of ITI decided to participate in the project because it was convinced that this project can be a long-term cooperation of great interest for Hungarian theatre life, in which the Hungarian Centre, with its broad international experiences, can enhance the success of the research, spreading our name and activities in much wider circles, among new, predominantly young audiences.

Executive Committee

President: Anna Lakos (dramaturge and Manager of Research at the Hungarian Theatre Museum and Institute)

Vice President: János Novák (manager of Kolibri Színház)

Members: Tibor Csizmadia (director, Department Leader at the University of Theatre and Film); Zsuzsa Cserje (dramaturge, director); Bence Mattyasovszky-Zsolnai (administrative director of the Katona József Színház); Rita Sebestyén (dramaturge, theatre critic, editor) and Edit Zeke (set and costume designer).

The Hungarian Centre of the International Theatre Institute (ITI) operates as an organisation registered at the Budapest Court of Law. The president and the Executive Committee must organise a meeting of the general assembly each year and report about the work which had been done in the year bygone and the financial situation of the organisation. Required by the legal changes in 2014, new statutes were compiled for the Hungarian Centre, which were accepted by the Court of Law of the Capital on 25 March, 2015. The Committee has a mandate until 2018.

Activities 2014–2017

On 17th November 2014 the Executive Council of ITI unanimously accepted a new member – a new Indian Centre of ITI. This centre was initiated by the International Association for Performing Arts and Research, a Pune based organization working in the performing arts.

International Association for Performing Arts and Research (IAPAR) is a network of artists and arts professionals seeking to exchange ideas, increase opportunity within the arts community and connect all within it. IAPAR encourages independence and openness for interdisciplinary thinking and action. It works as the Indian Centre of International Theatre Institute.

IAPAR is also the only Indian member institute of the ITI/ UNESCO Network for Higher Education in Performing Arts.

The Indian Centre of ITI is hosted by International Association for Performing Arts and Research (IAPAR), Pune. The primary objectives of this centre are:

- To promote international exchange of knowledge and practices in theatre, music, dance and other performing arts in order to consolidate peace and friendship between people, to deepen mutual understanding and to increase creative co-operation between all people in theatre arts
- To promote social development, creativity and cross-cultural understanding by utilizing the performing arts in productions, training and exchange programmes, nationally and internationally
- To abide by the Charter of the ITI and the organization's core values, namely inspiration, inclusiveness, collaboration and transparency

- To share the UNESCO goals of mutual understanding and peace, and support the UNESCO Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions
- To co-ordinate the activities of the centre with other international centres of ITI across the globe

The initiators of this centre are senior actress and theatre practitioner Ms. Sushama Deshpande, senior theatre critic Dr. Ajay Joshi and senior theatre practitioner and Founder Director of IAPAR Shri. Vidyaniidhee Vanarase (Prasad).

The team is joined by senior playwright Shri. Abhiram Bhadkamkar, senior theatre director and teacher Shri. Anirudhha Khutwad, theatre practitioners Devendra Saralkar, Nikhil Gadgil, Amrut Samak, Surabhi Natu, Tanmayee Ambekar, Anushka Vaze, dancers Rashmi Pandkar, Aditi Venkateshwaran, and painter Madhura Pendse.

theatre critic Dr. Ajay Joshi. A performance based on Marathi poetry was produced for the occasion.

Voice and Speech Workshop

The Indian Centre of ITI, in association with IAPAR, conducted a three month workshop that provided a basic understanding of voice in order to significantly improve oratory abilities. The participants critically examined their own speeches and the speeches of their peers while the basic focus of the workshop was understanding voice, speech and approaching text. The workshop saw participation from more than 30 people from varied backgrounds, including working professionals, performers and students

Anandrang-Theatre and Arts Workshop for Children (2015-present)

Anandrang is a project for the development of children. The Indian Centre of ITI believes in a continuous process of development. The Anandrang project includes workshops and performances for children in the age group of 8 to 14. So far more than a thousand children have been a part of this programme. It provides opportunities for extra-curricular social experiences and expressive activities.

The Balancing Act (2015-present)

Performed in India and Sri Lanka (Colombo International Theatre Festival)

"The Balancing Act" is a play in gibberish. This play looks at violence as seen and experienced by young children. The Balancing Act was premiered at Colombo international theatre Festival and is still performed at various artistic

DNA (2015-present)

Performed in India, "DNA" a play written by Giorgos Neophytou, a veteran playwright from Cyprus. The play was translated in Marathi by Dr. Shyamala Vanarase. In a break from the conventional practice that confines a play to a pre-determined venue, DNA is performed at intimate spaces, including in living rooms and several artistic recreational spaces. First presented on 2nd November 2015, it is still being performed. The production has completed more than 35 performances.

2016

World Theatre Day Celebration

The World Theatre Day was celebrated by performing the twenty fifth show of the play DNA. The World Theatre Day message delivered by Anatoly VASILIEV was translated into Marathi and Hindi for this occasion.

Dramatic Book Reading of "Our Sanctuary"

A story-reading session of the book titled 'Our Sanctuary,' written by Mrinalinee Vanarase, a young writer and environmentalist was organized for children, parents and teachers. The story revolved around a family and their efforts to incorporate wilderness in an urban setting. The programme was very well attended by several parents who brought their children, as well as story-loving adults.

A workshop covering several aspects of physical theatre was organized. It aimed to stimulate participants' physical, emotional and imaginative abilities through a series of exercises and game structures. The workshop introduced the participants to the various levels of physical-muscular tension, dramatic structure, text and sub-text, which are essential for an actor-creator process. The workshop was facilitated by a young theatre maker, Abhishek Thapar.

Floating World- Movement Workshop

This was a workshop that provided introduction to contemporary movement for beginners, exploring elements of a wide variety of practises through movement, dance-making, readings, discussions and collaborative creation. The workshop focused upon conducting movement exercises which help individuals unmask themselves from their current role set and focus internally on the emotional, social and at times, spiritual movement. The workshop was facilitated by young dancer-actor-performer Aditi Venkateshwaran.

Dramatic Book Reading of "Prateek"

A dramatic book reading session of 'Prateek,' was organized for children, parents and teachers. It is a story of a little boy with who finds an old coin, which takes him places he never imagined. The tale also talks about environmental issues caused by developmental initiatives that harm villages more than they benefit them.

IAPAR International Theatre Festival

Along with the several on-going projects Indian Centre of ITI decided to support the first IAPAR International Theatre Festival in November 2016. The focus of the festival was to showcase original and stimulating theatre work from across the globe. From 18th to 22nd of November, we were joined by artists from Austria, Germany, Italy, Japan, Korea, Russia, Sri Lanka and of course India. The festival saw more than three thousand people in the audience. Community members in Pune had the opportunity to participate in several workshops and master classes, as well as watch wonderful performances.

#WakingTheFeminists

Abbey Theatre, November 12, 2015

Following the launch in October, by the Abbey Theatre, Ireland National Theatre, of its programme to mark the centenary of the 1916 Easter Rising, there was an outpouring of testimonies from both women and men working in Irish theatre, highlighting the disenfranchisement and chronic under-representation of the work of women artists at the Abbey, and by extension in the Irish arts industry. Representatives of the movement have since begun to engage with all the major state-funded theatre organisations, to make gender equality a reality through their policies and programming. Irish Theatre Institute's response to this was the generation of statistics through its Irish playography database website. Irish Theatre Institute will publish a Findings Report in March 2016 highlighting the number of produced plays

Italian Centre of ITI (Europe)

Metamorphosis Project, a project focusing on gender based conflicts and the tragic situation of migrations in the Euro-Mediterranean area.

Founded in 2012, ITI Italia's partners include: Teatro Vascello (Roma), Accademia Amiata Mutamenti (Grosseto), La Mama Umbria International (Spoleto), Teatro Aenigma (Pesaro), Astràgali Teatro-Eufonia società cooperativa (Lecce), along with sociologists, philosophers, experts in management and cultural communication.

The Italian Centre's objectives include: internationalising the stage and building international partnerships for research, exchange, and co-production projects, aimed at fostering intercultural dialogue and peace, with work highly oriented towards relationship and exchange with the global network of National Centres.

Activities November-December 2014

1. ITI Italy took part as a partner in the international project "WALLS-Separate Worlds", supported by the European Union 'Culture Program 2007-2013', with partners from Italy, France, Cyprus, Greece, Turkey. The project featured also the involvement of the International Theatre Institute Directorate General and of the Cyprus Centre of ITI as partners, and the German Centre of ITI as associated partner. The project carried out activities in Sirince-Turkey, Zakynthos-Greece, Paris-France, Berlin-Germany, Lecce-Italy and Nicosia-Cyprus, and each locale included international theatre residencies, site-specific performances, meetings, conferences. The project dealt with the wound of walls that are still present in our societies and affect our lives in many forms.

2. We organized the National Assembly of Theatre Critics that was held in Lecce (Italy) in November and saw the involvement of the majority of Italian theatre critics, the implementation of an international meeting on the activities of ITI with the participation of the German Centre of ITI. Furthermore performances, seminars, and round-tables were made.

3. Participated in two international conferences on artistic residencies in Europe and in the world, organized by the member Accademia Amiata Mutamenti. The first within the frame of the Tuscania Festival, held in Castel del Piano. It featured the involvement of operators from the United States, Bangladesh, Germany, Greece, and Cyprus. The second residence is organized by ITI Italy in Mesagne with the participation of Italian theatre residences networks.

4. Were involved in an international theatre residency held in Spoleto on the topic of 'Theatre and SocialChange', organized by the member LaMama Umbria, that featured the implementation of international performances and meetings.

5. Supported, and continues to support, the artistic residency realized at Teatro Paisiello in Lecce by Astràgali Teatro, a member of ITI Italy, hosting many relevant performances and artists from Italy and abroad.

Activities 2015

1. Supported the ROMA-PROJECT 2015-2016, promoted by Astragali Teatro. A research and performing arts project on Roma culture. The performance realized within the project was played on 8 April in Lecce, to celebrate the "Day of Roma and Sinti culture".

2. World Theatre Day 2015 Celebration

Organized and coordinated the Celebration of the World Theatre Day in Italy (Warlikowski's message) with many initiatives (performances, readings) all over the national territory, in collaboration with the Ministry of Culture.

Within the WTD initiatives it supports the 2nd National Day of Theatre in Prisons, promoted by Aenigma association (member of ITI Italy), with the support of the Ministry of Defence. It features performances and workshops for and with detained people, and played in prisons all over the Italian territory.

It provided the auspices to many artistic initiatives responding to the goals of ITI, among which the VI National Day of Commedia dell'Arte

3. Was involved in the National Convention on 'Theatre and Social Change', organized by an Aenigma association member of ITI Italy, with the support of the Ministry of Culture, held in Urbino in December, which focused on theatre in prisons and theatre in conflict situations, ultimately exploring how theatre can promote social change.

4. Was a partner in METAMORPHOSIS-PROJECT, in Tunis, Aug. /Sept. 2015; and in Astragali Teatro Lecce, (workshops, roundtables and special meetings about "Theatre in conflict zones"). The project was focused around gender-based conflicts and the tragic situation of migrations in the Euro-Mediterranean area.

5. Many presentations of the book "Theatre in conflict zones" by Fabio Tolledi, President of ITI Italy, were made in order to raise awareness on theatre in conflict zones through the work of Astragali in Palestine, Iraq, Syria and other areas in conflict.

Scrivere il teatro (Writing theatre)

Together with the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of Culture, the Italian Centre of ITI promoted the call for short plays 'Scrivere il teatro' (Writing theatre), addressed to schools of all levels and degrees in Italy. The selected plays were rewarded in a ceremony related to World Theatre Day, held on 16 March at Teatro Vascello in Rome, in the presence of Ministry of Education and Ministry of Culture representatives, ITI representatives, students and artists. The World Theatre Day message of Anatoli Vassiliev was read by a student. This initiative is made within the frame of the Ministry of Education Table on 'School and Theatre' (a strategic asset in the new Italian educational system) of which the Italian Centre is a member.

Furthermore the message was sent to all the schools that responded to the Call (almost 150), as well as to the artists and theatres.

Within the World Theatre Day initiatives the Centre supports the 3rd National Day of Theatre in Prisons, promoted by Aenigma association (a member of the Italian Centre), with the support of Ministry of Defence.

We provided the auspices to many artistic initiatives related to the goals of ITI, among which was the VII National Day of Commedia dell'Arte.

Ellen Stewart International Award

The Centre supported the Ellen Stewart International Award, an award given to an individual theatre artist or theatre company whose work promotes social change and community participation with a particular focus on the engagement of young people. Named for La MaMa founder Ellen Stewart, The International Award celebrates her remarkable lifetime achievements in the theatre and her dedication to creating a world theatre which embraces all traditions and cultural identities.

Roma-Project 2016

The Italian Centre supported the Roma-Project 2016, promoted by Astràgali Teatro and Dilinò and Freimproductions. A research and performing arts project on Roma culture. The performance realised within the project was played on 8 April in Lecce, to celebrate the "Day of Roma and Sinti culture". The activities on 6-10 April, made in Rome and Lecce, included a rich calendar with round tables, meetings, photo exhibitions, videos, and music concerts, made in collaboration with the Roma camp community of Panareo (Lecce). These activities were promoted in collaboration with the International Centre of Interdisciplinary Studies on Migrations – University of Salento; Dipartimento di Storia, Società e Studi sull'Uomo – University of Salento and several cultural and Roma associations.

Artistic Residency

The Centre supported the artistic residency realized at Teatro Paisiello in Lecce by Astràgali Teatro, member of the Italian Centre, by hosting many relevant performances and artists from Italy and abroad.

Young People for the Social

The Centre collaborated on the project 'Young people for the social', with activities and a theatre workshops addressed to young people with disabilities.

Methamorphosis Project

We contributed to the Metamorphosis-Project, that featured, the presentation of the site-specific international and multilingual performance 'Metamorphoses' in several towns in the South of Italy, made by Astragali Teatro Lecce, with Tunisian, Bulgarian, Turkish, and Italian performers. The activities, made in collaboration with Tunisian cultural associations, included workshops, roundtables and special meetings about 'Theatre in conflict zones' as we aimed to raise awareness regarding the Tunisian situation, Euro-Mediterranean migration and gender issues.

First European Regional Council in Italy

The Centre organized the first European Regional Council Meeting in October 2016 in Lecce (Italy).

Alchemies – the Distillery Nicola De Giorgi

The Centre promotes the long-term community-based project 'Alchemies - the Distillery Nicola De Giorgi', aiming at the creation of an international artistic residency space (the space of a former distillery) in a small town in the South of Italy, for social empowerment and community care through performing arts. The project aims to realise an international residence for artists in this unique site. It features the implementation of theatre Summer Schools, workshops, performances, and community-based actions. Artistic residencies for performing arts is a core issue for the Centre. Among the projects: P.A.I.R. with partner residencies from Cyprus, Germany and Belgium; the current project Alchimie with the recovery of a former distillery factory as an international artistic residency and new seat for the Italian Centre of ITI.

