Find out what viewpoints and ideas on dance the two invited remarkable people – Gregory Maqoma and Aja Jung - will share with you.

The Guests

Aja Jung from Serbia is a celebrated dancer, educator and director of internationally extremely well respected Belgrade Dance Festival.

Gregory Maqoma from South Africa is known to friends and members of ITI as the author of the International Dance Day Message 2020. He has established himself as an internationally renowned dancer, actor, choreographer, teacher and director.

The Idea Behind the Dialogue

"Many of us have participated in numerous online discussions and online meetings in which people shared their viewpoints with the audience. Sometimes, I felt that I would love to hear more from some of the persons, but due to the large number of participants that was not possible. Sometimes, I would like to know from some speakers what they consider essential for their work and what they believe is necessary for the future of their profession, for the future of their art form, for the future of society. But it was clear that the existing formats that I was able to watch could not offer this. That is why, together with my team in Shanghai, we have conceived a new format called "In Dialogue with Remarkable People." (Tobias Biancone)

In each edition, one to two persons are in dialogue with the host. In each edition the dialogue concentrates on a major theme such as theatre, dance, education, social theatre, culture and the arts, etc. The dialogue should be illustrated by videos and pictures of their work. It should last about 1 to 1 ½ hours, the language spoken is English.

Questions & Answers

Questions of the audience can be sent before or during the "Dialogue" to the General Secretariat of ITI so that at the end some of the questions can be taken up by the host and by the guests.

For questions to the host and guests of the first edition, please write before or during the online interview to: general.secretariat@iti-worldwide.org