WorkTable

The Italian Centre of ITI is part of the WorkTable promoted by the Ministry of Education, University and Research (MIUR), aimed at defining strategies and practices to promote theatre, music, and dance in Italian schools. Along with MIUR and the Ministry of Cultural Heritage and Activities and Tourism (MIBACT), it promotes the call for participation Scrivere il Teatro (Writing Theatre), addressed to all students of all

Theatrum Mundi

The Centre is currently a partner in the international project Theatrum Mundi, supported by the EU 'Creative Europe Programme'. The project focuses on some forms of theatrical traditions present in the countries involved, such as Italian 'comedy', Ancient Greek Drama, the storytelling tradition, and the meaning of these traditional theatre forms in contemporary multicultural urban contexts. The project features the implementation of a range of artistic activities, based on international mobility, exchange of artists and works of art as well as on audience development actions that are combined with a participatory research. Activities aim to: improve artist's professionalism and careers through the co-working between artists and cultural operators with diverse theatrical backgrounds and languages; involve the audiences in new enriching experiences, and bring them closer to artists. The activities are realized in Italy, Greece, Netherlands, and France. Main project outputs are: an international performance, presented and toured in the 4 countries; a series of audience development actions; a multimedia platform, including research results, artistic activities materials, archives; a publication on the participatory research and actions; a video on project actions.

General Remarks about the Kosovo Centre

- The ITI Centre of Kosovo over the past years has collaborated with young artists from all over Kosovo, including minority communities (Roms, Ashkali, Egyptians, Serbs etc.) In the „Drama Colony“.
 - Kosovo is represented by Kushtrim Mehmeti, during the activity Mehmeti introduces the „The Liar“ monodrama, among the artistic experiences there is inspiration for the regional cooperation where there were participants from countries such as Croatia, Slovenia, Serbia and Macedonia.
 - The involvement of minority communities as an added value of Kosovar society is the goal of the Centre of Kosovo, from many artists Fisnik Sykaj is distinguished and exceptional for participating in international festivals in countries like Colombia, Austria, Uganda and Rwanda, he forms a group of actors of minority communities and works in continuous cooperation and unreserved support for ITI.
 - The club of artists “Cult Club” in collaboration with ITI is already creating the “Summer Cult” festival in which is promoted the street’s art and also other theater mediums. Unlike many other festivals Summer Cult is close to the public and engages them constantly in performance.
 - The Kosovo Centre has excellent cooperation with the Faculty of Arts in Prishtina and from this cooperation we highlight some of the activities briefly:
 - Theatrical carnival, a number of more than 30 actors with different characters of the world drama come to the squares of the capital informing the passers about the theatre, the character and the performances, also play, dance and sing together with them.
 - The presentation of the three most popular systems Stanislavski, Grotowski and Brecht, as a theatre workshop, attending more than 150 artists from different fields and activities for 7 days, the workshop was organized by Gezim Hasani, Fata Hyseni, Embeta Tahiri in support to ITI.
 - Theatre worker, presentation of „Periods and styles of Art, collaboration of students of the faculty of Arts and ITI.
- The Kosovo Centre realized cooperation with local organizations like: KIA, Pro Art’s Creative, Beyond the Wall, and Mitrix culture, together with these organizations the ITI realized a large number of activities such as:
 - 1) Music and Stand Up Night, in the cities of Skenderaj and Mitrovica, young artists including minority communities join every 14 days to promote their cultures by performing part of their culture, the activity is still ongoing and has marked a great success in achieving the objectives, ITI and Beyond the Wall intend to expand the activity in other municipalities as well.
 - 2) Mitrix culture in support of ITI develops theatre forum with young actors in all municipalities of Kosovo. Marigona Bekteshi-Ferati part of northern Mitrovica inhabited by Serbian community, through the forum theater has achieved to unite in one place all communities performing their individual and social experiences through the forum theater.
 - 3) Pro Art’s Creative has a number of the 114 young artists who successfully create future generations under the constant care of ITI and Mehmet Preteni, who comes from the Bosnian community. Preteni except plays organizes other drama workshop where young people get acquainted with writing a drama.
 - 4) The Kosovo Centre supports young people who aim to travel with their performances around the world: through ITI’s support, young artists traveled to countries like Macedonia, Croatia, Belgium, Uganda, Rwanda, Norway, Bulgaria, etc.
 - 5) Astrit Geci, one of the ITI’s newcomers now living in Germany, has been involved in the community thanks to the ongoing cooperation with ITI Kosovo Center, with Geci activities continue in many directions including common performances.
 - 6) In continuous support, ITI has also created collaboration with young artists who work individually as: Habib Hajzeri, Qendresa Kajtazi, Edlir Gashi, Edmond Uka, Kreshnik Malushaj, Beslidhje Bytyqi, Flamur Ahmeti - Actors, Fatbardha Shala, Scenographer, Nature Kallaba, Edina Mustafiç - Theatre Directors.

World Theatre Day 2015 Celebration

The Macedonian theatre artist of the year 2015 is the theatre director Nela Vitosevic, a young, talented, active, and outspoken person.

She wrote the national message talking about the damages made by political parties and the resulting interference with the creation of art in theatre that favours the rise of the mediocre performances with symbolical self-censorship. It pushes away the audience by making the theatrical arts pointless.

The international message by Krzysztof Warlikowski. was translated into Macedonian by Maciej Kaczorowski www.facebook.com/media/set/?set=a.896531927056220.1073741850.697139220328826&type=3

Igor Kirov was the Macedonian dancer and choreographer who wrote the national message. His attitude toward the art of dance is that it must be full of life, full of breath, full of passion and honesty.

ITI Mongolia Centre and "Saint Muse Academy" organized "Saint Muse 12" International Theatre Festival (May 17-23) - that awards the best theatrical works and artists - in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia.

Artists from Mongolia, Russia, Germany, Switzerland, South Korea, Kosovo, Estonia, Buryatia of Russian Federation and Inner Mongolia of People's Republic of China participated in the festival in the categories of 'Musical drama', 'Children's play', and 'Monodrama'. There were 21 performances in these three genres competing with each other to win the awards for best artists and the Grand Prix for the best performance. Plays like "King Galdan Boshigt" (Mongolia), "Wind of the Past" (Buryatia), "Black Silk Vest" (Inner Mongolia), and "Open Couple" (Mongolia) were performed in the genre of 'musical drama'. In the category of children's play, the performances of "The Twelve Months", "Naughty Wolf-puppy Who Hid the Moon", "After", and "Alladdin's Lamp" were premiered to the Mongolian audience. In the monodrama category, Elmaze Nura (Kosovo) received the award for best director; M. Boroldoi (Mongolia) took the award for best scenographer; and Nikolai Gorokhov (Russia) and D.Oyunzul (Mongolia) won the awards for best actor and best actress respectively. The Grand Prix of the festival was awarded to the artists who participated in the performance 'King Galdan Boshigt', the historical musical drama.

"Saint Muse 12" International Theatre Festival organized the "Mono Days" event as an integral part of the festival that included two separate trainings for professional artists. The first training was conducted by Mentor Zymberaj, President of ITI Kosovo Centre and the director of "MonoAkt" festival in Kosovo. Mentor Zymberaj participated in the "Saint Muse 10" International Theatre Festival with his play "Actor in a Box" and won the award for best actor. He conducted the training on "Acting and directing of monodrama". The second training was led by Nina Mazur, the vice-president of ITI's Monodrama Forum and a member of ITI's German Centre. She has also worked as the jury member for the festival. She conducted a training on "How to Write a Monodrama".

Besides the trainings, ITI Mongolia Centre and Saint Muse Academy organized an event to introduce the idea of 'Ger Theatre' to provide a glimpse into the Mongolian traditional art and culture. More information and photos of the previous festival can be found at: <https://www.facebook.com/geegenmuza/?fref=ts>, <https://www.facebook.com/profile.php?id=100003617073607&fref=ts>.

Saint Muse 13 International Theatre Festival is scheduled for May 1-7, 2016. Besides organizing this festival, ITI Mongolia Centre is undergoing some structural changes and is moving forward to involve more of the young artists in its activities

The Philippine Centre of ITI uniquely works in close coordination with all its committees for synergized national and international activities that are linked to the UN family and other private sector partners in its dynamic use of theatre and its electronic off-springs to reach millions in an initiative to strengthen artistic activities while promoting a culture of social justice, peace and sustainable development. This has been possible because of the ITI Philippine President and Director of Earthsavers UNESCO DREAM Centre, Cecilia Guidote-Alvarez through her dynamic leadership of instituting Cultural Caregiving Services to vulnerable groups, performances and complementary broadcast and theatre repertoire.

Since Yerevan, all the proposals of the ITI Centre have been fulfilled or are in the process of execution. The Philippine Centre has highlighted International Theatre Institute in the global arena. Philippine ITI President has been personally invited by the UNESCO Director General, Dr Irina Bokova to be a panelist in the 1st UNESCO ICT World Conference for Persons with Disabilities where she has suggested the fusion of technology and all art disciplines in a training module infused with content to confront climate change in Delhi, India in November. This was followed by an Interfaith, Intercultural South-South Dialogue on Protecting the Oceans to address the impacts of climate change with the Ocean Security International at the UNFCCC Summit in Lima, Peru which was officially presented at the COP20 Media Centre showcasing music, paintings and poetry focusing on protection of the ocean as carbon sink.

The UNISDR prize of $5,000 was announced for a Global Playwriting Contest that was showcased at the COP21 Conference in Paris. The Philippine Centre through its Secretary General, Dr. Isagani Cruz, organized the competition with 31 entries from all the continents. Members of the jury included Dr. Cruz with International Theatre Institute Director-General, Tobias Biancone and IPF President, Andrea Zagorski.

The winner from Slovenia, Barbara Anderlič, came to Paris and was presented with the UNISDR prize. She was also interviewed at the official UN Media Centre. Joining Mrs Guidote-Alvarez was CIDC Social Change Network Vice-President, Viktor Sebek of Colombia; Pakistan CEO of Climate Institute, Nassir Khattak; Kenya Presidential Adviser, Ali Mohamed; and Tzu Chi Foundation Vice-President, Debra Bordeaux. The international panel was chaired by Philippine Climate Change Commissioner Heherson T. Alvarez.

At the COP21 Conference in Paris, the ITI-Earthsavers booth was hailed as "the most colourful and a big hit" in showcasing the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through paintings and poetry of handicapped artists and digital arts creation by out-of-school youth. The booth also featured video performances of the Earthsavers Ensemble with the Seoul Institute of the Arts capped by relevant messages with songs by Mr. Peter Yarrow from the famous folk-singing group Peter, Paul and Mary.

Philippines had the unique distinction to mark the UN Day for Persons with Disability on the 3rd of December

COP21: Cecile Guidote-Alvarez (International Day for Persons with Disability)

Paris was successful in forging the global deal for survival of humanity and planet earth but the task of fulfilling the agreement to prevent Armageddon can be undertaken by a creative army of artists-teachers in the ITI to conscientize, inform and motivate about the collective action required to affirm life. Thus, in Manaus, Brazil, it is planned to give a dramatic reading of the global warming play on climate change "A Continental Divide".

Throughout the year, the committees are active. CIDC-Social Change Network with the Communications Committee runs our multi-awarded Radyo Balintataw of classics and contemporary plays from different parts of the world and original soap opera on relevant themes like women's rights, air pollution, drugs, the plight of indigenous communities, the elderly and other health issues. We have introduced plays translated in our language from Cyprus, China, the Arab monodrama winning plays, Nigeria, Mexico, India, Indonesia, Korea, Chekhov, Shakespeare and Strindberg.

The Communications Committee, co-chaired by Jose Laderas Santos and C.J Andaluz, teach indie films, comics as illustrated theatre and broadcast. For World Theatre Month, the Youth Theatre Practitioners Committee chaired by Frank Rivera and assisted by Sonny Valencia, will hold the Text Poetry Competition which will encourage youth theatre festivals in high school and college campuses. It will also provide the 1st Outstanding Youth Text Poetry Award. These will give them the rationale to secure the travel funds for them to participate in Manaus.

International Dance Week is supervised by Prima Ballerina Lisa Macuja, chair of our Dance Committee with the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA). Her Ballet Manila in 2 theatres in a carnival site popularizes classical ballet and new ballet based on local themes and folklore. A nationwide workshop festival is held to celebrate the event. There is also a creative dance competition coordinated by Gigi Velarde David, dance committee secretary, based on local social issues and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

The Music Theatre Committee chaired by Gardy Labad has experimented with music drama in a cockpit site. Musical theatre on history, like the Japanese occupation and the life of Pope Francis, has been presented these past 2 years. Opera is kept alive by co-chair Fides Cuyugan Asensio. We have held a broadcast competition to keep alive a native music theatre tradition, the Kundiman.

The Educational Theatre Committee chaired by Nick Lizaso, also a member of the board, is assisted by Arthur Cassanova in colleges and communities. Monodrama has been popularized by our Committee Chair, Fray Paolo Casurao, who brings it to the community including prisons complemented by creative industry workshops to generate livelihood. A competition for monodrama is planned in the mid-year.

Festivals are organized by every province and city featuring their foremost industry or product. The Bambanti Festival in the province of Isabela coordinated by Nilo Agustin was given a high approval rating. Recently, a featured rap-musical on climate change written by Frank Rivera involved a thousand youth participants from different municipalities of the province supported by the governor and the provincial board.

The highlighted project with UNESCO approval is the planned Music Theatre Peace Concert with artists from claimant countries on the conflicted China Sea and the Spratly Islands on the West Philippine Sea. The event is a cultural diplomatic initiative to lower the decibel of confrontation and aggressive behavior. It is proposed late this year before the COP22 event of the United Nations in Morocco.

We have a Design Technical Committee chaired by Joey Nombres and a Philippine linked OISTAT event on costumes held in a heritage site in Vigan. Our Centre is also active in the UNESCO Movement, Unite4Heritage.

Our Techno Arts Camp modelled for UNESCO on climate change last July 2015 with collaboration of the Seoul Institute of the Arts is being reprised at the Isabela State University for a regional modeling that will continue in early 2017 to celebrate the 50 years of the Philippine Centre of ITI with ASEAN-Pacific participants in pursuit of our function as ASEAN-Pacific Sub-Regional Centre of the ITI as designated in Yerevan.

Director-General Bokova, in her message applauded the Philippine project and its director with this message "The first Techno Arts Camp for persons with disabilities, being organized by the Earth Savers UNESCO Dream Centre /Artist for Peace with the Seoul Institute of Arts, is a ground-breaking initiative that deserves to be watched closely. It builds on the Conference on the Role of ICTs for Persons with Disabilities, organized by the Government of India and UNESCO in November 2014, and the World Education Forum in Incheon this May. It will not only empower vulnerable youth with the opportunity to use technology creatively, but also give them the chance to acquire new skills and together, to feel more integrated and confident. In action-research style, learning modules will be developed that can then be shared widely. This innovative partnership also encourages youth to express themselves on the impact of climate change on their daily lives, and to appeal for everyone, together, to act to protect our shared planet. I thank the Earthsavers Dreams Ensemble and Cecile Alvarez for their generous vision and all partners involved in this initiative. I wish every success to all those who are part of this wonderful adventure that enriches each and every one us."

Activities November 2014 – May 2016

UNITER – The Romanian Association of Theatre Artists is a professional, apolitical, non-governmental and not-for-profit organization, resulting from the free association of artists from the theatre industry. As an active cultural element of national standing, UNITER is involved in supporting and developing Romanian theatre, in the use of national and universal heritage. Its activities form a network of quantifiable processes which fulfil the goals that form the basis of its existence, and the basis is a principle common to all professional organizations in the world: that is, running cultural programmes and projects that will benefit theatre professionals. UNITER develops its activities based on projects and programmes, the common principle of all professional organizations throughout the world.

The Romanian Centre of ITI – The International Theatre Institute

Since 1990, UNITER hosts the National Romanian Centre for the International Theatre Institute. The President of the Romanian Centre is Ion Caramitru, a famous Romanian actor and former Minister of Culture. The Centre does not have a fixed structure. Everyone working in the theatre industry may benefit from its services. The Centre offers professional assistance to foreign theatre people visiting Romania for research purposes.

“HOP” – Young Actors Gala

The Young Actor's Gala is part of the efforts made by UNITER to refresh Romanian theatrical life within a stimulating framework offered to young professional actors, who are thus discovering a possibility of becoming better known and appreciated. It represents the most important Romanian programme dedicated to young professional actors. The event consists of an annual contest which takes place at the end of summer on the seaside, and lasts for a week. It represents a chance offered to young graduates of public and private universities to assert their own personality in a competition with their colleagues and it also constitutes an important “barometer” of young valuable actors. The last three editions were held under the guidance of the talented and charismatic director, Radu Afrim.

The Artists for Artists Campaign was started in 2002 with the aim of sensitizing public opinion in view of raising funds for the elder artists dealing with health and living problems throughout the country. The Campaign takes place every year, between March and April, this period being defined as one of theatrical solidarity, taking into account that March 27 is the World Theatre Day. "Artists for Artists" was founded not only as a means of financial support, but also as a stimulator of artistic solidarity and as a signal for the theatre audience and the authorities.

The theatre solidarity component is ensured by the participation of artists in the creation of a charity show, which represents the top moment of the fundraising campaign, and also through the participation of theatre and artistic institutions in Romania, which collaborate with UNITER throughout the year.

Beyond the guild solidarity, UNITER also tried to attract donors, services and sponsorships, a component which managed to grow over the past few years, so as to make the "Artists for Artists" programme possible due to the already-established partnerships.

The Uniter Awards Gala

The 23rd edition on May 25th at National Theatre Bucharest

The 24th edition on May 9th at "Regina Maria" Theatre in Oradea

THE UNITER Awards Gala is one of the most important programmes of the Romanian Association of Theatre

Artists. It is organized every year, starting in 1991, and it awards the distinctions for the previous calendar year. It is the unmatched theatrical event of the year. The awards are given according to the principle of nominations made by a selection jury. From these nominations, another jury decides, on the night of the Gala, by secret vote, the winner of each award. The excellent collaboration with the Romanian Television – National TV Theatre, the Department for Music and Entertainment, and the Romania Cultural Radio Station of the Romanian Broadcasting Company makes it possible for the Gala to be broadcast live on TV and radio.

The Romanian National Theatre Festival

The Romanian National Theatre Festival, a cultural event of national and international importance, is organized every year by the Romanian Association of Theatre Artists (UNITER) in partnership with the Ministry of Culture and the Municipality of Bucharest. Support is given – in varying degrees - through numerous public institutions, media and cultural institutes active in Bucharest.

The Romanian Theatre Festival is the most important showcase of Romanian theatre and brings together the most relevant productions of the previous season, as well as valuable names of theatre globally. It has also proven to be a platform to send Romanian shows to the greatest stages of the world such as Edinburgh International Festival, Globe Theatre in Tokyo, Festival d'Avignon, Lincoln Centre Festival and many others. After six years, Marina Constantinescu - theatre critic, essayist and writer who has been dealing with the analysis of the theatrical phenomenon in Romania and beyond since 1990 - has come back to the helm of the festival.

The programme is composed like a puzzle, out of the remarkable figures of Romanian theatre direction, their energies, the energies of the actors, of the set designers they worked with, their feelings, and their stylistic and human obsessions. (www.fnt.ro)

The House of Artists Programme

This unique programme offers social services to artists who experience difficult life situations due to old age, poverty or poor health. The programme aims, first of all, to satisfy the needs of the beneficiaries as soon as possible, and the creation of a social assistance and moral support framework. To fulfill its purpose, the partners in the project created a professional structure comprising specialized working instruments, specific human resources, a system of communication and collaboration relationships and rules, skills, knowledge and a set of values adaptable to the particular needs of our beneficiaries:

The objectives of the programme are:

- To develop social assistance at home, comprising several services which would compensate the lack of the day care centre (physiotherapy, medical assistance, social counseling);
- To create a structure of club-type activities, which could be carried out without the existence of a club-type facility (support groups with the beneficiaries, trips, birthday anniversaries, watching shows);
- To develop artistic and educational activities suggested by the beneficiaries with the programme's logistic support.

The Artists' Home also proved the fact that the offered social assistance services cannot reach their normal destination, namely the retired artist, without the support of the artistic community and the help of other elderly artists acting as mediators.

The monthly number of assisted beneficiaries fluctuated between 65 and 80.

The UNITEXT publishing house

The only editorial structure in Romania focusing on theatre exclusively, was founded and registered as a UNITER publishing house in 1993, aimed at supporting the development of written drama in anticipation of the collapse of books of, and about theatre, given the economic context after 1989. Starting from the premise that it is important for Romanian theatre also to have a written cultural foundation through the coherent and scheduled publication of different titles, albums, etc., UNITER assured the role of supporting this important segment of national written culture – theatre books – and the UNITEXT publishing house is the instrument through which this provision is put into practice. The publishing house was conceived as a specifically distinct structure of the Romanian Association of Theatre Artists in Romania. It does not function as a legal entity of its own; it works as a department within UNITER, with its economic activity being carried out through the Association's complex structure.

Activities 2014-2016

1. World Theatre Day Celebration 2016

Theatre Institute Bratislava 2016 / Photo Call for the 3rd Theatre Photography Biennale Competition

The aim of the biennale is to present theatre photography as an independent artistic form, to increase the awareness about it and by presenting photographic works and their artists to create an atmosphere for professional confrontation. The student section of the biennale gives an opportunity for a significant forming of this segment of theatrical documentation for the future.

2. Project Istropolitana

June 2016 – Bratislava (various venues)

Festival Istropolitana Project is absolutely unique among all festivals in the Middle Europe and provides a special opportunity for young theatre artists to be involved in an international confrontation of their work, opinion and production. It creates space for future theatre professionals to meet with eminent theatre scholars, their audience and their colleagues. Project takes place every second year and provides continuous mutual confrontation between young artists and broad audience. The festival with its competition part is significant event in the context of Slovak culture and theatre education system in the Middle-European region and is the only one of its kind within Slovakia.

The project's target is to hold a creative meeting of the youngest generation of theatre artists from national and international schools and to present various approaches and poetics towards theater staging and interpretation. Since 2014 the festival has been held under the auspices of the project ambassador – one of the most appreciated Slovak actresses – Mrs. Emília Vášaryová.

3. World Theatre Day Celebration 2017

Theatre Institute Bratislava / 10th anniversary of the kød – concretely ÷ theatre journal

The monthly kød – konkrétne ÷ divadlo (concretely ÷ theatre) is the only monthly in Slovakia about Slovak and foreign theatre. It was launched in march 2007 by Theatre Institute along with the information network IS theatre.sk - the monitoring of theatres in Slovakia and their productions.

The monthly filled the empty space for theatre critics and the absence of a platform for reflection and opinions of theatre artists. In its rubrics it presents the newest performances whether as reviews, critics, essays or interviews with artists. The authors of the articles are renowned Slovak theatre theoreticians and practitioners as well as contributors from the Czech Republic and other European countries.

In kød the readers can find profiles of artists, local and international festivals' reviews, information about international theatre scene, comments and remarks on cultural policy, studies from history and theory of theatre and drama, fragments or whole theatre texts and dramatisations.

It is also a place for the promotion of activities and projects of Theatre Institute and all professional theatres in Slovakia.

kød is interesting not only because of its content, but also because of its trendy graphics and various and rich photographic material.

There are 10 issues published annually in a monthly circulation of 400 pieces. kød is available in theatres, bookshops and literary cafés throughout Slovakia.

4. Except this the Slovak ITI Centre is responsible for translation and promotion of the ITI message of the World Theatre Day, International World Day of Theatre for Children and Young People and the International Dance Day (2015 - 2017). The Centre is also responsible for providing the contribution to the World of Theatre series of publication (2016).

National Consultations with South African State

January – November, 2015.

- We participated in 6 national consultation sessions with the SA government's Department of Higher Education initiative known as CATHSSETA (Culture, Arts, Tourism, Hospitality and Sport Education Training Authority), an apex state collective of funding and strategy advisors, whose limited knowledge of the various sectors required expertise from civil society to contribute to the effective redefining of the new models required for further success.
- The Department of Arts and Culture convened an elective conference to assign a task team to advise the Minister of Arts and Culture on remedies required to address the complexities in the Theatre and Dance sectors in South Africa. Our centre participated in this conference, and the National Chairperson was elected to this panel.
- In February 2015, The Parliamentary Portfolio Committee on Arts and Culture consulted with the ITI Centre SA, as part of its investigations into the state of the sector, to accumulate information with which to advise the Department of Arts and Culture how to proceed with respect to the sector. Issues raised included deliberations on social security for artists, employment activation and taxation in particular.

National Arts Festival

The ITI Centre, SA (PANSA), in conjunction with Africalia, has sponsored an award at the National Arts Festival for the writer of the Best New Play, particularly of a debut work presented at the Festival. 2015 was the second year of the award, with an associated value of cash and tuition for the winning writer. 2016 will be the last year of this Award.

Eastern Cape Youth Theatre Project: Theatre-making Handbook

An 8-month youth drama project was developed and executed from February to August 2014. In 2015 all the relevant documents, lectures, curricula, and work books were processed into a hands-on practical training manual for youth theatre groups to create productions from scratch, including all aspects of theatre-making. This manual is now available from PANSA for distribution throughout the world and especially in the SADC region. 5 complete plays were the outcome of this training project and the scripts exist for schools and professional companies to adapt as they wish.

Young Performer's Project:

In 2015, PANSA acquired funding to implement a Young Performers Project aimed at school-going performers. The project was implemented in two of the country's nine provinces in 2015 and 2016. One production was called Soldiers in the City, staged in Durban in 2015, and the other was Bat Boy, staged in Port Elizabeth in 2016.

The Musho! Festival

Musho! is an annual national festival that takes place in January in Durban. It runs for just over a week, hosting one-and-two hander shows. Performers participate

International Visitors

- Dorr Felier – a Jewish artist activist for the Palestinian cause, visited Cape Town and held a workshop and presentation in the ITI SA centre (PANSA studios), on his work and the reach of an artist in the society he occupies. The workshop was attended by approximately 30 artists, musicians and poets. The aim was to promote the perception of an artist as a social change agent. The engagement took the form of a lecture, a workshop and a musical and performance art improvisation session. He was arrested soon after leaving Cape Town, on a protest flotilla off the coast of Israel.
- The Beijing-based Chinese ITI Centre, under the management of Mr Wang Ling, visited South Africa to experience firsthand the nature of the theatre sector here. A coproduction was discussed, and PANSA has elected to motivate a proposal for an exchange project between China and South Africa, for 2017, as an outcome of this very informative visit.

Cape Town Fringe Festival

In October 2015, the ITI centre provided a platform for unexposed and first-time artists to participate in the Cape Town Fringe Festival, who would not otherwise have had the opportunity to present their work. An open platform was used to select the best performers throughout the year, in 8 minute slots, and the selected performances were staged on a PANSA platform free of rental charge to the artists. The process was managed by the National Chairperson, Natalia Da Rocha, through the association between PANSA and her training initiative, <https://www.facebook.com/275597964639/photos/a.10150674234399640.411528.275597964639/10153904776229640/?type=3>

Fujairah Monodrama Festival

The South African ITI centre was invited to the 2016 Fujairah Monodrama Festival. Much will have been publicized about this wonderful event in the Arabic and other media already. The SA Centre has independently recorded many hours of interviews with participating artists and guests, and is editing this footage into a video documentary for publication on various digital platforms before the congress in Brazil.

of this event. We were also extremely pleased to have Lloyd Nyikadzino from ITI Zimbabwe in the group. The delegates attended about 3 productions per day, as well as the central event – the PANSAs Director’s Indaba. The aim of this two-day symposium was to identify new theatre directors, as well as new ways to create opportunities for these new directors to enter the market.

Cape Town Fringe Festival 2016

In October of 2016, PANSAs hosted two events at the Cape Town Fringe festival. One a Monodrama Workshop facilitated by our very own National Coordinator Kurt Egelhof. The three-day workshop resulted in the beginnings of four new individual plays based on the autobiographical stories of the actors who participated. We are hoping to facilitate the development of these plays into a mini Monodrama festival later in 2017.

Included in the program was the Cape Town leg of the Director’s Indaba held at Grahamstown earlier that year, which developed a proposal for funding and execution of the project in the course of 2017.

Festival of Reading of New Writing 2017

PANSAs is in the middle of rolling out another edition of the Festival of Reading of New Writing. This Festival is rolled out nationally, starting with a writer’s workshop to assist new writers with the genre of writing for theatre. Then a request for new scripts from the theatre community is put out. These scripts are judged by a panel, and actors and directors are contracted to read / perform this scripts on stage in a national final. The winning play is awarded a production budget and assisted in its development to become a fully-fledged production for performance at any viable theater center.

Activities 2014

The implementation of the new federal law on culture in Switzerland has led to the cutting of state funding for many organisations, including SuisseTHEATRE–ITI. Faced with this situation, the organisation has rethought its structure and redefined its programme of activities, and it has thus opted to concentrate on its strong points.

In order to ensure that SuisseTHEATRE–ITI's potential and skills are more effective in Switzerland, we have modified our statutes to encourage individual memberships while maintaining the memberships of organisations. We have defined the priorities of the new governance in three directions:

- To develop effective tools for stage actors at national and international levels and to promote improved exchanges between the linguistic regions at a Switzerland level and improved outreach internationally.
- To develop projects in partnership with other cultural organisations existing in Switzerland.
- To initiate projects at national or international level in partnership with other ITI Centres.

Activities 2015

Developing tools – Our statutes have been revised and the website has been redesigned.

Developing projects in partnership with other associations based in Switzerland – A study group made up of members of SuisseTHEATRE–ITI and UNIMA is working on a project for a new Swiss Puppet and Mask Museum.

Initiating projects at national or international level in partnership with other ITI centres – New working groups have been established:

- Street Theatre and Circus Group

Its members are proposing the creation of a platform 'Art de la rue et du cirque'/'Street and Circus Art' on a Swiss level with the hope of developing this internationally in the shape of an ITI forum.

- Theatre Mobility in Switzerland Working Group

Its members have highlighted the difficulties for artists, small enterprises and independent companies in setting up tours in the other linguistic regions of Switzerland.

- Theatre in Conflict Zones Working Group

One of its members already has experience from working with theatre in conflict zones, notably in Palestine/Israel and Burkina Faso. This group is developing a new project in Burkina Faso in coordination with the Centre.

- Clowns sans Frontière

One member has proposed the development of a 'clowns sans frontière' (clowns without borders) section in Switzerland. This will be formed along the lines of 'Clowns et Magiciens sans Frontière Belgique' (Clowns and Magicians without Borders Belgium).

- World Theatre Day 2015

Public reading of the Message for World Theatre Day at the Teatro Dimitri in Verscio, in the canton of Ticino/Tessin, an Italian linguistic region.

- 2nd Swiss Theatre Encounter

Theater Winterthur, from 28 May to 6 June 2015. SuisseTHEATRE-ITI participated in this major theatre event, the only one to bring together Switzerland's different linguistic groups. SuisseTHEATRE-ITI organised a masterclass with Omar Porras, Swiss-Colombian director and winner of the Prix du Théâtre 2014. Students of the Bachelor and Master degree courses at Switzerland's four Hautes Écoles de Théâtre participated in the event, which was followed by a presentation on the different activities of ITI.

Continuation of the projects initiated in 2015.

Launch of 'Macbeth' in Burkina Faso, a project in which the ITI Centres of Switzerland, Italy and Burkina Faso are collaborating. The production will be staged in each of the three countries and, it is hoped, at the following Congress in Vietnam.

Theatre Days 2016 – Public reading of the Message for World Theatre Day at the Teatro Dimitri in Verscio, Tessin.

Swedish Centre of ITI (Europe)

Activities November 2014 – May 2016

Teaterunionen – Swedish ITI - is the forum for co-operation and information within Swedish performing arts and a centre for contact and exchange across the borders. Teaterunionen's members are institutions and organisations that work professionally within the Swedish performing arts. We are funded through members' fees and with an annual contribution from the Swedish Arts Council. Teaterunionen represents Sweden in the Network for the Performing Arts, and is a member of the IETM (International Network for Contemporary Performing Arts).

Teaterunionen has a council, which meets annually, a board, an education committee, a cultural policy committee and a number of working groups on various issues.

We are engaged in activities of common interest to our members, providing information, documentation, encouraging education and international relations. Every second year we produce Scenkonstbiennalen, the Swedish Biennial for Performing Arts, with one of the country's professional theatres as a host. Scenkonstbiennalen is Sweden's largest festival for performing arts and is an important gathering place for those working within the profession. For international visitors, it also serves as a window into the world of Swedish performing arts. The next edition of the festival will take place May 23-28, 2016 in Norrköping.

We administer a database, www.scendatabasen.se, documenting all professional stage performances useful for compiling statistics. We publish an online calendar of productions opening in venues all across the nation.

Together with ASSITEJ Sweden, we organize SWEDSTAGE, the Swedish showcase for performing arts. SWEDSTAGE is the opportunity to experience the very best of Swedish performing arts for children, youth and adults. During three days in Stockholm, we will present exclusively selected Swedish performances, able to tour and available for an international audience. The next edition will take place October 23-25, 2016 in Stockholm.

President: Ulrika Holmgaard, managing director of Swedish Performing Arts

Director: Ann Mari Engel (until 31 November 2015)

Ulricha Johnson (from 1 December 2015)

Some major events 2014-2015:

- The Swedish Biennial For Performing Arts, May 26-31 in Malmö, included performances, seminars, workshops and meetings with around 2 000 participants, among whom were international guests from more than 30 countries.
- SWEDSTAGE, October 23-25 2014, a showcase of Swedish performing arts for children, youth and adults arranged in cooperation with Swedish Assitej. This showcase was arranged for the first time in 2012 and the third edition will take place in November 2016 in Stockholm.
- A Cooperation Project with the theatre in Pskov, Russia, financed by the Creative Force Programme in the Swedish Institute. The programme included organising a Sweden Week in Pskov from 23-27 March, and included guest productions, readings and presentations. Readings of Swedish plays in St Petersburg from 15–19 December were organised within the framework of this project.
- Meetings with the Ministry for Cultural Affairs and other bodies on visa issues, on developing the Swedish database and on building capacity for a new information office for touring Swedish artists abroad were also held.

Publications

- MÅNADENS PREMIÄRER/INFORMATION, monthly information newsletter to all members, media and subscribers in Sweden, giving information on coming premières
- A monthly NEWSLETTER in English on Swedish performing arts
- In cooperation with Russian ITI, we published an anthology of Swedish contemporary plays in Russian.
- An update of the webpage: www.Teaterunionen.se now includes an English version.

Acknowledgement

The Executive of the Uganda Centre for the International Theatre Institute acknowledges the support extended to them in the implementation of their vision, objectives and activities in the period 2014-2016.

First, we thank the Uganda National Culture Centre (UNCC) for their support throughout the different activities (the election of the current executive, through the launch of the revitalized Uganda Centre ITI, workshops, celebration of World Theatre Day and the staging of various ITI-supported performances).

Special appreciation goes to the Department of Performing Arts and Film (PAF) of Makerere University who have continued to host our Centre and often have allowed us to use their teaching space to conduct training workshops for young theatre artistes. Our Centre's collaboration with PAF has enhanced a speedy achievement of our mission and mutual enlightenment.

We highly appreciate the other offices that were very instrumental in keeping us advancing forward e.g. the offices of the National Association of Book Trust, Uganda (NABOTU), the Young Theatre Practitioners and the Chairperson of Uganda National Theatre Union Mr Benoni Kibuuka. These partners made it possible for the Centre to achieve much in the shortest time.

We are indeed grateful to theatre artists and students who volunteer with our Centre; they have played a key role in the execution of various activities in the period since October 2014. We are overly grateful to the media houses who have continued to support our activities by offering free publicity, coverage and reviews of our events.

Lastly, we would like to thank ITI Sudan (Mr Ali Mahdi) and ITI Germany (Dr Thomas Engel) who relentlessly encouraged us to reinvigorate our then waning Centre. As a Centre we are truly grateful to these two Centres who shared their resources in mentoring the current leadership.

The Journey of the Uganda Centre of ITI

Uganda became an ITI member in 1976 but was deregistered in the same year following the alleged murder of the country's best actor and playwright, Byron Kawadwa, by Idi Amin's henchmen. The country was readmitted in 1986 under the leadership of Jackson Ndwula who remained President until 15 January 2015 when he handed over the reigns to Dr Jessica Atwooki Kaahwa.

This brief report covers events from the ITI World Congress at Yerevan, Armenia (November 2014) to the memorable re-launch of the Uganda Centre for ITI (UCfITI) on January 15, 2015 and the subsequent planning for World Theatre Day 2016 celebrations.

Activities

Uganda Centre of ITI (Africa)

December 2014

Having completed the registration earlier in August, the Uganda Centre for ITI was a beehive of activities preparing for the re-launch of the Centre in Uganda. This included media campaigns, writing of invitation letters to theatre artistes and supporters from allied fields of culture and communication.

January 15, 2015

The Uganda Centre for ITI was re-launched after decades of inactivity. The day brought to light many theatre enthusiasts' profound expectations such as the need to promote international exchange of performing arts knowledge and practice, stimulate artistic creation and increase co-operation among thespians. Another priority identified was the need to streamline the systems that guide theatre artists in Uganda and to know practitioners within the sector and their competencies in order better to network and support one another. The launch also exposed the great yearning for professionalism in the performing arts industry.

Post-launch of the Uganda Centre for ITI

Since the re-launch, the Centre has been overwhelmed by the artistic and moral support extended by the veteran and new theatre artists. They have also expressed their expectations that the Centre must be steered by active theatre practitioners capable of translating the needs of the artists into tangible actions.

February 2015

This period at the Centre was marked by marathon planning for combined theatre activity. The Centre chose to sponsor the first-ever week of "Theatre Festivities" (March 23– 27) leading up to World Theatre Day on March 27.

March 23–27, 2015

The Centre's first outing was made possible by support from the Uganda National Cultural Centre, National Association of Book Trust, Department of Performing Arts & Film (Makerere University), Uganda Performing Groups Association, Young Theatre Practitioners, Uganda New Vision Group, Central Broadcasting Station, East African Newspaper, Theatre Factory, Foursum Comedy Group, Bakayimbira Dramactors and the Ministry of Culture, Gender & Youth.

The programme included technical production training, dramaturgical training, workshops on copyright and publishing, the staging of plays by schools, Young Theatre Practitioners and professional theatre groups leading up to World Theatre Day, the celebration of which included marching, speeches, performances and exhibitions.

Other activities in 2015

- For the National Heroes Celebration in June, Young Theatre Practitioners took the lead at Kiboga Boma Ground.
- From August-October, we contributed to public awareness of political agendas and electioneering through the sponsorship of a play: "Our Husband Has Gone Mad Again" by Ola Rotimi that aimed at provoking dialogue among the publics.
- PAF's "Our Husband Has Gone Mad Again" was staged again on October 11-12 to great public appreciation, while it boosted the Department of Performing Arts & Film, which had been off the national stage for fifteen years.

World Theatre Day 2016

To mark this day, UCfITI has planned training workshops and encouraged partners to prepare productions that address social issues in our society.

Achievements since the re-launch of ITI in Uganda

UCfITI has registered great trust from her partners especially the UNCC, Theatre Groups and PAF who are the trainers and custodians of the theatre edifice in Uganda. As the Centre, we are also enjoying the support and the networks of the former executive led by Mr Jackson Ndawula. We have been able to rally most related institutions, offices and Young Theatre Practitioners (YTP); by so doing, we have increased public awareness of ITI and its local chapter's role. On the whole, the Centre has achieved most of its annual projected activities such as organizing symposiums, festivals, workshops, training and supporting staged performances.

Notwithstanding these achievements, the Uganda Centre for ITI has much to do in terms of enhancing artistic collaboration synergies between Ugandan theatre practitioners and building relationships with the Ugandan public. We also have to find ways to move beyond the expressed challenges and create avenues and opportunities that will unleash the potential in Ugandan artists.

Future Plans

- Week of theatre activities and awareness, March 23-27
 - General Assembly to elect the new executive to steer the Centre's activities for 2016—2018 (July)
- The Centre in conjunction with UNCC is planning a conference to revisit the issue of the "Guild System" to enhance cohesion and fairness in execution of various theatre specializations (October).

US Centre of ITI (Americas)

Activities 2014 – 2016

Since 1999, Theatre Communications Group (TCG) has served as the U.S. Centre of ITI, fully complementing TCG's existing programming. Global Citizenship is one of TCG's four core values (Artistry, Advocacy, Diversity and Global Citizenship), underscoring TCG's belief that the future of the U.S. professional not-for-profit theatre requires a connection to the larger international network of theatres, artists and other cultural leaders.

Theatre Communications Group (TCG), the national organization for theatre, and the Laboratory for Global Performance and Politics (the Lab), based in Washington, DC at Georgetown University, announced in February 2016 a partnership to establish the Global Theatre Initiative (GTI).

By combining the unique reach of TCG's international programming with the Lab's distinctive experience in humanizing global politics through the power of performance, GTI will strengthen, nurture, and promote global citizenship and international collaboration in the U.S. professional and educational theatre fields. Through the alignment of their programming and resources, the GTI partners will serve as a hub of global exchange with three core areas of focus: connecting practitioners with resources, knowledge, and partnerships to strengthen their work; promoting cultural collaboration as essential for international peace and mutual understanding; and innovating new strategies to maximize the global theatre field's opportunities and impact.

GTI will also take on the collaborative leadership of the U.S. Centre of the International Theatre Institute (ITI-U.S.), a role previously held by TCG alone.

Programmes and Activities Highlights

- ITI-U.S. has a long history of convening meetings to nurture, develop and share knowledge about international exchange. In June 2016, GTI's first project was a Global Pre-Conference with performances at the 2016 TCG National Conference in Washington DC. Held on Wednesday, June 22 at the Davis Performing Arts Centre at Georgetown University, the Pre-Conference curated by GTI launched a stream of programming around global citizenship and exchange throughout the subsequent conference, June 23-25.
- ITI-U.S. regularly celebrates World Theatre Day and identifies a significant artist as the U.S. author. The 2014 U.S. address was given by Diane Rodriguez, noted theatre practitioner and President Obama appointee to the National Council on the Arts. In 2016 Ping Chong, veteran generative artist and recent recipient of the National Medal of the Arts (the highest award given to U.S. artists), delivered the address.
- The Global Connections grant programme was designed by TCG and is funded by The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. Recipients regularly post blogs on TCG's Circle to share their learning with colleagues across the U.S. and globally. Go to <http://www.tcgcircle.org/category/global-connections/> to see posts from recent grant recipients.
- TCG has a robust history of regularly facilitating delegations of U.S. theatre practitioners to travel to other countries. This travel plays an integral role in strengthening theatre's power and relevance as a universal art form and enhances TCG's ability to unite theatre workers globally. Recent delegations include the Havana International Theatre Festival, Fujairah International Arts Festival, Festival Iberoamericano de Teatro de Bogotá, and the Santiago a Mil Festival.

Greek Company Synergy-O and their production We are the Persians! in partnership with Aquila Theatre Company (NYC)

- TCG's American Theatre magazine (print and online) features a regular „Global Spotlight“ column, and the May/June 2014, 2015 and 2016 issues again previewed theatre festivals worldwide and featured articles by U.S. theatre artists abroad.
- As a publisher of new plays and emerging playwrights, TCG Books, representing over 1,600 titles, has a dual objective: to bring new literary voices to public attention and to cultivate individual relationships with playwrights that nurture their careers. TCG serves as the exclusive U.S. distributor for Playwrights Canada Press of Toronto and London publishers Nick Hern Books, Aurora Metro Publications and Oberon Books. The English-language translation of Chilean playwright Guillermo Calderon's Neva was released in 2016 and Inside/Outside: Six Plays from Palestine and the Diaspora was published in 2015.
- The Lab has just completed its two-year Myriad Voices: A Cross Cultural Performance Festival, a series which focused on increasing understanding of Islam and Muslim majority populations, supported in part by the Doris Duke Charitable Foundation and the Association of Performing Arts Presenters. As part of Myriad Voices, the Lab hosted work from the Syrian refugee crisis, presented a satirical comedy from Pakistan, curated timely panels, forums, and meetings, produced an innovative multi-media performance with Georgetown University students and youth from Egypt, Syria, Afghanistan, Sudan, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Palestine, Qatar, and Iraq, hosted a Portal on campus which linked people in Washington, DC and Herat, Afghanistan, and developed a new play with Heather Raffo.

Activities

Zimbabwe Centre of ITI (Africa)

Activities 2014 to June 2016

The Centre has established an African scholarship fellowship with Dell'Arte International School of Physical Theatre in the United States, which provides a professional educational opportunity for Zimbabwean theatre practitioners to study in the United States of America for a year and develop their theatre skills. Established in 2012, the African Fellowship exists to promote the development of Physical Theatre and collaborative theatre making in Zimbabwe.

African Fellowship Grants Recipients were Tafadzwa Bob Mutumbi (2014); Nyaradzo Nhongonhema (2015) and Teddy Mangawa (2016).

World Theatre Day has been celebrated with performances and discussions.

The Centre established and conducted a train-the-trainer workshop in partnership with Girls High School in Harare, for teachers of drama. The workshop was a preparation for creating plays in 13 schools from the Harare Province.

We also piloted and facilitated a drama training workshop and mentorship project for actors in Harare with over 40 students from 15 different schools.

Planned Activities:

The Zimbabwe Centre of the International Theatre Institute (ITI) will host World Theatre Day Celebrations on March 24, 2016. We intend to celebrate the occasion with performances and a national seminar that ensures that artists' rights are promoted in line with the UNESCO Recommendation on the rights and status of artists, and to facilitate access to information and opportunities and promote dialogue on issues that contribute to the development of Zimbabwean Culture.

There will be a series of discussions where theatre professionals and experts will present papers under the title: "Is the prevailing environment paving the way for the creation and sustainable of classical work that can be celebrated beyond their times?". Journalists, theatre professionals, representatives of government departments and bodies as well as members of the public will be invited to attend and participate in the discussion. The presentations and responses will be recorded and published on the ITI Zimbabwe blog and MeTambo Newsletter.

International Dance Day

IDD 2016 will be hosted at the National Dance Trust of Zimbabwe and will feature 10-minute dance presentations by 15 dance groups from a diverse range of backgrounds.

Training

From April 20-May 2 2016, we will host Ronlin Foreman, a former director of the Dell 'Arte International School of Physical Theater, long time director of pedagogy and training and partner in the devising of the MFA program in Ensemble Based Physical Theater. Ronlin will meet with creative practitioners to discuss theatre in Zimbabwe, and how to create relevant and thought-provoking work in our time and environment.

Comments by the DG

ITI Committees (Networks, Forums, Groups, etc.) are doing international projects in their field of interest. Their activities are bringing value and visibility to ITI. Their goals are mainly artistic, educational or humanistic, but even if they are concentrating on one of the goals, for example artistic goals, the other goals - educational and humanistic - are integrated in their activities. Recently, ITI Committees changed their name to Network, Forum, and Project Group to indicate that they are more open and freer in their choice of structure.

But no matter how a Committee, Network, Forum or Project Group calls itself, it is a group of people. A group can be defined as two or more people who interact with one another, share similar characteristics, and collectively have a sense of unity. The sense of unity may come about through the goals the group pursues together and the short- and long-term activities and projects they are initiating and creating together. An important part of the group in itself is that each group member considers herself or himself to be a member of the group and is actively participating in the group. A true group has members that communicate with each other so that each of the members knows what is going on.

Those ITI Committees, Networks, Forums and Project Groups that are result-oriented, that are doing projects and activities together in their field of interest and that are following the vision, mission and goals that were formulated for their group, are working well. They are in communication with each other. Those that lack one or the other important ingredient are not as successful as they could be and should introduce the missing points.

At the moment there is an increasing number of Committees, Networks, Forums and Project Groups within ITI. With an increasing number of Centres there is nothing wrong with increasing the number of such groups. If each of them is following the spirit of a good group, the humanistic, artistic and educational value of ITI is increased.

- The 4th International Dance Symposium "Body and gender - The performativity of Gender in the Performing Arts" organized by the Cyprus Centre of ITI curated by the president of IDC Andromachi Dimitriadou-Lindahl. Vice president Nicole Vieira, participated as a dancer and choreographer together with other choreographers and academics presenting performances, lectures, workshops and a round table discussion.

Activities 2015

- The selection of the candidates for the International Dance Day message author 2016
- IDC Skype meetings deciding to embrace the 5th International Dance Symposium, as an IDC long time joint project, to be implemented during the 35th ITI World Congress in Manaus, Amazonas, Brazil, between 1 and 3 June 2016. The 5th Symposium's theme "Dancing in the Body of Nature".
- Invitation of the Shanghai Theatre Academy to the president of IDC to present the honored artist for 2015 Israel Galvan during the celebrations of the IDD in Shanghai and to participate in a Conference.

Activities 2016

- Meeting of the IDC board member's working group for the 5th International Dance Symposium. Present: Andromachi Dimitriadou-Lindahl (Cyprus) Marcia de la Garza (USA) Nicollette Vieira (Brazil) Luis Lerena (Spain), Alberto Garcia (Spain), Georgette Gebara (Lebanon) in Fujairah during the 1st Fujairah International Arts Festival and the 7th Fujairah International Monodrama, on the invitation of Mohamed Al-Afkham, president ITI worldwide and the Fujairah/UAE Centre of ITI.

The board of the IDC started working on the 5th International Dance Symposium by sending out an open call for participations. We created a program of three days events of contemporary dance performances, workshops, lectures and round table discussion. The selected participants were from Brazil, Poland, Cyprus, Sweden, Israel, France, Spain, Lebanon, Greece, USA/Mexico.

To promote the Symposium but also to have a newsletter, Vice President Marcia De la Garza designed and created the aDVANCE Insider: bit.ly/aDVANCE_Insider, as well as the new logo of IDC (which differentiate us from the CID –UNESCO organization, which still competes and undermines IDC-ITI in many levels).

- IDC did an open call to all its members, to propose names for the pre selection of the candidate authors of the IDD message. We created a list of names, and all members of IDC voted to select three names. We presented the names of our candidates to the Executive Council of ITI for the final decision. Lemi Ponifasio was the selected author of the message for 2016.
- The president of IDC Andromachi Dimitriadou-Lindahl (Cyprus) was invited to the International Day of Dance Gala celebration at the Cite de la Dance et la Musique in La Villette in Paris to be present and deliver a speech for the honored choreographer Lemi Ponifasio.
- We followed the same procedure for the pre selection of the candidate authors for the IDD 2017 (through a voting system between all our members). We presented our list to the Executive Council of ITI for the final decision. For the first time the board of IDC voted at the final selection. Mrs. Trisha Brown (USA), IDC's first choice, has been selected by the EXC to write the message for the IDD 2017.

- IDC board together with the Spanish Centre of the ITI and the Alicia Alonso Dance Foundation decided to organize the 5th International Dance Symposium in Segovia, Spain, to be held the 17th to 22th of July 2017.

Joint EC Meeting

With International Festival Forum and International Monodrama Forum, February 17-22, 2015, Fujairah Susanne Danig, Corinna Bethge, Tatjana Ažman and Le Quy Duong represented the IFF and Mohamed Al Afkham and Olga Pozeli participated on behalf of IMF to discuss the creation of a joint artistic research project called: "I-WE-HERE-NOW: Memories and Visions". Corinna and Olga were mandated to develop the artistic frame based on interviews about cultural identity with local people at different places of the world. The aim is to present these in a public art project focusing on civil society and people's dreams for the future, with the role of theatre and festivals in promoting these dreams as a supplementary aim. This project will be developed as a tool that IFF and/or IMF can present at festivals attended by ITI members, thereby integrating festival professionals, international artists and local communities. The project is closely connected to the spirit of ITI and the cultural diversity ITI is aiming at. The different editions of the project will be collected and presented digitally in collaboration with the Fujairah Culture and Media Authority.

Joint IFF/IMF Meeting

At the Prague Quadrennial, June 19-22, 2015

Corinna Bethge of IFF and Olga Pozeli of IMF met at the Prague Quadrennial to develop the planned joint project "I-WE-HERE-NOW: Memories and Visions". The conclusions and proposals were sent out to IFF and IMF members as well as some ITI Centres to solicit feedback and further improve the project. We especially thank Ursula Werdenberg (Switzerland), Tatjana Ažman (Slovenia), Mascha Pörzgen, Eberhard Wagner and Annette Doffin (Germany) for their detailed feedback.

Joint IFF/ IMF Meeting and "Small Town Festivals with a World View" Seminar

23 to 25 August 2015 as a part of the Waves Festival in Vordingborg, Denmark.

The seminar was organized by Susanne Danig in cooperation with Waves Festival and IFEA Europe, and focused on the challenges facing festivals based in smaller cities. The artistic programme of the Waves Festival was also a part of the seminar schedule. Exciting speakers and representatives for different European festivals were present including ITI president, Mohamed Al Afkham. Together with Olga Pozeli he represented IMF. Susanne Danig, Corinna Bethge and Dušana Todorović presented the IFF and its work to an international audience during the Seminar.

7th Fujairah International Monodrama Festival

Fujairah UAE, February 2016

Corinna Bethge, Tatjana Ažman, Le Quy Duong and Dušana Todorović were present alongside the Executive Council meeting that took place. The IFF presented its past work and future plans with the focus on the artistic research project "I-WE-HERE-NOW: Memories and Visions".

IFF expresses its deep thanks to Susanne Danig for her contribution to IFF's work during her presidency from 2013 - 2016.

Members of the IMF reported on their activities and projects i.e. their festivals, since the World Congress 2014 in Yerevan:

- The Armmono monodrama festival took place in Yerevan, May 2015, under the artistic direction of Mariana Mkhitarian of the Armenian Theatre Workers Union.
- Under the artistic direction of Nina Mazur, the Vidlunya monodrama festival took place in Kiev as well as the town of Khmelnytsky, where it will be based for its 2016 edition because of better financial support.
- Luxembourg hosted the Fundamental monodrama festival in June 2015 with Steve Karier as artistic director.
- Also in June 2015, the Monoakt festival took place in Kosovo under the artistic direction of Mentor Zymberaj.

- Marija Tanana was the artistic director of Atspindys monodrama festival in Vilnius, Lithuania, in mid-October 2015.
- In Kaunas in Lithuania the Monobaltija monodrama festival was held under the artistic direction of Alexandras Rubinovas.
- Saint Muse 12 International Theatre Festival organized Mono Days, an event dedicated to monodrama, as an integral part of the festival that included two separate trainings for the professional artists, conducted by Nina Mazur and Mentor Zymberaj.
- Special mention should be made of the workshops and other activities of Fray Paolo Maria Diosdado Casurao of the Philippines. With great commitment and under often difficult conditions, Fray Paolo - in the framework of the Manila Cultural Programme - travels to distant parts of the country to give workshops to women and people in detention centres.
- In February 2016, this report was presented at the 7th Fujairah International Monodrama Festival, embedded in the 1st Fujairah International Arts Festival.
- Thespiis, the German biennial monodrama festival, happened, mid-November 2016. As in its last edition the festival was comprised of lectures and discussions in the format of a symposium. The 2014 edition of the festival had a section of monodrama for children and youth (Young Thespiis), a field that offers great possibilities for development. (More information is available from Olga Pozeli).
- In Paphos (Cyprus), in the framework of European Capital of Culture, a monodrama festival under the artistic direction of Minas Tsingilis is scheduled for mid-September 2017.

Fujairah International Monodrama Festival's Digital Library of Monodrama project – to collect and house an online archive of mono dramas - is in the process of further development.

Wide Slumber, a production participating the MTN competition.

Vision

At the 34th ITI World Congress in Yerevan it was communicated that Music Theatre NOW Committee functions as a network; the idea is to have a less formal structure and to expand the Network by attracting more artists and active members. The Music Theatre NOW Network seeks to initiate or coordinate activities in the world of music theatre and is conducting a worldwide competition called Music Theatre NOW for creators of new opera and music theatre, in collaboration with the German Centre of ITI. Prize winners are invited to present their work at international meetings of Music Theatre NOW.

Board Members

Guy COOLEN (Belgium), President
Laura BERMAN (Germany)
Beth MORRISON (USA)
Roland QUITT (Germany)
Axel TANGERDING (Germany)
Nick Rongjun YU (China).
Honorary Member: Danny YUNG (Hong Kong)

Music Theatre NOW Competition

Music Theatre NOW held its first meeting in 2008 at Radialsystem V in Berlin where 18 productions were presented. In 2013, the winners of the 2012 competition met in Jönköping Sweden at the Scenkonstbiennalen. In May 2016 the 14 winners of the 2015 competition – and in addition 4 further outstanding works – were presented in the frame of the Operadagen in Rotterdam. This event was hosted by the Music Theatre Now Network with an international panel accompanied by scientific lectures.

Music Theatre NOW Competition in 2008 started with 132 participants from 32 countries. Its increasing worldwide popularity and prestige helped to achieve 450 participants from 54 countries in the recent 2015 edition. The international jury for Music Theatre NOW 2015 comprised Sara Joan Fang (music producer for Singapore's national performing arts centre, Esplanade: Theatres on the Bay); Guy Coolen (director of the production company 'Muziektheater Transparant' and artistic director of the international opera festival 'Operadagen' in Rotterdam); Joseph V. Melillo (executive producer of the Brooklyn Academy of Music); Ana Lara (Mexican composer and founder of the festival 'Música y Escena') and Brett Bailey (South African playwright, designer and director, who continued his commitment from the 2012 jury).

Next Music Theatre NOW Meeting

The next Music Theatre NOW Meeting will take place in 2019. Productions that have premiered between July 2015 and June 2018 can be entered for the 2019 edition. Festival presenters and international music theatre promoters are encouraged to host the next Music Theatre Now meeting in 2019. For more information concerning the competition, hosting a MTN meeting or further MTN activities, please contact the MTN project manager, Christian Grammel: mtnow@iti-germany.de or through www.mtnow.org

During moved to his native Argentina to work with indigenous tribes on the Argentine/Paraguay border. Summary of the 1st year of Theatre Indigenous Community in Argentina

- The first intercultural meeting between the Teatro Trono of Bolivia and the Eraxai'pi group of Argentina. A meeting between indigenous Aymara, Qom, Quechua and Wichis.
- Pampa del Indio, is a town located to the northeast of the province of Chaco in Argentine. Half of its population, estimated at 18,000 inhabitants, belongs to peoples Qom, which maintain their language and culture. Pampa del Indio is one of the largest agglomerates of indigenous population of Argentina which has survived a permanent attempt at genocide. Pampa del Indio has a long history of struggles as well as a large number of heroes, testimonies, legends, traditions, stories and narratives that reveal the wealth of indigenous cultures that are part and parcel of the identity and the cultural diversity of the region. Numerous indigenous organizations, struggling by the cultural rescue, others by land, or by the production of the field, others such as Lqataxac Nam Qompi, intercultural education is happening currently in Pampa del Indio.
- The Constitution of the Group. In the context of this educational project, from a little less than a year ago was the foundation of the Group of Theater Dance community Eraxai'pi (fireflies). The Group of theatre dance community Eraxai'pi is made up of young, grandparents, teachers and children of the community, advised by the Council of Elders of the Qom community and community organization Mothers Caretakers of the Qom Culture. The grounds have taken the path of theatrical disclosure of dances, legends, traditions, stories and songs primarily responds to the need spread the cosmogony of the ancients, keeping alive the cultural identity and a spirituality that has survived the blackest pages of regional history.

- Objectives. The practice of indigenous performing arts is the best context for the recovery of the respect to the sacred, mystical, desire, enthusiasm and understanding of the processes and changes that are taking place in humanity. Explore how relations between different cultures on our continent have been, stimulate critical and constructive position on the matter and encourage effective participation mechanisms for advancing the cause of peace in the world. The main goal then, is to create a community theatre able to entertain, have fun, and to reflect, to touch the sources of faith and spiritual life of people, and create new conditions to put into action the most legitimate aspirations of expression and creativity of the peoples of the community of Pampa del Indio.

Matthias Gehrt (Germany)

Since 2004 Matthias Gehrt has been a member of the German Centre of ITI. He took over the Schauspiel-Direktion at the Theater Krefeld-Mönchengladbach at the beginning of the season 2010/11. He worked abroad, often in collaboration with the Goethe Institute. Between 1995 and 1999, he staged performances in Lagos / Nigeria and between 2000 and 2003 in Guadalajara / Mexico. Further productions led him to England, Canada, Sri Lanka, Ghana and Israel.

List of events and activities:

- February / March 2016: Ödipus by Sophokles; at the National-Theater of Ghana, in co-direction with Mawuli Semevo (Artistic director of the National Theatre). Oedipus Rex, and the Ghanaian culture is woven intrinsically into the otherwise global theme of the original play.

(Tijuana Hace Teatro, Mexico)

- Created and presented three new pieces dealing with cultural change, guerilla violence and migration for young audiences.
- Building student audiences with city and state agencies of Tijuana and San Diego, USA.
- Staged an 8th Festival in conjunction with ITI World Theatre Day in March 2015
- Keen to explore themes such as: How do artists/companies living at international borders relate to each other? What are the possibilities of interaction / collaboration between artists / companies living at international borders, specifically in countries with significant social and cultural differences? Theatre from the border? Theatre about the border? Differences and similarities
- Arrecife (In progress / Opening May 2017) Exploring stories from individuals who coexist in two territories, as well as family and social relationships at the Mexico-USA border.
- Aeropuertático. Vanessa's grandmother just passed away, but in her loss, she discovers a door that will keep them close. With her airplane models to fly, the help of her friends and the courage to fight her fears, she will travel a path full of dreams, inventions, changes and friendship that will reveal to her the true meaning of flying.
- ¿Quién le teme a Espantapájaros? Espantapájaros (Scarecrow), a child soldier since he was taken from his family, faces his own conscience and fears embodied in Killer, his ultimate enemy; to cope with life as a fighter. Only the memories and love of his mother can help him survive.

- Los niños de Morelia. Playwright: Víctor Hugo Rascón Banda. Directed by: Ramón Verdugo. The voices of 456 children that arrived to Mexico during Spain's civil war make themselves present to tell us the story of their displacement, their identity crisis, the separation from their families and the cultural differences
- Programs with audiences (Binational School for Audiences THT). Each year, 20 applicants are selected and awarded with complimentary tickets to a selection of theatrical shows, provided by city, state and federal arts and culture organizations from Tijuana and San Diego.
- Festival THT. Regional theatre festival with participation of 9 theatre companies. A unique event that stands out from other theatre festivals in the city by featuring mainly local companies in its artistic program.
- Festival Muestra Interprepas. A three-day experience consisting in workshops, master classes, socialization activities, student exchanges, and staging a play in the city's second largest professional stage. Artistic and technical achievements are recognized by locally renowned artists.

Jorge Ortoll (USA)

- The company I serve as Executive Director, Ma-Yi Theater, produced 4 new pieces dealing with the lack of diversity in casting choices in US theatres; a children's piece with specifically Asian American pre-teen hero and heroine, monodrama/comedy about Imelda Marcos, a drama of US Muslim soldier fighting in Iraq, and a comedy.
- Since Oct. 2014, we have been preparing for the 5th CAATA Conference/ Festival (Consortium of Asian American Theatres and Artists; I am a founder and serve on the Board). The fifth edition will be hosted by the Oregon Shakespeare Festival (October 2016 Ashland), to elevate national awareness of existing excellence of Asian American theatre artists.
- Ma-Yi is actively involved with AAPAC (Asian American Performing Artists Coalition), which addresses the ongoing casting injustices on U.S. stages where the demographic of the stage actors has no semblance to the demographic realities of the ethnic make-up of the nation.

The decision of the EC of ITI in Yerevan to confirm the proposal of the members of CIDC to divide the committee into three independent parts has proven to be a success. Since Yerevan, we piloted the new structure and the three groups are now more visible and profiled, and the cooperation with other ITI committees is easier. We continue to keep each other informed of our projects, always seeking cooperation between us, so that in practice, we continue the spirit of CIDC!

Vision

Our answer to the challenge of the double face of globalization is: "The destiny of man is the man" (Brecht)

Mission

Our goal is to create a network of theatre artists that work in conflicts zones, especially in the European Mediterranean area and the closest region of Near East and Africa, and we're looking for partners worldwide.

Activities 2015

The Arc Of Theatre

Started a cooperation between ITI Germany and Italy: ACAR and "Theatre in Conflict Zones Network". This project should support theatre people from refugee countries. In January 2015, we organized the work of 2 directors from Syria in Germany.

Metamorphosis-Project

In Tunis, Aug. / Sept. 2015; ITI Italy (workshops, round tables and special meetings about theatre in conflict zones). The project is focused on gender-based conflicts and the tragic situation of migrations in the Euro-Mediterranean area.

Roma-Project

2015-2017, ITI Italy - The performance was played on 8 April in Lecce (Italy) , which is the "Day of Roma and Sinti culture" and was played again until 2017.

Presentations of the book Walls - Theatre and War by Fabio Tolledi, were made in order to raise awareness on theatre in conflict zones through the work of Astragali Teatro in Palestine, Iraq, Syria and other areas in conflict.

New Project Group NPG

Mission

New Project Group (NPG) is a laboratory for artists to work internationally, while retaining their individual identities. The focus is on the making of art, particularly the creative process, rather than the end result, by retaining intercultural dialogue and emphasizing cultural diversity. The purpose of the NPG project is intercultural exchange and the exchange of ideas during the creative process. Unlike other committees, the primary goal and function of the NPG is to create a work of theatre to be presented at the World Congress. It is NPG's goal to have the maximum amount of interaction and interchange as possible, and the workshop time is essential in creating a forum for intercultural exchange.

Activities and Meetings

[Note: Regular email exchanges continued throughout this period, but the listing below includes only in-person and SKYPE meetings.] One of the most important outcomes from the Yerevan World Congress has been the development of a partnership between the NPG and Young Practitioners Committee (YPC). This has been a natural and organic process – YPC was created at the World Congress in Mexico when young practitioners involved in NPG joined with young delegates attending the Congress to create pathways for participation into ITI's activities and programming. Both NPG and YPC are committed to developing opportunities to identify, nurture and showcase younger practitioners. As new YPC leadership is in place and the committee is revitalized, it is an opportune moment for both committees to try new ways of working that can expand our capacities and provide for sustainability. The NPG's primary work is linked to the World Congress and the new project, Poetree, is directly connected to the Congress theme and location. At the time of this report, NPG is still determining the scope of activities that will take place in Manaus. December 1, 2014: Skype teleconference Debrief of Yerevan meetings and finalizing project theme, Poetree September 23, 2015: Skype teleconference Planning for Manaus Congress, reviewing committee structure, identifying new members, and refining structure through which artists would gather and develop work around the project theme. October 31-November 2, 2015: In-person meeting, Shanghai Developing NPG/YPC partnership and further developing project proposal for Manaus December 11, 2015: SKYPE teleconference Further developing of partnership and project February 17, 2016: Skype teleconference Further developing of partnership and project, and planning for Fujairah Joint Committee meeting February 20-22, 2016 Fujairah: Joint Committee Meeting & In-Person Meeting Further developing of partnership and project.

Summation

The NPG was originally created 20 years ago as a way to reimagine the then existing New Theatre Committee – to insert art-making and the creative process into the Congress programming and to provide an outlet for artists to create new work within the ITI framework. NPG serves three distinct audiences:

- Practitioners: A globally diverse and intergenerational group who are interested in actively participating in the collaborative creation of new work. There is a particular focus on the inclusion of talented young practitioners who wish to share methodology with each other.
- Congress Attendees: The work is shared with delegates with the intention of showcasing new ways of working. NPG believes that art-making is an essential component of Congress programming. Also, a case study detailing the development and planning of the project is presented at an open meeting during the Congress.
- Host Community: Community engagement is built into the structure of each project and has included involving local students actively in the project, offering acting and technique workshops for students and open dress rehearsals with time for the audience to interact with the artists

Note: NPG has not submitted a project for the Segovia Congress. It's future existence will depend on the decision of its members.

Activities 2014

December

Organized the 'Puravesi Balaya' (Power of Citizens') Movement and drew together artists of all formats in Sri Lanka subjected to oppression by the political hierarchy that was in power at that time, on a single platform.

Activities 2015

January

Initial steps were taken to form an organization of Theatre Artists who committed themselves to change the oppressive political powers.

February

Established the National Federation of Theatre Artists, Sri Lanka. The organization consists of Sinhala, Tamil and Muslim artists including artists residing in the provinces adversely affected by 30 years of communal conflicts and war.

April

Supported Inter Act Art (IAA) to organize the 4th International Theatre Festival in Colombo through the National Federation of Theatre Artists, Sri Lanka

May

Initiated networking of all artists living across the country through Janakaraliya Theatre Of the People

July & August

1. Visited Kolkata to participate at the Bratyajon 4th International Theatre Festival and during that period visited Sanjoy Ganguli of "Jana Sanaskriti" and Ashish Ghoswami of „Natya Chethana" who are working with theatre activities for social change.
2. The Annual Journey of Janakaraliya with the Mobile Theatre started on 25 July at Chilaw and continued theatre activities in the district till 22 October. Performances were followed by Forum discussions with people gathered to watch dramas. A day was devoted for the Tamil and Muslim artists who are living in the district to perform during the festival.

Activities 2016

January

Started rehearsals of the new play, „The Travelling Circus of Refugees", a collaborative production of Janakaraliya and Mind Adventures Theatre Group of Colombo. The drama discusses the need for conflict-free social environments for personal development. It could be performed in both interior and exterior performing spaces. The play will be produced in Sinhala, Tamil and English. We are planning to perform the drama in Sri Lanka as well as India, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Nepal and Bangladesh with the intention of congregating several different Asian Drama Groups working towards positive social changes through drama and theatre.

February

Joint Meeting in Fujairah/UAE, of Theatre in Conflict Zone Network, the Network – Heritage, Indigenous Cultures & Migration and Theatre for Social Change Network represented by Alexander Stillmark NTCZ, Jorge Ortoll N-HIM and Parakrama Niriella SCN. It was decided that all these 3 networks should communicate and interact with each other constantly..

Since Janakaraliya (Theatre Of the People) is already lined up to the Theatre of the Oppressed (TO) using Applied/Forum Theatre for transformative effects on society, it was decided to connect and develop contacts through SCN network for ITI.

This report has been submitted by Parakrama Niriella and does not include the activities Cecile Guidote-Alvarez which can be found in the Philippine Report.

Activities – Committees, Forums, Networks

Young Practitioners' Committee YPC

Activities 2014 – 2016

The Young Practitioner's Committee is an ITI network and forum to discuss and agree on action points regarding the next generation of performing arts in a digital world that is constantly changing.

Our starting points are the connections between the arts, life and society on the one hand, and, on the other, the interdisciplinary nature of art which seeks to connect music, theatre, dance, words, silence, nature, painting, sculpture, science, community, research and traditions as a holistic expression of a united essence and creation.

We have been raising questions, brainstorming and generating ideas about how to bring the arts, and particularly, theatre and performance, closer to ordinary people, and how to overcome systemic limitations, censorship and economic challenges in doing so.

We are in the process of building an internet website to provide a platform for exchanging and exposing ideas about styles, practices and functions of the arts, and to facilitate online performance creation.

We are in conversation with different ITI committees, national centres and EC members about future collaborative projects.

The YPC plans to create an active group of international artists from all disciplines during the next Congress, beginning with a ritual-based workshop that will lead to the first united performance creation.

The YPC intends to change its name to „The Next Generation Group“.

We look forward to a creative and vibrant year.

New Artistic Projects

New Artistic Projects Comments

Comment of the DG

The International Theatre Institute ITI is open for new initiatives and collaborations. It has to be aware of what it represents and what potential it has. At its core, ITI is an artistic organization based on the values inherent to the performing arts – theatre, dance and music theatre in all their forms.

To be strong, ITI has to associate itself with other organizations to form strong alliances, but not just through a Memorandum of Understanding. The alliance should result in projects that benefit the performing arts community and the audience.

At the moment, the General Secretariat is evaluating the possibility of reviving Theatre of Nations. But such a revival cannot just mean taking up the festival that once existed; it has to bring something new. This is the essential point that is being taken up at the moment, parallel to exploring the collaboration of a sponsor.

Two new initiatives are announced here: the creation of a network within ITI for stage directors and the development of a forum that deals with traditional forms in the performing arts. One is not quite ready to be launched at the Congress, but they will be developed further.

The International Stage Art Network is a collaboration between ITI and the Central Academy of Drama in Beijing. Its main aims are to inspire the different professions and disciplines of the Stage Arts through competitions, exhibitions, conferences and publications with the accent placed on the innovative aspects of these disciplines.

Stage Directors' Network SDN (in development)

Preamble

At the final press conference of the Xiamen Congress, then President Manfred Beilharz asked the Director General: "Why is there no Stage Director Committee in ITI? If the playwrights have their forum, why not the stage directors?" Then the Swedish stage director Mathias Lafolie approached the DG with the same question. After that many more persons approached the General Secretariat after that meeting about this idea. For this reason, the Director General surveyed numerous ITI members about such a forum or network. He found an enthusiastic response in Fabio Tolledi and Giorgio Zorcu from Italy, Mathias Lafolie from Sweden, as well as from Wang Xiaoying and Wu Xiaoxiang, two stage directors of China. Vice President for Asia Pacific, Ji Guoping, voiced a strong interest in supporting such an initiative.

First Meeting

The first meeting of an interested group took place in December 2015 in the new ITI headquarters in Shanghai. The participants were Fabio Tolledi and Giorgio Zorcu (both ITI Italy), Wang Xiaoying and Wu Xiaoxiang (both China), Hakob Ghazanchyan and Sona Mkrtchyan (both from Armenia) as well as the General Secretariat members Chen Zhongwen, Aktina Stathaki, Tang Yiming and the DG. They discussed the goals and possible first events and actions. Hakob Ghazanchyan, president of the Dramatic Theatre Committee DTC stated that he will continue to work for the development of the DTC but believes that a network for stage directors is something that should be developed.

Goals of the Stage Directors' Network

The goals of this Network are educational, artistic and humanistic and include the following proposals:

- To create a project group within ITI that takes care of the needs of stage directors. The project group attracts high profile stage directors and focusses on the quality of directing
- To exchange knowledge and knowhow between stage directors
- To impart knowledge and technical expertise to newcomers and students through workshops and internships
- To deliver workshops for young directors and students in stage directing
- To invite stage directors to work at a theatre in another city or country and stage a play with the actors of that location
- To create international projects with different stage directors, actresses, actors, dancers, choreographers and stage these at ITI Congresses, Theatre of Nations Festivals, Conferences or other international occasions
- To create conferences with documentary presentations of the work of the members of the network (video, multimedia, small scenes, etc.) and host discussions (question & answer periods) about the work
- To give beginner and professional stage directors the opportunity to observe how a stage director employs cultural identity to create a play
- To develop stage directors in community theatre who can work with non-professional participants and use their art in conflict zones.

Second Event in China

- A second, small and high quality event will be held in China. The idea is to host six international and local directors whose works will be presented with videos, photographs, etc. Each director will be introduced by someone, followed by the presentation of her/his work, after which there is a question and answer period with the audience.
- The presentations with each director should last 1 ½ hours with the project running over two afternoons.
- There will be a performance of a work by one Chinese director and one director from abroad.
- Another director from abroad can lead a workshop for a week before or after the presentations.
- The audience would consist of professionals who have an interest in knowing how other colleagues work as well as theatre students.
- There should be ample time for discussion between the stage directors, and also between the stage directors and audience members.
- The event is planned for the second half of 2016, with further events at other locations in the future.

On 27 March, World Theatre Day, the Chinese Centre of ITI / China Theatre Association organized the first Forum for Traditional Theatre / Performing Arts. The title of the conference was "Asian Traditional Theatre Forum".

Theatre came into existence from religious rituals. The celebration of World Theatre Day is a ritual, but it is also a great occasion for theatre exchange. This edition of World Theatre Day is themed on traditional theatres, therefore, all artistic events are centred on this particular field. The forum attracted 19 scholars and experts from Asian countries and regions. Each of them presented their papers introducing the traditional theatre forms in their countries. Most of the experts used multimedia to illustrate their theatres, which was very informative and impressive. During the intensive presentations by 17 speakers, a colourful collage of the great diversity of Asian traditional theatres was shown to the participants. The papers submitted by the experts were compiled into a voluminous book, which is a valuable asset of this forum.

The participants of the Forum from Asia voiced a strong interest in forming a committee or forum to take care of the traditional performing arts forms, especially in Asia where they are still very popular and are shown in villages. It was evident to the participants that there is such a need in their region, so the idea will be developed further by the participants, the General Secretariat ITI and by the Chinese Centre of ITI.

The second meeting was held in June 2017, together with the Asia Pacific Regional Council in Yinchuan, China.

On the initiative of Professor Xi Xiang, President of the Central Academy of Drama in Beijing CAD, the Director General of ITI started to explore the possibility of a collaboration between both institutions. During their discussions, it became clear that both parties wanted to inspire the professionals and students in the Stage Arts. They wanted to create opportunities for the stage artists from all over the world to show their productions, their ideas and the innovative strides they have made in their art. Currently, a worldwide competition for the different disciplines is being planned with rules to be created, jury members appointed and venues for the exhibition and ceremony being explored.

First iSTAN Summit in Beijing General Information

Established in October 2015 in Beijing, iSTAN, the International Stage Art Network, is a joint venture between ITI and CAD, the Central Academy of Drama of Beijing. It is a network that concentrates on the artistic values of the stage arts and innovation in the stage arts. iSTAN Stage Art Summit was the first event that showed what iSTAN intends to accomplish. From 27 to 29 October 2016, a series of activities were held on the Campus of CAD. The event included keynote speeches, workshops and lectures, as well as the presentation of the first iSTAN Lifetime Achievement Award. iSTAN Board Members, stage art specialists from nine countries (China, Cuba, France, Italy, Russia, Slovenia, Switzerland, UK and USA) and guests, including the ITI Executive Board participated in this three-day event in Beijing.

Opening Ceremony

The Opening Ceremony of the event was held on 27 October in the Experimental Theatre of the Central Academy of Drama. The ceremony was moderated by Tobias Biancone. He introduced Mohamed Al-Afkham (president ITI) and Xu Xian (president CAD) delivered speeches during the ceremony. Both of them expressed their congratulations on holding this inaugural iSTAN event.

iSTAN Board Meeting and Specialist Meeting

Board members of iSTAN from five different regions (South America, Africa, Arab, Europe, and Asia-Pacific) and China, plus the president and the vice-president of iSTAN, attended the board meeting. One of the most important issues of the meeting was the way of how to promote the Network in the different regions of the world and how to attract more stage artists, specialists, and students to join in the Network. The specialists meeting offered all the stage art specialists from China and aboard a chance to get acquainted with each other.

Workshops and Lectures

12 workshops or lectures were held during the 3-day event. Specialists from nine countries shared their ideas with the audiences, mostly stage art students, covering almost all the fields of the stage arts: stage design, make-up, sound design, light design, multimedia, set design, stage technique, cultural heritage, etc. More than 500 students participated into the workshops or lectures.

iSTAN Lifetime Achievement Award

The annual Academy Award held by Central Academy of Drama is the top theatre award in China. This year, the 6th Academy Award adds one special part to it: the iSTAN Lifetime Achievement Award, to highlight the importance of stage art within the performing arts. iSTAN Lifetime Achievement Award was presented to Gunilla Palmstierna-Weiss, a Swedish stage artist who has dedicated her life to the stage arts and influenced the performing arts through her extraordinary achievements with her designs for the stage.

The Vice-president of ITI, Ann Mari ENGEL, made a presentation on Gunilla Palmstierna-Weiss' achievements during the Summit. The President of ITI presented the iSTAN Lifetime Achievement Award. Mathias Lafolie, Cultural Counsellor of the Swedish Embassy in Beijing, accepted the Award on behalf of Gunilla Palmstierna-Weiss.

Future Projects of iSTAN

The General Secretariat of iSTAN has decided to launch the 1st iSTAN Competition in 2017. It is agreed that the first Competition will concentrate on two categories of stage design: make-up and costume design. Contact: CHEN Zhongwen, chen.zhongwen@ti-worldwide.org

Comments

In the past two years, the educational activities of ITI have increased. While the members of FTTE (Forum for Theatre Training & Education) are continuing their work, and while AKT-ZENT The Research Centre of ITI is progressing in creating a “World Theatre Training Library” and doing work on a global level, two new initiatives are beginning new educational actions under the ITI umbrella:

- The ITI / UNESCO Network for Higher Education(s) in the Performing Arts and
- a series of Conferences under the heading of “How to Bring Theatre to People”.

Information about the newly named Forum for Theatre Training & Education can be found on page 133, in the section of the Committees, Forums, Networks and Groups. The information about the other activities may be found in this chapter.

After ending the partnership with the ITI/UNESCO Chair, the new Network was launched and approved by UNESCO's Educational Sector and by the UNIWTIN Programme for Networks and Chairs.

After an event at ARTA in Paris, organized by AKTZENT Research Centre of ITI and a conference and workshops conducted by the ITI Network for Higher Education in the Performing Arts at the last Congress in Yerevan, the members of the Network met in Shanghai in December 2015 for their first General Assembly. The event was organized and hosted by the Shanghai Theatre Academy STA, assisted by the General Secretariat of the International Theatre Institute ITI.

The members decided on charter changes, the procedure for accepting new members, the leadership, the membership fee (500 RMB = 68 Euros = 77 US Dollars), the strategy and priorities and the acceptance of three new members: The Yerevan State Institute of Cinematography and Theatre (already welcomed as member during the Congress), the Tokyo League of Theatre Schools and the Naropa University of Boulder, Colorado. All the members were approved officially.

Most of the time was dedicated to the projects for the Network:

- Vidyandhee Vanarase, India, is leading a project about art and entrepreneurship.
- Geoffrey Hyland, South Africa, is interested in how we can get the students together and how we can share the work of the students e.g. a theatre festival in Cape Town, South Africa.
- Israfeel Shaheen, Bangladesh, proposes to develop a project with his students; they will run small companies of five persons for a year around the country and want to cooperate with more schools from and connect students to other countries.
- Anatoly Polyankin and Dimitry Trubotchkin, Russia, propose to create a register of acting schools in the world, a project of moving seminars, and a new information centre on the Internet. The Information Centre will gather and publish information from all the other networks; this way we will get attention from all the other networks.

- Hartmut Wickert, Switzerland, Learning Europe, will submit a project that is not based on dramatic literature, but of a topic that may be interpreted by theatre students in their own way based on their experience and culture.
- William Sun, China, proposes to continue the Intercultural Performance Studies, like summer and winter schools at Shanghai Theatre Academy.
- Gong Baorong, China, is leading a programme for an Evaluation and Assessment System for Theatre Schools in China and worldwide.

All members were invited to attend the next ITI World Congress in Manaus. Derek Goldman and Israfeel Shaheen plan to conduct a workshop there.

If you know a theatre university, theatre department or a higher education institution that could be part of this Network, please forward the information of the institution or the person that could have an interest to:

AKT-ZENT – ITI Research Centre

Jurij Alschitz with participants of the Master Programme for Teaching Professional Theatre Practice

Introduction

The General Assembly of ITI appointed at the 33rd ITI World Congress in Xiamen 2011, AKT-ZENT - ITI Research Centre to conduct the project "The World Theatre Training Library".

Since 2017 AKT-ZENT changed status to the World Theatre Training Institute as a result of its profile as a research centre in theory and practice.

The on-going research has been concentrated on the education and training of theatre teachers as fundament of innovation and research for training exercises and methods world-wide.

The implementation of pilot programmes leading to an academic M.A. degree included the development of a full-range curriculum in accordance with the Bologna system.

Alongside all this, various formats of post-graduate courses for theatre teachers are in development with partners in Russia and Brazil.

The most recent research opens the subject of 'spherical education' and the format of hybrid education. The online learning platform gives access to students and professionals world-wide.

Summary and Overview of the Scientific Research

The World Theatre Training Institute AKT-ZENT / ITI works exclusively for the innovation of theatre training methods. All seminars, master-classes, or lectures in any country of the world are considered as part of the permanent World Theatre Training Laboratory.

Over the past two years, the artistic director Dr. Jurij Alschitz and his team have spent time researching and exploring through practical case studies how the development of theatrical education in a new era of global information revolution should be determined, in order to comply with our rapidly evolving society and the emergence of a new type of artist. Conventional teaching methods and curricula are becoming obsolete and need total reconsideration. With the curriculum development for an M.A. degree for theatre teachers the ITI research centre is working now on the practical exploration and evaluation. With the 'Exercise 40/40' Dr. Jurji Alschitz proposes a completely new approach to theatre education in general.

The subject of 'Spherical Education' gains more and more importance. In the times of hypertext and with the notion of the fractal, wave and resonance theory, new methodologies for acting and directing are developed, specifically for the training of a different psychophysical condition of the artist. Training on time and space with the "Theatre of the 4th dimension", changing the actor's perception with the "Haiku-Method", training units according to fractal geometry a.o. are providing completely new tools for the profession.

All research laboratories are giving birth to the exercises and methods to be published in the World Theatre Training Library.

With the hybrid platform for theatre the AKT-ZENT opens a new format of training and worldwide distribution of methodology.

How to Bring Theatre to the People Conferences

The participants of the preparatory meeting in Shanghai: Members of ITI, the General Secretariat ITI, Shanghai Theatre Academy and Modern Drama Valleu Shanghai

How to bring theatre to the people? This is an essential question that any person working for theatre, in theatre or in any of the performing arts will ask. But there are follow-up questions: what does it mean to bring theatre to people? Does it mean to educate the audience? Or does it mean to have the audience participate in a performance? And who are the people? What target group is envisioned? Babies? Children? Young Audiences? Seniors? Handicapped people? Men and women in prisons? Migrants? Indigenous people? The Elite? The intellectuals? The common people? Students? White collar people? Blue collar people? Villagers? And then we can ask ourselves: What kind of theatre? Traditional theatre? Experimental theatre? Innovative theatre? Amateur theatre? And so on.

This basic question: "How to bring theatre to people?" came about in a discussion with Apostolos Apostolides, Hamadou Mandé and Tobias Biancone, in Sao Paulo. As the Jing'an District of Shanghai where ITI is located is engaged in initiatives of "How to bring Theatre to People", the General Secretariat initiated a meeting with ITI members, with members of the Shanghai Theatre Academy and with members of the Jing'an District who are actively working in the field or who are dealing with it on the district level. From ITI, Apostolos Apostolides (Cyprus), Jean-Henri Drèze (Belgium) and Boris Dausa Pastor (Spain) – all members of the Forum for Theatre Training and Education – participated together with Chen Zhongwen, Aktina Stathaki, Tang Yiming and Tobias Biancone from the General Secretariat. From the Jing'an District Rong Guangrun, artistic director of the Modern Drama Valley, former president of STA; Yang Yong, Manager of the Modern Drama Valley; Jiang Lei, events director of Modern Drama Valley and other active members participated. From the Shanghai Theatre Academy, Sun Huizhu and Shen Liang presented their ideas.

The meeting was held in the new premises of ITI at 1332 Xinzha Road, mid- November 2015. The presentations of the participants showed that there were different approaches to "How to bring theatre to people", but all of them were producing results that were for the benefit of the people and the theatre arts. After three days' meeting the participants decided to create a first event, preferably in the Jing'an District, in Shanghai.

The event should include:

- Presentations from all parts of the world where theatre educators and theatre practitioners were working in the field – Latin America, Europe, Asia, Arab Countries and Africa are to be included. Visual presentations would be important to demonstrate to the other participants the different ways of tackling the issue. Know-how transfer was the key word.
- Workshops for theatre professionals
- Round table discussions between the theatre educators and practitioners with each other and with the audience.
- Performances created through the initiative of "How to Bring Theatre to People".

A date to organize the conference with late 2017 being preferred is to be decided.

The starting point is that no people and no practice should be excluded from the "How to Bring Theatre to People" conferences.

This first event should serve as a pilot project for other congresses on the same subject to be held wherever the need and possibility exists.

UNESCO and ITI

Information and Comments

To make it clear: UNESCO and ITI are working closely together. Since the management left from Paris, ITI is in close contact with UNESCO in Paris and also with the National Commission of UNESCO in China.

The UNESCO Assistant Director-General for Culture, Alfredo Pérez de Armiñán, wrote a strong message for International Dance Day 2015 and underlined the importance of ITI and also stressed that it was ITI that created International Dance Day.

In December 2015, the Director General of ITI and his assistant, Chen Zhongwen, visited UNESCO Assistant Director-General for Culture, Francesco Bandarin, and discussed important issues with him: the development of the ITI/UNESCO World Performing Arts Capital, the ITI/UNESCO Network for Higher Education in the Performing Arts as well as the ITI Congress in Segovia, International Dance Day and World Theatre Day for which ITI received the patronage of UNESCO. The advice received will be implemented in future collaboration with UNESCO.

ITI participated in the 5th International Forum of NGO's in official partnership with UNESCO in Beijing/China, 27-28 July 2015 which was organized under the leadership of Davide Grosso from the International Music Council. The International Forum was held under the title: "Rapprochement of Cultures - One Humanity - Beyond Diversities". The event, organized by the NGO-UNESCO Liaison Committee in close cooperation with the UNESCO Secretariat, and with the support of the Chinese National Commission for UNESCO, falls within the framework of the International Decade for the Rapprochement of Cultures (2013-2022), for which UNESCO is the lead agency. Because of the many topics that will be addressed – education, science, cultural diversity, heritage, information technologies, youth – the Forum is of interest for all NGO partners of UNESCO. It is also open to participation by other institutions and representatives of Member States. ITI participated in its function as the main partner of UNESCO for the Performing Arts, with a shortened version of „China Dream,“ written by Sun Huizhu and Fei Chunfang (Faye) and directed by Sun Huizhu.

What is the "rapprochement of cultures" all about?

The International Decade for the Rapprochement of Cultures (IDRC) builds on the strong momentum created by and the achievements of both the International Decade for a Culture of Peace and Non-Violence for the Children of the World (2001-2010) and the International Year for the Rapprochement of Cultures (2010).

The current surge of flaring conflicts, acts of violence and intolerance demands urgent actions. Peoples and nations have to join forces for the development of a universal global consciousness free from stereotypes and prejudices. The International Decade for the Rapprochement of Cultures is to be understood as a commitment for addressing this pressing need to take into account and clearly demonstrate new articulations between cultural diversity and universal values.

The "rapprochement of cultures" implies that international security and social inclusion cannot be attained sustainably without a commitment to such principles as human dignity, conviviality and solidarity which are the corner stones of human coexistence, in all faiths and secular ideologies. ITI / UNESCO World Performing Arts Capital

The Basic Goal

The idea to create a World Performing Arts Capital is based on the UNESCO World Book Capital. Ljubljana was the World Book Capital in 2011 and Tatjana Azman, the President of Slovenian Centre of ITI and Executive Council member, communicated the idea of creating such a Capital during an Executive Council Session in 2011. Thereafter, the General Secretariat with the assistance of Cecile Guidote Alvarez campaigned at UNESCO and achieved the unanimous approval of the project during the General Assembly in 2013. It was stipulated in the UNESCO resolution that the administration of procedure for the call, selection and evaluation the Capital is done by ITI, meaning that the World Performing Arts Capital is a title bestowed by both UNESCO and ITI to a city in recognition of the quality of its programmes to support and promote the performing arts and education in the performing arts as well as the humanistic factor for bridge-building and developing character in this sector.

Experts Meeting

An experts' meeting was held on 9 and 10 November 2015 in Shanghai to discuss the criteria for choosing the Capital: time schedule, launching the call, jury work, accompanying activities of the Capital, etc.

The experts present were Danny Yung (Hong Kong, honorary president of the Music Theatre NOW Network of ITI), Kim Yun-Cheol (South Korea, honorary president of the Critics Association), the ITI Executive Council Members Tatjana Azman (Slovenia) and Apostolos Apostolides (Cyprus). From the General Secretariat Tobias Biancone, Chen Zhongwen and Aktina Stathaki participated in the meeting.

A member of UNESCO who was invited to Shanghai could not attend due to the General Assembly that happened at the same time at UNESCO in Paris. Cecile Guidote Alvarez (Philippines, ITI Executive Council Member), Wolfgang Schneider (Germany, honorary president of ASSITEJ), Hans-Georg Knopp (former leader of Goethe Institute international and of the Haus der Kulturen, Berlin) were not able to attend and will be consulted in the process of creating the call.

Meeting with Francesco Bandarin, UNESCO Assistant Director-General for Culture

In December 2015, the Director General ITI and Chen Zhongwen, Assistant of the DG and Director for Collaborations, met Francesco Bandarin to discuss different issues. One of them was the World Performing Arts Capital. He underlined that we should include a member of his team in the creation of the criteria and the call to cities over the world. Having UNESCO in the name confirms that the project is following the UNESCO goals and programmes. The DG stressed that this was the idea of the collaboration in the first place and that ITI will follow his advice. The Capital will be mainly of benefit for the performing arts and its artists.

Next Steps

The experts' group and the General Secretariat are preparing a proposal for the criteria for the call. After that they will meet with UNESCO and include their ideas before the call will be launched.

UNESCO Artists for Peace

ITI is proud to have two UNESCO Artists for Peace.

The Earthsavers led by the ITI Spokesperson for UN and UNESCO, Cecile Guidote Alvarez from the Philippines is showing with her activities and project on how theatre and the arts in general can be used to allivate poverty, to care for the climate and to create a bridge with the arts for mutual understanding and peace.

Ali Mahdi Nouri from Sudan is a strong voice for promoting the arts in the Arab world and is using the arts to bring mutual understanding in conflict zones. He is leading workshops all over the world, for example in the US, in the Netherlands and in Japan.

Cecile Guidote Alvarez and Ali Mahdi Nouri are well connected with UNESCO and with Irina Bokova, Director General of UNESCO as can be seen in the pictures here. They are participating regularly in the events in Paris, convened by the Director General of UNESCO.

After the Yerevan Congress, the main focus of the General Secretariat was to relocate the office to Shanghai. In Paris the costs were increasing due to ending the contracts with all the staff, and for paying indemnities according to the law of France. From January 1st UNESCO did not offer the space for free to most of the NGOs in the "Batiment ONG" at 1 Rue Miollis. ITI had to pay rent (2000 Euros/month). As (it was clear that) ITI had moved the management to Shanghai, it was decided that ITI would rent a smaller room in the better-equipped Bonvin Building, thus reducing the monthly rent to 500 Euros.

Thanks to the Shanghai Municipality ITI was able to relocate to Shanghai. The authorities are covering mainly the salaries, the operational costs and the rent. The Shanghai Theatre Academy is assisting ITI in matters of employment, resident and work permit and in all legal aspects that concern finances, contracts and the related procedures. The system of handling contracts, employment, health insurance, other insurance, taxes and other administrative issues is similar to the one of France.

In addition to the financial assistance that ITI received through the Shanghai authorities, there was a budget for relocation that covered one-time costs, i.e. moving the material of staff to Shanghai, moving the essential office material of ITI to Shanghai, the renovation for the new office, office furniture, and office machines and material.

Shanghai Theatre Academy staff from different departments (administration, legal affairs, financial bureau and international relations) were of great assistance for the procedures in China. From ITI General Secretariat, Chen Zhongwen and Guo Ping and in Paris, Renaud Mesini dealt with the accounts, budgets, etc.

With a bigger budget for the headquarters, ITI will be able to advance well into the future and increase the short- and long-term efforts to strengthen and enlarge the organization of ITI for the benefit of the Centres, Regional Councils, Committees, Forums, Networks, Project Groups and all ITI members, performing artists, the performing arts, for UNESCO and society.

First ITI Charter of 1948, current ITI Charter, new ITI
Charter for the future

In the 140th Executive Council Session the members discussed the further development of the Charter of ITI. It was decided that the Charter should be modernized and adapted to the needs of the Performing Arts of today, step by step. The Working Group consisted of Ann Mari Engel (Sweden) – Vice President for Europe and of Aposotolos Apostolides (Cyprus) – Treasurer of ITI, as well as the Director-General of ITI. The main changes consisted in:

1. Putting accent on the fact that ITI is an organization for the Performing Arts – as already mentioned in the Charter since its beginning;
2. Clarifying the difference between the terms “Congress” and “General Assembly”; and
3. (in) changing the definition of what is a Cooperating Member in formulating the text in alignment with the UNESCO Convention for Cultural Diversity.

In the 143rd Executive Council Session the changes of the charter were discussed, the input was integrated and the proposal for the changes was finalized.

At the beginning of September 2016 the Charter with the changes that were approved by the EC will be sent in English and French to all Centres for discussion and input. The final proposal will be submitted at next ITI World Congress for approval by the General Assembly.

Shanghai.

The Structure of the Organization

For quite a long time the structure of the organization did not change. The Charter of ITI was overhauled once in the late nineties but since then it has been changed only when it was needed due to legal demands or to demands from its members. (More information about it in the chapter "Legal Aspects of ITI", page 130).

The structure of ITI:

- General Assembly (with Centres as the sole voting members, assembled during the ITI World Congress)
- Centres (with own Charters in alignment with the goals of ITI)
- Cooperating Members (internationally working in alignment with the goals of ITI)
- Project Groups (Committees, Forums and Groups, with an own structure, office bearers, president, chairperson, spokesperson, general secretary, etc.)
- Working Groups (mainly short term working groups organized with members of the Executive Council and experts)
- Executive Council EC
- Executive Board EB (elected by the Executive Council with a president, vice-presidents, secretary and treasurer and other members of the Executive Council)
- General Secretariat with the Director General and its staff (the General Secretariat is the headquarters of ITI)

ITI also has Honorary Presidents, Honorary Members and the World Theatre Ambassadors that are using their position to promote ITI on a voluntary basis.

Many More Movers

Together with many unnamed members of ITI these persons were the main “movers” of the organization in the last three years.

Open to the Performing Arts Community

ITI is and should be an open organization that includes people from the performing arts communities all over the world. The members of ITI follow the goals of the organisation and they select their leaders, coordinators, chairperson, etc. in a democratic way – locally and globally.

Next Election

The next election of the Executive Council and of the Office Bearers of the Project Groups (Committees) is scheduled for the 35th ITI World Congress.

Theatre and Dance Partner Organizations

Comments

After 2008 ITI organized regular meetings for all Partner Organizations, until 2012. Due to the work overload for relocation, there was not enough time to organize a meeting at UNESCO with all Partner Organizations in the past two years.

That does not mean that there is not a close connection with some of them. Due to the fact that all of us are involved in theatre, theatre education or dance and dance education, meeting during conferences, invitations to conferences and congresses made it possible that with some of them the collaboration is going strong. Nevertheless it is important that these reunions are continued. And they will in the year to come.

Theatre Without Borders

In Memoriam

ITI is an initiative to bring about a world that is rich in culture and the arts, especially the performing arts – theatre, dance and music theatre in all its diverse forms. And ITI has always benefited by the initiative of some of its outstanding members – in its early stages and now. These are the members passed away, all of them were pioneers of ITI and/or extraordinary theatre personalities.

- Fernando Mier y Teran Garza, Mexico
- Martha Coigney, USA
- Fuad Al-Shatti, Kuwait
- Sir Arnold Wesker, United Kingdom - World Theatre Ambassador of ITI
- Reoti Sharan Sharma, India
- Refik Erduran, Turkey.
- José Sole, Mexico
- André-Louis Périnetti, France
- Nikos Sifkalis, Cyprus
- Syed Shamsul Haq, Bangladesh
- Dario Fo, Italy - World Theatre Day Message Author
- Tankred Dorst, Germany - World Theatre Day Message Author

ITI is missing their presence, their voice and their actions that they had brought to ITI.

Namaste, a respectful form of greeting in Hindu custom, expressed by a young person.

Dear Colleagues, dear friends,

After almost three years, it is time to reflect what happened with ITI. To be honest there was a time when I did not know how the General Secretariat could stay alive and active. The dark clouds of having no funds for paying salaries were casting shadows on the work at the headquarters in Paris. The issue was discussed in the Executive Council and the two-fold proposition – to find a donor or a location that pays the organizational costs, mainly the salaries and the office infrastructure, was decided. The search for a donor had a partial success in finding funds in Sharjah through Sheikh Dr. Sultan bin Mohamed Al-Qasimi, World Theatre Day Message Author 2007, and through the initiative of the current President of ITI, Mohamed Saif Al-Afkham who received additional funds in Fujairah from Sheikh Hamad bin Mohamed Al-Sharqi, from Sheikh Dr. Rashid bin Hamad Al-Sharqi and from the Fujairah Culture and Media Authorities.

The funds received from these eminent personalities pushed away the dark clouds and on behalf of ITI I would like to express my gratitude to both rulers and to Mohamed Al-Afkham.

Hong Kong, Macao and Shanghai were the cities where I was looking for the possibility of hosting ITI. ITI was following the examples of the Partner Organizations OISTAT (Scenographers) and ASSITEJ (Theatre for Children and the Young) which found cities that pay salaries and infrastructure.

The interest of Asia to give us the possibility of offering the funds for the management and the location, was quite high. Due to the initiative of Professor Lou Wei, Chairman of the Shanghai Theatre Academy, and Weng Tiehui, Vice-Mayor for Education and Culture of Shanghai, as well as the chairman of the Jing'an District, Sun Jianping, a solution was found with the Shanghai authorities.

On behalf of ITI, I would like to express my gratitude to Professor Lou Wei, Vice-Mayor Weng Tiehui and District Chairman Sun Jianping, as well as to all the persons in Shanghai and in China who are caring for ITI and played a part in the relocation.

My deep gratitude goes also to all the Executive Council members. Before all, I would like to thank the President, Mohamed Saif Al-Afkham for his guidance and care. Then, having four Vice-Presidents actually makes my job easier – all of them are in contact with me and give me excellent advice: Ann Mari Engel, Emily Cachapero, Ji Guoping and Hamadou Mandé. Thanks a lot. In these thanks, I would like to include Ali Mahdi Nouri, the Secretary of ITI, and Apostolos Apostolidis, the Treasurer of ITI. My huge thanks go to Executive Council members Alfira Arslanova, Tatjana Azman, Daniel Bausch, Carlos Celdran, Cecile Guidote-Alvarez, Le Quy Doung, Joachim Lux, Marcio Souza and Fabio Tolledi. With each and every one of the Executive Council I am in close communication, and discuss with them ITI related themes – from publications to committees, from artistic to humanistic issues, from Congress to educational issues, from Theatre of Nations to the new Stage Directors Network, from future Congresses to structural issues.

I also would like to express my gratitude to my Paris staff: Petya Hristova, Zoé Simard and Barbara Steinbeck for their continuing assistance. Their decision not to relocate to Shanghai is fully respected. Their dedication to and engagement with ITI is appreciated. I would to include in the thanks also Renaud Mesini, our accountant in France who assisted ITI in all the complicated issues of ending the contracts and who continues to help us when we have an event in Paris or when we have to deal with accounts in France. Thanks go also to Susan Plattner who assisted the Headquarters to find new staff.

Huge thanks go to my new staff who are working with me in Shanghai. Above all, I would like to thank Chen Zhongwen. She returned home to Shanghai after living and studying in Paris for eight years. Her understanding of Chinese culture and especially of the Chinese way of dealing with daily issues, eases the way to work here as she understand how things are done or not done here. As she developed already an educational institution in Shanghai in the past she brings the know-how of how to establish an organization like ITI. Her dedication to ITI is an asset.

I would also like to thank all the staff working at 1332 Xinzha Road: Tang Yiming, he is integrating well and is a real multitasker; Guo Ping, who deals with the accounting in a perfect way; Malory Domecyn who works for ITI as a communication officer, and makes sure that French speaking ITI Members can read this report in their language; Tom Johnson who is a fast learning, intelligent person who makes sure that the DG's and the General Secretariat's texts are correctly put together, clear and easy to understand.

Last but not least, I would like to thank all ITI Members. ITI is like a beautiful empty vase. Each one of you, as an ITI Member is putting in the flowers that creates the "bouquet of flowers" which makes us aware of the rich performing arts culture in this world. Your dedication to the performing arts and for ITI makes ITI colourful and valuable. By creating your events and by doing your actions under the banner of ITI, you are bringing the importance of ITI to the audience, to the people. By your actions you make the world a culturally rich world, you bring people of all walks of life together, you are building bridges, and step by step you create mutual understanding and peace in your sphere of influence.

And this two last UNESCO and ITI values – mutual understanding and peace – are essentially needed in the world we live in today.

Once more: Thank you very much, merci beaucoup, muito obrigado, shukraan jazilaan, fēicháng gǎnxiè, bol'shoje spasibo, muchas gracias, vielen Dank – from the bottom of my heart
